Deadlock Is Broken On Peace Conference Issues

Invitations Will Be Sent Out By France

French Compromise Proposal Is Adopted By Foreign Ministers

VICTORY FOR U. S. AND GREAT BRITAIN

Barring Unforeseen Difficulties Parley Will Open On July 29

By JOSEPH DYNAN

PARIS, July 8. (AP)—The four-power foreign ministers broke their deadlock on peace conference procedural issues tonight and authorized France to send out invitations tomorrow for the 21-nation general European peace conference.

The ministers adopted a French compromise proposal providing that a few simple rules of procedure, to be considered as suggestions only, would accompany the invitations to the conference, American informants said.

This action represented a victory for Britain and the United States which had held out against binding the peace conference with mandatory rules of procedure as the Russians originally had demanded.

Private Session Held

Breaking of the log-jam came after almost eight hours of negotiations including a private session which lasted for more than five hours.

The agreement on the procedure issue apparently removed the last obstacle to formal convocation of the peace conference to examine proposed treaties with Italy, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria and Finland by the Allied nations which participated in the war against them.

Barring further unforeseen difficulties, the peace conference will open July 29 in Luxembourg palace, prewar seat of the French senate.

On a motion by United States Secretary of State James F. Byrnes the foreign ministers agreed to accord France the same status on all peace conference committees she enjoyed in the current ministers' sessions. This means that French representatives will sit on all commissions, but without the right to vote except in groups concerned with the Italian treaty.

China Will Attend

Under tonight's agreements China will not be included as an inviting power but will attend the conference as an invited nation.

Under suggested rules of procedure as proposed by Georges Bidault, French president and foreign minister, the conference will designate a steering committee, composed of representatives of each delegation, whose decisions will be taken by a two-third majority vote.

The right of the peace conference to amend or suspend its rules will be recognized. The conference will include five political commissions, one for each treaty, and two economic commissions, one for Italy and one for the Balkans as a group, American informants said.

The political commissions will be comprised of representatives of nations which had been at war with the former enemy state involved.

Charged With Murder

WINDSOR, Ont., July 8 (AP) — Eighteen-year-old Ronald Sears, alleged fatal slasher of two men on Windsor's riverfront, was formally charged today with murder in both instances and with three attempted murders.

The charges were brought by Crown Attorney E. C. Awrey following police questioning of Sears since the arrest of the good-looking, well-mannered youth at his home in the waterfront district Saturday night.

Former RAF Man Charged With Murder

George Heath Is Held In Connection With Slaying Of Woman

LONDON, July 8 (AP)—Scotland Yard charged George Neville Heath, handsome former RAF pilot, with murder today in the slaying of a pretty movie extra and combed a wide section of Southern England for the strangler of little Sheila Martin, 11-year-old Fawkham schoolgirl.

Sixth female victim of a month-long crime wave, the girl was strangled, a home office pathologist reported after examining her body. It had lain undisturbed since found at 1:45 a. m. today face down in a clump of nettles.

The discovery of this crime spurred the search for Miss Doreen Margaret Marshall, beautiful 21-year-old Middlesex girl, who disappeared last Wednesday after a champagne dinner with a man in a hotel at the fashionable South coast resort of Bournemouth.

Police arrested Heath in Bournemouth late Saturday after a two-weeks' search that had extended to the continent.

Smartly dressed in sports clothes, Heath was led to the dock in West London police court this afternoon and charged with the murder of Margery Gardner, 33, whose nude, mutilated body was found in a London West End hotel.

A hearing was set for July 23.

Twelve-year-old Joan Drinkwater, "the singing school girl," was found shot and beaten to death on a lonely Welsh country road near her home of Penllergaer on June 28.

The Rev. Glyn Davies, vicar of Penllergaer, appealed to villagers last night to "think and think hard" of any little incident that might help solve the slaying of Joan.

"One of us, although we may not realize it, may know something that would give them (the police) a vital link", he told his congregation.

Livestock Prices Continue To Jump

CHICAGO, July 8. (AP)—Livestock receipts continued sharply higher today, prices on cattle and hogs generally rose, but industry spokesmen differed as to the dollars and cents effect on the housewife consumer.

Cattle poured into the Chicago market at the highest rate since last Oct. 29. At Milwaukee a top price of $22 a hundred pounds was reported as the highest ever paid there.

In New York Jack Kranis, president of the National Meat Industry Council, said he had been informed large packers were "billing wholesalers for beef at an average price 12 cents a pound higher than the last OPA ceilings."

John Holmes, president of Swift and Company, Chicago meat packing concern, said in a statement his company's "prices on meats to its customers are unchanged from levels prevailing prior to July 1 except that the company is adding the amount of the subsidies which the government has withdrawn."

The American Meat Institute said subsidies averaged about five cents a pound.

A spokesman for Armour and Company said in a statement the company "has this week charged selling prices to compensate the loss of subsidies.

"Our future pricing policy will be calculated to recover the actual cost, plus only such modest profit as has been earned in the past. This has averaged to be about one cent on each dollar of sales, an amount which has a negligible influence on meat prices."

Kranis said the large packers were "buying everything in sight" on the

L. W. Fields Says May Promoted Timberland Deal

Claims Congressman Had "Proper Contacts" For Securing War Contracts

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP) — L. W. Fields, of Whitesburg, Ky., told Senate war profits investigators today that Rep. Andrew J. May (D-Ky) promoted a timberland deal in 1943 on representations that he had the proper contacts for war contracts and that "we'd both draw big salaries."

The testimony, before the Mead War Investigating committee, came near the close of a day which saw May, chairman of the House Military committee, complain bitterly that he was the victim of a "conspiracy of falsehood and malice."

May told the House that "truth crushed to earth will rise again," and denied that he profited in any way from the operations of an Illinois munitions combine now under investigation before the Mead group.

Red Army Evicts 54,000 Germans From Austria

By LYNN HEINZERLING

VIENNA, July 8. (AP)—Hundreds of families were herded into trucks and loaded into boxcars today as the Red army began a systematic eviction from the Soviet zone of Austria of 54,000 Germans and other non-Austrians.

The program began shortly after 6 a. m., deadline set in the order suddenly announced by the Russians yesterday.

The Austrian ministry of the interior said it had ordered police not to assist the Russians in dispossessing any person who had come to the country before March 13, 1938, or who had acquired Austrian citizenship. However, Austrian police in some areas were pressed into service by the Red army, the ministry said.

Austrian government sources said their reports from the provinces of Burgenland and Lower Austria were incomplete, because communications were out to some points and at others, the mayors were under arrest.

These sources said, however, that 900 persons were moved out of Horn in Lower Austria and 700 out of Mistelbach.

According to these reports, these families were put in open trucks and moved to railroad yards. There they were loaded into the box cars. Each person was permitted to take 30 pounds of belongings.

The Russians are expected to move the deportees through the repatriation camp at Melk in the Soviet zone. They must pass through the American zone in both Austria and Germany to reach the French zone of Germany, where they are scheduled to be resettled.

23-YEAR-OLD DIVORCEE BECOMES BRIDE OF RETIRED BUILDER, 84

John S. Smith Weds Dorris M. Akins At Coral Gables, Florida

CORAL GABLES, Fla., July 8 (AP) —An 84-year-old retired builder and a 23-year-old divorcee whom he had known since she was a child of three, were married here today in the presence of the bride's mother.

John S. Smith, who came to Miami Beach during the "boom" days of 1925 from Canton, O., claimed as his bride pretty Dorris M. Akins, who divorced her first husband June 27 on grounds of desertion.

The couple planned to motor to nearby Fort Lauderdale to avoid publicity, but changed their minds at the last minute and instead drove to the office of Justice of the Peace O. B. Sutton.

There, in the presence of Mrs. Steva E. Taylor, mother of the bride, and Mrs. J. E. Hendley, they were married.

The couple did not embrace until after the ceremony. While Judge Sutton was signing the license, the bride, who stood nearly a head taller than the aged bridegroom, leaned over and planted a kiss on his face.

By changing their wedding plans, the couple avoided a possible reprimand by Judge Boyd Anderson, of Broward county, who was to have performed the ceremony.

"I hope the old fellow doesn't show up," Judge Anderson told newsmen who waited at his office to witness the ceremony. "I don't liwke freak marriages. I maried a couple 79 and 76 years old last week, but that was all right.

"I was going to argue with them, but since neither of their families objected, I would marry them. They're old enough to know their minds, any way."

"We have common interests and we enjoy each other's company," said the bride, who disclosed they first began discussing marriage about seven weeks ago. "So why not marry? We like to take long rides; we like to play cards, but most important, we like each other."

O'Conor May Call Special Session On Rent Control

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 8 (AP) — Governor O'Conor disclosed today he had been advised that rent-control legislation would be constitutional in Maryland and said he would call a special session of the legislature to enact such a measure if it becomes necessary.

He said the state law department "definitely inclined to the view that it would be constitutional to have a statute or amendment of existing laws, if necessary, for rent control."

Although he refused to say specifically what powers such legislation would give the proposed new fair-rent committees, the governor said he was awaiting detailed reports on the functioning of a similar commission which operated during 1941-42 and recommendations from various organizations on whom he should appoint to such a committee.

He also said he was watching congressional action to revive federal legislation on the subject.

Hans Froehlicher, Jr., president of the Citizens' Planning and Housing Association, wrote the governor today, calling for a "system of state rent control which will make use of the OPA rent division which is already in existence."

Froehlicher said the association was "an organization of over 500 leading citizens which owes no obligation to race, creed or party," devoting its time to the study of improvement of housing in the Baltimore metropolitan area.

Meanwhile, the People's Court in Baltimore reported that 85 thirty-day eviction notices were sent out today by local landlords. That figure is exceeded by only two other days since OPA's demise. On Tuesday and Wednesday of last week, 107 and 129 notices were issued respectively.

Hughes' Condition Termed Critical By His Physician

CULVER CITY, Calif., July 8 (AP) —Despite his critical condition and against his doctor's orders, Howard Hughes held a hurried conference with business associates today in Good Samaritan hospital where he was taken after the crash and explosion of his XF-11 plane yesterday in Beverly Hills.

Glen Odekirk and John Meyers, executives of the Hughes Aircraft Company, were at the millionaire movie and airplane maker's bedside until physicians advised them that Hughes must not have visitors.

Later, a sheriff's deputy was posted outside Hughes' room with orders to admit no one except the nurse on duty.

Condition Is Critical

Dr. Verne Mason's noon bulletin pronounced Hughes' condition critical and added:

"Constant oxygen is being administered. Profound shock during the night necessitated two transfusions and treatment for rapid fall of blood pressure.

The physician's official diagnosis said Hughes' injuries included a possible skull fracture, eight broken ribs, broken left shoulder, broken nose, innumerable contusions and several severe burns.

Hughes' plane, the XF-11, which he designed and built for the army air forces for long-range photographic reconnaissance, struck and set afire three houses and a garage in Beverly Hills before it exploded in a vacant lot. It landed less than 100 feet from an automobile in which Lana Turner's mother and the actress' daughter Cheryl Christine Crane were riding. Miss Turner, whom Hughes has been squiring lately, was not in the auto, which was driven by Lana's former husband, Steve Crane.

House Takes Up Senate Version Of British Loan

Truman Says Defeat Of Bill Would Imperil World Economic Co-operation

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP)—The $3,750,000,000 British loan cleared its first barrier in the House on a 181 to 67 vote today after President Truman wrote that its defeat would imperil the United Nations plan for world economic co-operation.

The vote came on a motion to put the Senate-approved legislation formally before the House for a four-hour debate.

It gave no accurate measure of the opposition's strength, for the loan's opponents split on an attempt by some members to block consideration and sweep the bill from the floor. Several foes of the loan voted for the rule presenting the measure to the House.

Byrnes Sends Cable

Mr. Truman declared that "without this (loan) agreement it will be difficult, if not impossible to proceed with the United Nations program for economic co-operation."

With some administration leaders voicing concern that the ratification bill might fail, Secretary of State Byrnes cabled from Paris an appeal to the House for ratification.

"The British loan is the first essential economic step toward peace and security," Byrnes said.

Airplane Pilots Entitled To More Pay, Board Says

WASHINGTON, July 8. (AP)—A presidential emergency board recommended today a pay increase of $750 a year for first pilots in international airline service.

The board was created in an effort to avert a threatened strike by pilots on Transcontinental and Western Air Lines, Inc., (TWA). It suggested that its findings provide a pattern for all the major airlines.

The board recommended that the existing formula for computing pilots pay, established in 1941, should be extended to brackets of speed above 200 miles per hour.

It also recommended that the hourly pay brackets in the formula be increased by 20 cents for each additional 25 miles flown per hour by first pilots in the domestic service.

Other recommendations:

1. A mileage rate of one half cent per mile should be added to the existing pay of co-pilots for all monthly mileages of 12,000 miles or more flown at speeds in excess of 100 miles per hour in domestic service.

2. A composite hourly rate of $1 per hour should be paid for day and night flying for co-pilots in international service, who also would receive one cent a mile for all monthly mileages of 12,000 or more flown in speeds in excess of 100 miles an hour.

3. An additional $25 a month for co-pilots in international service who qualify as navigators.

Thye Leads Shipstead For Senate

Is 5,000 Ahead Of Senator In Early Returns From Minnesota

BULLETIN

MINNEAPOLIS, July 8 (AP)—Returns from 571 of 3,706 precincts in Minnesota for the Republican nomination for United States Senator give:

Shipstead 31,054.

Thye 50,040.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 8 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen-backed candidates for Republican nominations for senator and governor held steadily increasing leads as returns mounted tonight in Minnesota's primary election.

Gov. Edward J. Thye had a lead of 10,000 over four term veteran Senator Henrik Shipstead with nearly ten percent of the precincts reported while Luther W. Youngdahl, former supreme court justice, had an even greater lead over Hjalmar Petersen.

Returns from 287 precincts gave Thye 28,596 and Shipstead 18,979. Returns from 287 precincts gave Youngdahl 26,334 to 13,427 for Petersen.

Stassen, former governor who was Admiral William Halsey's flag secretary during World War II, was not a candidate and did not campaign actively but nevertheless was a major issue himself because he endorsed candidates in the hot contests for United States senator and governor.

Handpicked Thye

Stassen's foes declared he handpicked Governor Edward J. Thye for the senatorial race in opposition to Senator Henrik Shipstead. They also asserted that he prevailed upon Luther W. Youngdahl to resign as associate justice of the state supreme court and oppose former Governor Hjalmar Petersen for the gubernatorial nomination.

Opponents of Stassen maintained that he was attempting to build a political machine in order to strengthen his expected bid for the presidential nomination two years hence. And they chided him for failure to become a candidate himself, saying he was chary of a personal showdown with Shipstead.

In this connection they pointed to Stassen's advocacy of international co-operation. Shipstead, on the other hand, not only voted against the United Nations charter but also against the $3,750,000,000 British loan.

Victory for Thye would recover for Stassen much of the prestige he

White House Terms Mrs. Ryan's Pardon By Truman "Routine"

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP) — President Truman's action in restoring civil rights to Mrs. Frances Ryan, one-time member of the old Kansas City Pendergast machine who served a prison term for election fraud, was described as "routine" today by the White House.

Mrs. Ryan, Democratic ward leader, was one of several persons convicted in the 1936 Kansas City vote fraud case. She served 21 months of a three-year term and was paroled. In Kansas City Saturday she said she had been granted a presidential pardon.

Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross told reporters today that President Truman signed the order "with a batch of others" and that the action was "almost an automatic procedure."

"The name meant nothing to him at all," said Ross, adding that the president did not know who the woman was until appearance of the stories over the weekend.

Ross said Mr. Truman acted on the recommendation of the attorney general, the district attorney at Kansas City, and Federal Judge Reeves of Kansas City who sentenced Mrs. Ryan.

Barkley Asks Compromise Revival Bill

Taft Urges Passage Of Measure Vetoed By President Truman

O'DANIEL IS READY FOR "LONG" SPEECH

Wherry Amendment Would Exempt Meat And Dairy Products

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP) — A showdown fight over price controls opened in the Senate today with Democratic Leader Barkley (D-Ky) appealing for a compromise OPA revival bill and Senator Taft (R-Ohio) urging the chamber to send back to President Truman the bill he vetoed.

Senator Wherry (R-Neb) maneuvered for a later test vote an amendment to leave controls off meat, poultry and dairy products.

And Senator O'Daniel (D-Tex), who filibustered against the original bill which President Truman vetoed, walked in with a bulky armful of papers and announced he is prepared to speak at length "after the other senators get tired of talking."

Night Sessions

As the Senate quit for the day, Barkley announced that he hopes a vote will be reached tomorrow on the Wherry amendment. Barkley said night sessions will be held in an effort to speed a final decision on the bill.

Barkley launched what may be more than a week's debate in a vigorous verbal clash with Taft over the veto, the new measure and price administration in general.

While long lines of spectators awaited their turn at crowded galleries, Taft contended hotly that Congress ought to stand by its guns, send back to the White House the same bill that was vetoed and let Mr. Truman decide "whether he wants it or no OPA at all."

Barkley replied this would be an "intransigent" attitude. He added that to obtain any legislation, it would be necessary for Congress and the president to come to some agreement.

Omits Two Amendments

Observing that he has every reason to believe that "we will secure a fairly workable bill," Barkley said he is fairly certain the president would sign the revival bill in its present form.

Under a crossfire of questions by Taft, Barkley conceded he had made no attempt to meet all the presidential objections to thep rovisions of the vetoed bill in drafting the revival measure now before the Senate. In fact, he said, it is the same bill, except for substitute provisions for amendments by Taft and Wherry that Mr. Truman called the "most damaging" sections of the rejected legislation.

Aleman Is Leading In Mexican Returns

MEXICO CITY, July 8 (AP) — Miguel Aleman, presidential candidate of the government-supported institutional Revolutionary party (PRI), led tonight in first official returns from yesterday's election which apparently was the first free and peaceful balloting in Mexico's history.

Newspapers and officials said it was fairly certain that Aleman would be Mexico's next president although his party was losing in many congressional races.

Returns from 25 of 194 precincts in the federal district, which includes Mexico City and its suburbs, gave Aleman 13,558 votes to 11,613 for his strongest rival, Ezequiel Padilla, candidate of the Mexican Democratic Party (PDM).

Special Session Of Grand Jury To Probe Athletic Club Robbery

BALTIMORE, July 8 (AP)—A special session of the Baltimore City grand jury was convened today to sift the rumors from the facts in an investigation of the Fourth of July hold-up of the Century Athletic Club.

Eleven witnesses were called to testify about the hold-up, which reportedly occurred with an underworld flourish when four gunmen entered the club, stripped the pockets of 23 members and made away with a sum variously estimated at from $35,000 to $60,000.

Police Officials Summoned

Six of the witnesses summoned by State's Attorney J. Bernard Wells were police officials. The others were civilians, including Lou Fisher, fight promoter and an officer of the club, frequented by members of Baltimore's "sporting" fraternity.

Before the grand jury was convened, a 21-state alarm had been sent out for four men alleged to have taken part in the hold-up, and the affair was given official cognizance for the first time since the rumors began to fly Thursday.

Police Commissioner Hamilton R. Atkinson, returning to the city after a weekend trip, disclosed that the police department had an official report on the case. He declined to release or to disclose the report, however.

"There is an official report of the case in the hands of the police department, but a release of the identity of the victims would seriously interfere with the investigation now under way," he said.

Reluctance of the victims to talk either through fear of reprisals or an unwillingness to admit how much they had lost—had occasioned many wild rumors.

Used Out-Of-State Car

Generally accepted reports from sources reputedly "in the know" said the gunmen entered the club in mid-afternoon, produced sawed-off

Blacklist Of Firms On Trading With U. S. During War Abolished

WASHINGTON, July 8. (AP)—The United States abolished today its blacklist of firms and persons forbidden to trade with this country because they were alleged to have aided the enemy during the war.

From a wartime peak of 15,446, the list had been whittled down to 5,887 names.

The British and Canadian governments simultaneously withdrew almost identical rosters.

"The withdrawal of the proclaimed list," the State department said in a formal announcement, "does not in any way constitute a termination of or slackening of the program for the permanent elimination of axis external influences either in this hemisphere or in the Eastern hemisphere."

Several inter-American agreements, the latest the 1945 Act of Chapultepec, called for the American republics to eliminate axis influences in the Western hemisphere.

In Europe, arrangements have been made with Switzerland and Sweden to liquidate German owned or controlled interests in those countries. Acting Secretary of State Dean Acheson told a news conference discussions of similar agreements with Spain and Portugal will be intensified soon.

He conceded, in response to a question, that abolishing the blacklist weakened to some extent America's bargaining power with Spain and Portugal. But, he said, other talking points which he did not care to name, still remain.

The State department announcement said abolition of the blacklist does not unfreeze the accounts in this country of all persons formerly on the list.

Nor does withdrawal of the list imply, the department said, that all persons formally on it "are regarded as satisfactory agents for American business."

Red Army Evicts 54,000 Germans From Austria

By LYNN HEINZERLING

VIENNA, July 8. (AP)—Hundreds of families were herded into trucks and loaded into boxcars today as the Red army began a systematic eviction from the Soviet zone of Austria of 54,000 Germans and other non-Austrians.

The program began shortly after 6 a. m., deadline set in the order suddenly announced by the Russians yesterday.

The Austrian ministry of the interior said it had ordered police not to assist the Russians in dispossessing any person who had come to the country before March 13, 1938, or who had acquired Austrian citizenship. However, Austrian police in some areas were pressed into service by the Red army, the ministry said.

Austrian government sources said their reports from the provinces of Burgenland and Lower Austria were incomplete, because communications were out to some points and at others, the mayors were under arrest.

These sources said, however, that 900 persons were moved out of Horn in Lower Austria and 700 out of Mistelbach.

According to these reports, these families were put in open trucks and moved to railroad yards. There they were loaded into the box cars. Each person was permitted to take 30 pounds of belongings.

The Russians are expected to move the deportees through the repatriation camp at Melk in the Soviet zone. They must pass through the American zone in both Austria and Germany to reach the French zone of Germany, where they are scheduled to be resettled.

23-YEAR-OLD DIVORCEE BECOMES BRIDE OF RETIRED BUILDER, 84

John S. Smith Weds Dorris M. Akins At Coral Gables, Florida

CORAL GABLES, Fla., July 8 (AP) —An 84-year-old retired builder and a 23-year-old divorcee whom he had known since she was a child of three, were married here today in the presence of the bride's mother.

John S. Smith, who came to Miami Beach during the "boom" days of 1925 from Canton, O., claimed as his bride pretty Dorris M. Akins, who divorced her first husband June 27 on grounds of desertion.

The couple planned to motor to nearby Fort Lauderdale to avoid publicity, but changed their minds at the last minute and instead drove to the office of Justice of the Peace O. B. Sutton.

There, in the presence of Mrs. Steva E. Taylor, mother of the bride, and Mrs. J. E. Hendley, they were married.

The couple did not embrace until after the ceremony. While Judge Sutton was signing the license, the bride, who stood nearly a head taller than the aged bridegroom, leaned over and planted a kiss on his face.

By changing their wedding plans, the couple avoided a possible reprimand by Judge Boyd Anderson, of Broward county, who was to have performed the ceremony.

"I hope the old fellow doesn't show up." Judge Anderson told newsmen who waited at his office to witness the ceremony. "I don't liwke freak marriages. I maried a couple 79 and 76 years old last week, but that was all right.

"I was going to argue with them, but since neither of their families objected, I would marry them. They're old enough to know their minds, any way."

"We have common interests and we enjoy each other's company," said the bride, who disclosed they first began discussing marriage about seven weeks ago. "So why not marry? We like to take long rides; we like to play cards, but most important, we like each other."

O'Conor May Call Special Session On Rent Control

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 8 (AP) — Governor O'Conor disclosed today he had been advised that rent-control legislation would be constitutional in Maryland and said he would call a special session of the legislature to enact such a measure if it becomes necessary.

He said the state law department "definitely inclined to the view that it would be constitutional to have a statute or amendment of existing laws, if necessary, for rent control."

Although he refused to say specifically what powers such legislation would give the proposed new fair-rent committees, the governor said he was awaiting detailed reports on the functioning of a similar commission which operated during 1941-42 and recommendations from various organizations on whom he should appoint to such a committee.

He also said he was watching congressional action to revive federal legislation on the subject.

Hans Froehlicher, Jr., president of the Citizens' Planning and Housing Association, wrote the governor today, calling for a "system of state rent control which will make use of the OPA rent division which is already in existence."

Froehlicher said the association was "an organization of over 500 leading citizens which owes no obligation to race, creed or party," devoting its time to the study of improvement of housing in the Baltimore metropolitan area.

Meanwhile, the People's Court in Baltimore reported that 85 thirty-day eviction notices were sent out today by local landlords. That figure is exceeded by only two other days since OPA's demise. On Tuesday and Wednesday of last week, 107 and 129 notices were issued respectively.

Hughes' Condition Termed Critical By His Physician

CULVER CITY, Calif., July 8 (AP) —Despite his critical condition and against his doctor's orders, Howard Hughes held a hurried conference with business associates today in Good Samaritan hospital where he was taken after the crash and explosion of his XF-11 plane yesterday in Beverly Hills.

Glen Odekirk and John Meyers, executives of the Hughes Aircraft Company, were at the millionaire movie and airplane maker's bedside until physicians advised them that Hughes must not have visitors.

Later, a sheriff's deputy was posted outside Hughes' room with orders to admit no one except the nurse on duty.

Condition Is Critical

Dr. Verne Mason's noon bulletin pronounced Hughes' condition critical and added:

"Constant oxygen is being administered. Profound shock during the night necessitated two transfusions and treatment for rapid fall of blood pressure.

The physician's official diagnosis said Hughes' injuries included a possible skull fracture, eight broken ribs, broken left shoulder, broken nose, innumerable contusions and several severe burns.

Hughes' plane, the XF-11, which he designed and built for the army air forces for long-range photographic reconnaissance, struck and set afire three houses and a garage in Beverly Hills before it exploded in a vacant lot. It landed less than 100 feet from an automobile in which Lana Turner's mother and the actress' daughter Cheryl Christine Crane were riding. Miss Turner, whom Hughes has been squiring lately, was not in the auto, which was driven by Lana's former husband, Steve Crane.

House Takes Up Senate Version Of British Loan

Truman Says Defeat Of Bill Would Imperil World Economic Co-operation

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP)—The $3,750,000,000 British loan cleared its first barrier in the House on a 181 to 67 vote today after President Truman wrote that its defeat would imperil the United Nations plan for world economic co-operation.

The vote came on a motion to put the Senate-approved legislation formally before the House for a four-hour debate.

It gave no accurate measure of the opposition's strength, for the loan's opponents split on an attempt by some members to block consideration and sweep the bill from the floor. Several foes of the loan voted for the rule presenting the measure to the House.

Byrnes Sends Cable

Mr. Truman declared that "without this (loan) agreement it will be difficult, if not impossible to proceed with the United Nations program for economic co-operation."

With some administration leaders voicing concern that the ratification bill might fail, Secretary of State Byrnes cabled from Paris an appeal to the House for ratification.

"The British loan is the first essential economic step toward peace and security," Byrnes said.

Airplane Pilots Entitled To More Pay, Board Says

WASHINGTON, July 8. (AP)—A presidential emergency board recommended today a pay increase of $750 a year for first pilots in international airline service.

The board was created in an effort to avert a threatened strike by pilots on Transcontinental and Western Air Lines, Inc., (TWA). It suggested that its findings provide a pattern for all the major airlines.

The board recommended that the existing formula for computing pilots pay, established in 1941, should be extended to brackets of speed above 200 miles per hour.

It also recommended that the hourly pay brackets in the formula be increased by 20 cents for each additional 25 miles flown per hour by first pilots in the domestic service.

Other recommendations:

1. A mileage rate of one half cent per mile should be added to the existing pay of co-pilots for all monthly mileages of 12,000 miles or more flown at speeds in excess of 100 miles per hour in domestic service.

2. A composite hourly rate of $1 per hour should be paid for day and night flying for co-pilots in international service, who also would receive one cent a mile for all monthly mileages of 12,000 or more flown in speeds in excess of 100 miles an hour.

3. An additional $25 a month for co-pilots in international service who qualify as navigators.

BULLETIN

MINNEAPOLIS, July 8 (AP)—Returns from 571 of 3,706 precincts in Minnesota for the Republican nomination for United States Senator give:

Shipstead 31,054.

Thye 50,040.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 8 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen-backed candidates for Republican nominations for senator and governor held steadily increasing leads as returns mounted tonight in Minnesota's primary election.

Gov. Edward J. Thye had a lead of 10,000 over four term veteran Senator Henrik Shipstead with nearly ten percent of the precincts reported while Luther W. Youngdahl, former supreme court justice, had an even greater lead over Hjalmar Petersen.

Returns from 287 precincts gave Thye 28,596 and Shipstead 18,979. Returns from 287 precincts gave Youngdahl 26,334 to 13,427 for Petersen.

Stassen, former governor who was Admiral William Halsey's flag secretary during World War II, was not a candidate and did not campaign actively but nevertheless was a major issue himself because he endorsed candidates in the hot contests for United States senator and governor.

Handpicked Thye

Stassen's foes declared he handpicked Governor Edward J. Thye for the senatorial race in opposition to Senator Henrik Shipstead. They also asserted that he prevailed upon Luther W. Youngdahl to resign as associate justice of the state supreme court and oppose former Governor Hjalmar Petersen for the gubernatorial nomination.

Opponents of Stassen maintained that he was attempting to build a political machine in order to strengthen his expected bid for the presidential nomination two years hence. And they chided him for failure to become a candidate himself, saying he was chary of a personal showdown with Shipstead.

In this connection they pointed to Stassen's advocacy of international co-operation. Shipstead, on the other hand, not only voted against the United Nations charter but also against the $3,750,000,000 British loan.

Victory for Thye would recover for Stassen much of the prestige he

White House Terms Mrs. Ryan's Pardon By Truman "Routine"

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP) — President Truman's action in restoring civil rights to Mrs. Frances Ryan, one-time member of the old Kansas City Pendergast machine who served a prison term for election fraud, was described as "routine" today by the White House.

Mrs. Ryan, Democratic ward leader, was one of several persons convicted in the 1936 Kansas City vote fraud case. She served 21 months of a three-year term and was paroled. In Kansas City Saturday she said she had been granted a presidential pardon.

Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross told reporters today that President Truman signed the order "with a batch of others" and that the action was "almost an automatic procedure."

"The name meant nothing to him at all," said Ross, adding that the president did not know who the woman was until appearance of the stories over the weekend.

Ross said Mr. Truman acted on the recommendation of the attorney general, the district attorney at Kansas City, and Federal Judge Reeves of Kansas City who sentenced Mrs. Ryan.

Barkley Asks Compromise Revival Bill

O'DANIEL IS READY FOR "LONG" SPEECH

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP) — A showdown fight over price controls opened in the Senate today with Democratic Leader Barkley (D-Ky) appealing for a compromise OPA revival bill and Senator Taft (R-Ohio) urging the chamber to send back to President Truman the bill he vetoed.

Senator Wherry (R-Neb) maneuvered for a later test vote an amendment to leave controls off meat, poultry and dairy products.

And Senator O'Daniel (D-Tex), who filibustered against the original bill which President Truman vetoed, walked in with a bulky armful of papers and announced he is prepared to speak at length "after the other senators get tired of talking."

Night Sessions

As the Senate quit for the day, Barkley announced that he hopes a vote will be reached tomorrow on the Wherry amendment. Barkley said night sessions will be held in an effort to speed a final decision on the bill.

Barkley launched what may be more than a week's debate in a vigorous verbal clash with Taft over the veto, the new measure and price administration in general.

While long lines of spectators awaited their turn at crowded galleries, Taft contended hotly that Congress ought to stand by its guns, send back to the White House the same bill that was vetoed and let Mr. Truman decide "whether he wants it or no OPA at all."

Barkley replied this would be an "intransigent" attitude. He added that to obtain any legislation, it would be necessary for Congress and the president to come to some agreement.

Omits Two Amendments

Observing that he has every reason to believe that "we will secure a fairly workable bill," Barkley said he is fairly certain the president would sign the revival bill in its present form.

Under a crossfire of questions by Taft, Barkley conceded he had made no attempt to meet all the presidential objections to thep rovisions of the vetoed bill in drafting the revival measure now before the Senate. In fact, he said, it is the same bill, except for substitute provisions for amendments by Taft and Wherry that Mr. Truman called the "most damaging" sections of the rejected legislation.

Aleman Is Leading In Mexican Returns

MEXICO CITY, July 8 (AP) — Miguel Aleman, presidential candidate of the government-supported institutional Revolutionary party (PRI), led tonight in first official returns from yesterday's election which apparently was the first free and peaceful balloting in Mexico's history.

Newspapers and officials said it was fairly certain that Aleman would be Mexico's next president although his party was losing in many congressional races.

Returns from 25 of 194 precincts in the federal district, which includes Mexico City and its suburbs, gave Aleman 13,558 votes to 11,613 for his strongest rival, Ezequiel Padilla, candidate of the Mexican Democratic Party (PDM).

Special Session Of Grand Jury To Probe Athletic Club Robbery

BALTIMORE, July 8 (AP)—A special session of the Baltimore City grand jury was convened today to sift the rumors from the facts in an investigation of the Fourth of July hold-up of the Century Athletic Club.

Eleven witnesses were called to testify about the hold-up, which reportedly occurred with an underworld flourish when four gunmen entered the club, stripped the pockets of 23 members and made away with a sum variously estimated at from $35,000 to $60,000.

Police Officials Summoned

Six of the witnesses summoned by State's Attorney J. Bernard Wells were police officials. The others were civilians, including Lou Fisher, fight promoter and an officer of the club, frequented by members of Baltimore's "sporting" fraternity.

Before the grand jury was convened, a 21-state alarm had been sent out for four men alleged to have taken part in the hold-up, and the affair was given official cognizance for the first time since the rumors began to fly Thursday.

Police Commissioner Hamilton R. Atkinson, returning to the city after a weekend trip, disclosed that the police department had an official report on the case. He declined to release or to disclose the report, however.

"There is an official report of the case in the hands of the police department, but a release of the identity of the victims would seriously interfere with the investigation now under way," he said.

Reluctance of the victims to talk either through fear of reprisals or an unwillingness to admit how much they had lost—had occasioned many wild rumors.

Used Out-Of-State Car

Generally accepted reports from sources reputedly "in the know" said the gunmen entered the club in mid-afternoon, produced sawed-off

Blacklist Of Firms On Trading With U. S. During War Abolished

WASHINGTON, July 8. (AP)—The United States abolished today its blacklist of firms and persons forbidden to trade with this country because they were alleged to have aided the enemy during the war.

From a wartime peak of 15,446, the list had been whittled down to 5,887 names.

The British and Canadian governments simultaneously withdrew almost identical rosters.

"The withdrawal of the proclaimed list," the State department said in a formal announcement, "does not in any way constitute a termination of or slackening of the program for the permanent elimination of axis external influences either in this hemisphere or in the Eastern hemisphere."

Several inter-American agreements, the latest the 1945 Act of Chapultepec, called for the American republics to eliminate axis influences in the Western hemisphere.

In Europe, arrangements have been made with Switzerland and Sweden to liquidate German owned or controlled interests in those countries. Acting Secretary of State Dean Acheson told a news conference discussions of similar agreements with Spain and Portugal will be intensified soon.

He conceded, in response to a question, that abolishing the blacklist weakened to some extent America's bargaining power with Spain and Portugal. But, he said, other talking points which he did not care to name, still remain.

The State department announcement said abolition of the blacklist does not unfreeze the accounts in this country of all persons formerly on the list.

Nor does withdrawal of the list imply, the department said, that all persons formally on it "are regarded as satisfactory agents for American business."

2 PAINTERS TOPPLE DOWN SMOKESTACK; ONE IS KILLED

CHICAGO, July 8 (AP) — Smoke from a fresh fire dazed two painters atop a 125-foot smokestack today and sent them hurtling inside the tall column, one of them to his death.

Willard Carlan, 17, received hip and arm fractures and head injuries to which he succumbed a few hours after the accident. Lawrence Rader, 45, was burned about the eyes and legs. A third man working on a scaffold just outside the mouth of the stack was not overcome.

The men were cleaning, scraping and painting the interior of one of three stacks atop the Container Corporation of American power plant near the loop, when company firemen started a fire in the boiler. The firemen were unaware the men had resumed work begun last week.

The dense smoke choked Carlan and Rader, then made them unconscious. One fell into the blowers which supply the forced draft to the boiler furnaces. The other became fouled in ropes.

Company workmen, hearing cries from inside the stack, cut a hole in the smoke chamber with a welding torch and extricated one of the men. City firemen hauled the one entangled in the ropes to the top of the stack and lowered him in a boatswain's chair.

Kepner Urges Elks To Continue Fight Against Communism

NEW YORK, July 8 (AP) — Grand Exalted Ruler Wade H. Kepner, Wheeling, W. Va., urged 800,000 members of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks tonight to continue the order's fight against communism and to oppose any organizations such as the Ku Klux Klan.

Kepner addressed more than 2,000 persons at a meeting opening the first grand lodge convention of the Elks since Pearl Harbor. Delegates were present from the 48 states and Hawaii.

Discussing the position of the Elks with regard to communism, he said the order would fight "every foreign 'ism' of any kind that attempts to come to our shores, even if it comes from a nation which was our ally in war."

He rebuked the Klan, declaring that the order was against any organization that has to hide behind a sheet." He said the Elks would combat all influences seeking to undermine American institutions.

House Takes Up

House that "for the first time in 13 years I am unable to support the administration."

On the other hand, Rep. Smith (D-Va), who often differs with the administration on domestic matters, took the offensive in behalf of the loan.

"Don't measure this thing in dollars," he shouted. "Measure it in blood. Measure it in terms of peace."

On foreign affairs, Smith said, "I defer to the wiser counsel of those who are running our foreign policy," and he declared:

President Sends Letter

"Fred Vinson (then Treasury secretary and now chief justice) never sold the United States down the river, in negotiating this agreement. He was acting not for Great Britain or any other foreign power. He was acting for the United States."

The president, in a letter to Chairman Spence (D-NY) of the Banking committee pleaded for consideration of the loan by Democrats and Republicans on a non-political basis.

Rep. Buffett (R-Neb), one of the opposition leaders, called for defeat of the ratification bill, declaring it "moves us toward destruction by communism."

Declaring the money would be used to "expand socialism and state ownership" in Britain, he told the House:

"World War I established communism. World War II expanded communism over two continents. This loan may both bring on World War III and result in world triumph for communism. x x x"

Bennett Registers Kayo In Rough Ring Bout

BALTIMORE, July 8. (AP)—Howard Bennett scored a fifth-round kayo over Joe O'Connell tonight in one of the roughest fights local fans can recall.

Both local light-heavyweights set a fast pace from the opening gong until the fifth, when Bennett's right caught O'Connell squarely on the chin to send him to the canvas.

Referee Buddy McQuade ordered two of the four completed rounds scored in O'Connell's favor because of low blows, while the winner contributed to the roughouse by pushing his opponent several times, almost hurling him through the ropes one one occasion.

Bennett weighed 167; O'Connell 171½.

22 Horses From Mexico Will Run At New Track

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 8—(AP)—Twenty-two race horses from Mexico will run during the inaugural meeting of the new Atlantic City track, which opens July 22.

Among them will be Height O'Land, winner of the rich handicap De Las Americas; Seeing Eye, 1944 Mexican Derby winner; Be Fearless, which Gustavo Z. Carranza purchased for $20,000 from Col. E. R. Bradley and which finished second in the 1945 Mexican Derby, and Tupinamba, a $25,000 purchase at the Keeneland yearling sales which has not yet started.

Cohalan Will Coach New York Cage Team

NEW YORK, July 8 (AP) — Neil Cohalan, former Manhattan college basketball star and coach, has been named to coach the New York professional team in the new Basketball Association of America, Ned Irish, executive vice-president of Madison Square Garden announced today.

Cohalan, rated as one of New York's greatest all-around athletes, coached Manhattan from 1929 through 1942 before he entered the navy. Last winter he tutored the New York Armed Guard Center team which won 29 of 31 games and took the Third Naval District championship.

The exact nature of the trouble still was unknown, however, as Hughes, although conscious at intervals, was unable to talk. His amazing vitality enabled him to stand and walk after Marine Sgt. William L. Durkin pulled him from the flaming wreckage. He collapsed later at a receiving hospital.

Sugar Rationing Eased For Vets

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP)—OPA today eased sugar rationing provisions covering veterans seeking to re-establish in themselves their pre-war businesses.

Beginning Friday, the agency announced veterans who left their businesses to enter the armed forces will have the same industrial or institutional sugar ration base they would have had if they had remained in business.

This means they will be eligible for a certain percentage of the sugar they used in 1941, the specific amount depending upon the use they make of the sugar.

Two Pittsburgh Banks May Merge

PITTSBURGH, July 8 (AP)—Directors of the Union Trust Co. and the Mellon National Bank today approved a plan of merger of the two Pittsburgh banking houses that would create the 16th largest bank in the nation.

The consolidation will be voted on at a special stockholders' meeting Sept. 16. Combined resources of the two institutions at the end of June totalled $1,173,602,806. Combined deposits were $980,688,535.

The new bank will be known as the Mellon National Bank and Trust Co.

Boy Is Electrocuted While Playing

WEST POINT, Va., July 8 (AP)—A nine-year-old boy playing hide-and-seek with two brothers and a sister was electrocuted today when he touched an electric cable.

The lad, Herman M. Bradley, Jr., was killed when he crawled beneath his house at Shackleford, near here. He was found by his brothers and sisters, who summoned their mother.

Mrs. Bradley received slight shocks when she removed her son's body from the cable.

The gunmen were said to have made their get-a-way in a car bearing out-of-state license plates.

On the same afternoon, a telephone official disclosed, wires on two phones at the club had been severed.

Chief Inspector Joseph M. Wallace said yesterday that the 21-state alarm for the hold-up men was sent out after police verified the report the telephone wires had been severed.

Governor Herbert R. O'Conor, taking personal charge of the case in Commissioner Atkinson's absence, got the official investigation under way by directing Wallace to give the grand jury all available information about the affair.

member of Congress would do to help the war effort. He said army officers advised him that the concerns were producing the goods.

Fields Identifies Letter

The timberland deal discussed before the Mead group today involved the Cumberland Lumber Company, operating in Kentucky, with which May has denied any financial connection.

In a closed session of the committee last June 4, May said the whole thing was financed by Dr. Henry Garsson, head man of the Illinois munitions group, and Joe Freeman, Garsson agent here. He said all he did was help them find timberland to buy, serve as transmittal agent for some of the funds without compensation, and take over responsibility for management of the property on their behalf for a time after it began to appear that they may have gotten into a losing proposition on his advice.

Today Fields identified a letter to him from May, dated October 25, 1943, which represented the congressman as putting up money for the timberland deal and being "in position to lose more money than anybody" if it should fail.

"I have already paid $10,000 on the purchase price," the letter said, "and expect to put up another ten for operating capital, including purchase of machinery."

Senator Mitchell (D-Wash) handed the letter to Fields without saying where he got it.

Under questioning, Fields said he was supposed to have been a partner in the operation and get fifty per cent of the stock, but was frozen out.

He said May proposed the deal to him with the declaration that the congressman "was in touch with the proper people" to get war contracts, and had "connections that would insure we'd get the top price" for lumber.

Thought May Was Owner

May, Fields said, was to get backing from "certain financial interests" in Washington for the proposition.

"When did you find out that May was only an agent and had no interest in the corporation?" Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) asked him.

"Not until I came up here," the witness answered. "I thought he actually was the owner of the timber."

After the timberland was bought, Fields said, he worked on the project three or four months at $125 a month, but quit when he began to believe he never would get any stock.

May in his statement to the committee in June had said nothing about any partnership deal. He said that he got in contact with the owners of the timberland through Fields, and understood Fields drew a commission on the sale.

May's version of how Fields happened to leave the job was that manpower was so scarce the operation simply closed down for a long period.

Also introduced today were several packets of checks signed "A. J. May." One group dated from August, 1943, to April, 1944, were made out to A. J. May, Jr., identified as a son of the congressman, now dead. Fields said that so far as he knew no A. J. May, Jr., was on the Cumberland company's payroll.

That point also was discussed in Rep. May's statement to the committee last month, with May explaining that most of the checks so made out were for payrolls which A. J. May, Jr., distributed to woods crews. The congressman said his recollection was that his son, who died on that job, worked only a month or two at a salary he recalled as $125 a month. The A. J. May, Jr., checks introduced today totalled $2,441.50.

Fields identified photostatic copies of another series of checks, issued between Nov. 5, 1943 and March 31, 1944, to Jack May, over the signature of the Cumberland Lumber Company by A. J. May. Jack May was identified as a nephew of the congressman. The checks totalled $1,100 and indicated, the witness said, that Jack May was receiving a salary of more than the $125 per month which Fields had understood the salary was to be.

The committee also heard testimony from A. C. Brown, Whitesburg, Ky., lumberman who said he had engaged in a series of negotiations with May for purchase of the Cumberland property which culminated in a suit against him by Henry M. Garsson for lumber which Brown had cut during the negotiations.

Brown Relates Agreement

Brown said he had first obtained May's oral agreement to sell the property for $32,500 but that May later upped this to $35,000 and he finally paid $40,000 for it as part of the settlement of the suit.

He denied allegations of "embezzlement" made against him by May in the congressman's earlier statement before the committee, and contended that all of his operations were carried on with May's full knowledge and consent until the suit was filed.

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) told reporters after the close of today's session that there may be a constitutional bar against summoning May before the Senate committee for questioning.

He called attention to Article 1, Section 6 of the Constitution, dealing with congressional immunities. It declares that "for any speech or debate in either House, they (members of Congress) shall not be questioned in any other place."

Fields was called to the stand after the Mead committee had heard testimony that a $10,000 political job was offered the committee's key investigator to get him off the trail of the Illinois munitions combine.

O'Connell Tells Of Offer

Delving further into the financial affairs of the group of companies for which May repeatedly interceded at the War department, the committee also received testimony that one of the concerns spent more than $1,500,000 in three years for rent and maintenance expenses on a plant which originally cost $120,000.

The Senate committee renewed its invitation to May to expand, in public testimony, his previous privately-given account of dealings with officials of the munitions group—an explanation which Chairman Mead (D-NY) of the Senate committee called "wholly inadequate."

The account of the political job offer came from Thomas O'Connell, committee investigator, who said a participant in a conference about it was Benjamin F. Fields of Washington. Earlier in the hearings Senator Mitchell (D-Wash), a member of the committee, said Fields had tried to "bribe" him with a $5,000 campaign contribution to intercede for the munitions group.

O'Connell said it was proposed that he abandon his investigation of the affairs of the Erie Basin Metals Company and go to New Mexico at a salary of $10,000 per year, approximately twice the amount he was receiving as an investigator.

2 PAINTERS TOPPLE DOWN SMOKESTACK; ONE IS KILLED

CHICAGO, July 8 (AP) — Smoke from a fresh fire dazed two painters atop a 125-foot smokestack today and sent them hurtling inside the tall column, one of them to his death.

Willard Carlan, 17, received hip and arm fractures and head injuries to which he succumbed a few hours after the accident. Lawrence Rader, 45, was burned about the eyes and legs. A third man working on a scaffold just outside the mouth of the stack was not overcome.

The men were cleaning, scraping and painting the interior of one of three stacks atop the Container Corporation of American power plant near the loop, when company firemen started a fire in the boiler. The firemen were unaware the men had resumed work begun last week.

The dense smoke choked Carlan and Rader, then made them unconscious. One fell into the blowers which supply the forced draft to the boiler furnaces. The other became fouled in ropes.

Company workmen, hearing cries from inside the stack, cut a hole in the smoke chamber with a welding torch and extricated one of the men. City firemen hauled the one entangled in the ropes to the top of the stack and lowered him in a boatswain's chair.

Kepner Urges Elks To Continue Fight Against Communism

NEW YORK, July 8 (AP) — Grand Exalted Ruler Wade H. Kepner, Wheeling, W. Va., urged 800,000 members of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks tonight to continue the order's fight against communism and to oppose any organizations such as the Ku Klux Klan.

Kepner addressed more than 2,000 persons at a meeting opening the first grand lodge convention of the Elks since Pearl Harbor. Delegates were present from the 48 states and Hawaii.

Discussing the position of the Elks with regard to communism, he said the order would fight "every foreign 'ism' of any kind that attempts to come to our shores, even if it comes from a nation which was our ally in war."

He rebuked the Klan, declaring that the order was against any organization that has to hide behind a sheet." He said the Elks would combat all influences seeking to undermine American institutions.

House Takes Up

House that "for the first time in 13 years I am unable to support the administration."

On the other hand, Rep. Smith (D-Va), who often differs with the administration on domestic matters, took the offensive in behalf of the loan.

"Don't measure this thing in dollars," he shouted. "Measure it in blood. Measure it in terms of peace."

On foreign affairs, Smith said, "I defer to the wiser counsel of those who are running our foreign policy," and he declared:

President Sends Letter

"Fred Vinson (then Treasury secretary and now chief justice) never sold the United States down the river, in negotiating this agreement. He was acting not for Great Britain or any other foreign power. He was acting for the United States."

The president, in a letter to Chairman Spence (D-NY) of the Banking committee pleaded for consideration of the loan by Democrats and Republicans on a non-political basis.

Rep. Buffett (R-Neb), one of the opposition leaders, called for defeat of the ratification bill, declaring it "moves us toward destruction by communism."

Declaring the money would be used to "expand socialism and state ownership" in Britain, he told the House:

"World War I established communism. World War II expanded communism over two continents. This loan may both bring on World War III and result in world triumph for communism. x x x"

Bennett Registers Kayo In Rough Ring Bout

BALTIMORE, July 8. (AP)—Howard Bennett scored a fifth-round kayo over Joe O'Connell tonight in one of the roughest fights local fans can recall.

Both local light-heavyweights set a fast pace from the opening gong until the fifth, when Bennett's right caught O'Connell squarely on the chin to send him to the canvas.

Referee Buddy McQuade ordered two of the four completed rounds scored in O'Connell's favor because of low blows, while the winner contributed to the roughouse by pushing his opponent several times, almost hurling him through the ropes one one occasion.

Bennett weighed 167; O'Connell 171½.

Cohalan Will Coach New York Cage Team

NEW YORK, July 8 (AP) — Nell Cohalan, former Manhattan college basketball star and coach, has been named to coach the New York professional team in the new Basketball Association of America, Ned Irish, executive vice-president of Madison Square Garden announced today.

Cohalan, rated as one of New York's greatest all-around athletes, coached Manhattan from 1929 through 1942 before he entered the navy. Last winter he tutored the New York Armed Guard Center team which won 29 of 31 games and took the Third Naval District championship.

The exact nature of the trouble still was unknown, however, as Hughes, although conscious at intervals, was unable to talk. His amazing vitality enabled him to stand and walk after Marine Sgt. William L. Durkin pulled him from the flaming wreckage. He collapsed later at a receiving hospital.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars went into the design and building of XF-11, which was said unofficially to be the fastest long-range plane ever built. Maximum performance figures were not disclosed by the army.

Sugar Rationing Eased For Vets

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP)—OPA today eased sugar rationing provisions covering veterans seeking to re-establish in themselves their pre-war businesses.

Beginning Friday, the agency announced veterans who left their businesses to enter the armed forces will have the same industrial or institutional sugar ration base they would have had if they had remained in business.

This means they will be eligible for a certain percentage of the sugar they used in 1941, the specific amount depending upon the use they make of the sugar.

Two Pittsburgh Banks May Merge

PITTSBURGH, July 8 (AP)—Directors of the Union Trust Co. and the Mellon National Bank today approved a plan of merger of the two Pittsburgh banking houses that would create the 16th largest bank in the nation.

The consolidation will be voted on at a special stockholders' meeting Sept. 16. Combined resources of the two institutions at the end of June totalled $1,173,602,806. Combined deposits were $980,688,535.

The new bank will be known as the Mellon National Bank and Trust Co.

Boy Is Electrocuted While Playing

WEST POINT, Va., July 8 (AP)—A nine-year-old boy playing hide-and-seek with two brothers and a sister was electrocuted today when he touched an electric cable.

The lad, Herman M. Bradley, Jr., was killed when he crawled beneath his house at Shackleford, near here. He was found by his brothers and sisters, who summoned their mother.

Mrs. Bradley received slight shocks when she removed her son's body from the cable.

shot guns from cardboard flower boxes, lined their victims up, made them remove their pants, and emptied their pockets.

The gunmen were said to have made their get-a-way in a car bearing out-of-state license plates.

On the same afternoon, a telephone official disclosed, wires on two phones at the club had been severed.

Chief Inspector Joseph M. Wallace said yesterday that the 21-state alarm for the hold-up men was sent out after police verified the report the telephone wires had been severed.

Governor Herbert R. O'Conor, taking personal charge of the case in Commissioner Atkinson's absence, got the official investigation under way by directing Wallace to give the grand jury all available information about the affair.

member of Congress would do to help the war effort. He said army officers advised him that the concerns were producing the goods.

Fields Identifies Letter

The timberland deal discussed before the Mead group today involved the Cumberland Lumber Company, operating in Kentucky, with which May has denied any financial connection.

In a closed session of the committee last June 4, May said the whole thing was financed by Dr. Henry Garsson, head man of the Illinois munitions group, and Joe Freeman, Garsson agent here. He said all he did was help them find timberland to buy, serve as transmittal agent for some of the funds without compensation, and take over responsibility for management of the property on their behalf for a time after it began to appear that they may have gotten into a losing proposition on his advice.

Today Fields identified a letter to him from May, dated October 25, 1943, which represented the congressman as putting up money for the timberland deal and being "in position to lose more money than anybody" if it should fail.

"I have already paid $10,000 on the purchase price," the letter said, "and expect to put up another ten for operating capital, including purchase of machinery."

Senator Mitchell (D-Wash) handed the letter to Fields without saying where he got it.

Under questioning, Fields said he was supposed to have been a partner in the operation and get fifty per cent of the stock, but was frozen out.

He said May proposed the deal to him with the declaration that the congressman "was in touch with the proper people" to get war contracts, and had "connections that would insure we'd get the top price" for lumber.

Thought May Was Owner

May, Fields said, was to get backing from "certain financial interests" in Washington for the proposition.

"When did you find out that May was only an agent and had no interest in the corporation?" Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) asked him.

"Not until I came up here," the witness answered. "I thought he actually was the owner of the timber."

After the timberland was bought, Fields said, he worked on the project three or four months at $125 a month, but quit when he began to believe he never would get any stock.

May in his statement to the committee in June had said nothing about any partnership deal. He said that he got in contact with the owners of the timberland through Fields, and understood Fields drew a commission on the sale.

May's version of how Fields happened to leave the job was that manpower was so scarce the operation simply closed down for a long period.

Also introduced today were several packets of checks signed "A. J. May." One group dated from August, 1943, to April, 1944, were made out to A. J. May, Jr., identified as a son of the congressman, now dead. Fields said that so far as he knew no A. J. May, Jr., was on the Cumberland company's payroll.

That point also was discussed in Rep. May's statement to the committee last month, with May explaining that most of the checks so made out were for payrolls which A. J. May, Jr., distributed to woods crews. The congressman said his recollection was that his son, who died on that job, worked only a month or two at a salary he recalled as $125 a month. The A. J. May, Jr., checks introduced today totalled $2,441.50.

Fields identified photostatic copies of another series of checks, issued between Nov. 5, 1943 and March 31, 1944, to Jack May, over the signature of the Cumberland Lumber Company by A. J. May. Jack May was identified as a nephew of the congressman. The checks totalled $1,100 and indicated, the witness said, that Jack May was receiving a salary of more than the $125 per month which Fields had understood the salary was to be.

The committee also heard testimony from A. C. Brown, Whitesburg, Ky., lumberman who said he had engaged in a series of negotiations with May for purchase of the Cumberland property which culminated in a suit against him by Henry M. Garsson for lumber which Brown had cut during the negotiations.

Brown Relates Agreement

Brown said he had first obtained May's oral agreement to sell the property for $32,500 but that May later upped this to $35,000 and he finally paid $40,000 for it as part of the settlement of the suit.

He denied allegations of "embezzlement" made against him by May in the congressman's earlier statement before the committee, and contended that all of his operations were carried on with May's full knowledge and consent until the suit was filed.

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) told reporters after the close of today's session that there may be a constitutional bar against summoning May before the Senate committee for questioning.

He called attention to Article 1, Section 6 of the Constitution, dealing with congressional immunities. It declares that "for any speech or debate in either House, they (members of Congress) shall not be questioned in any other place."

Fields was called to the stand after the Mead committee had heard testimony that a $10,000 political job was offered the committee's key investigator to get him off the trail of the Illinois munitions combine.

O'Connell Tells Of Offer

Delving further into the financial affairs of the group of companies for which May repeatedly interceded at the War department, the committee also received testimony that one of the concerns spent more than $1,500,000 in three years for rent and maintenance expenses on a plant which originally cost $120,000.

The Senate committee renewed its invitation to May to expand, in public testimony, his previous privately-given account of dealings with officials of the munitions group—an explanation which Chairman Mead (D-NY) of the Senate committee called "wholly inadequate."

The account of the political job offer came from Thomas O'Connell, committee investigator, who said a participant in a conference about it was Benjamin F. Fields of Washington. Earlier in the hearings Senator Mitchell (D-Wash), a member of the committee, said Fields had tried to "bribe" him with a $5,000 campaign contribution to intercede for the munitions group.

O'Connell said it was proposed that he abandon his investigation of the affairs of the Erie Basin Metals Company and go to New Mexico at a salary of $10,000 per year, approximately twice the amount he was receiving as an investigator.

Girl Is Advised Not To Become Boy's Wife No. 2

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 16 years old and in love with a boy 19. He has been married and has a little girl 13 months old. He and his wife were divorced, and she has the baby.

He wants me to marry him against my parents' will. He says he loves me, but he won't wait until I am 18, and says that if I don't marry now, I will have to marry someone else, because he will have married someone else himself by that time. He has nothing to offer me, not even a home.

Don't you thing that if he really loved me he would wait until I am of age?

A READER

I think just exactly what your letter shows that you are thinking yourself — that this young man would be a very poor risk indeed as a husband, and that you would be a very sorry girl if you mortgaged your future happiness in any such precarious fashion as to marry him.

Even if both you and this boy were older, I would feel that your chances for happiness were very slim. There is something wrong when a boy only 19 years old has a divorce behind him. And when you add to that the fact that he not only "has nothing to offer you," but is urging you to marry against your parents' wishes, he certainly is not a type of man for any girl to put much confidence in.

I strongly advise you to have nothing more to do with him, and would feel that the sooner he goes away and marries that mythical "someone else," the better it will be for you.

War Widow and Her Wedding Ring

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My problem is one which probably confronts many young war widows of today.

Should I continue to wear a wedding band, and if so, how long?

T. S.

Whether or no—or how long—widow continues to wear her wedding ring is entirely up to her own feelings and wishes.

Some widows like to wear their rings until they become seriously interested in another man and look forward to a second marriage. Others, if they never marry again, like to wear the memento of their love all their lives.

And still others prefer to put their rings away, after a year or so, on the theory that an opportunity for a second marriage is more likely to present itself if they do not appear to be already tied up. They feel that when a man sees a wedding ring on the hand of a woman he meets for the first time, he naturally takes it for granted that she has a husband in the offing, and so, no matter how much he may feel attracted to her, he is unlikely to try to follow up the meeting. Whereas, if he sees no ring, he assumes that she is a free agent. Then, if the two become really interested in each other, the fact of the woman's earlier marriage comes out naturally and takes its proper place as past history.

So you can feel free to do as you please in the matter of wearing your ring.

Two Forfeit Bonds After Disturbances

Thomas Wilhelm, Ellerslie, forfeited $5 bond and Richard Miller, Bedford, Pa., was fined a like amount in police court yesterday as a result of drunk and disorderly conduct charges arising from a fight in a Front street tavern Saturday evening. Wilhelm was treated in Allegany hospital for a scalp cut suffered in the disturbance, police said.

Girl Is Advised Not To Become Boy's Wife No. 2

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 16 years old and in love with a boy 19. He has been married and has a little girl 13 months old. He and his wife were divorced, and she has the baby.

He wants me to marry him against my parents' will. He says he loves me, but he won't wait until I am 18, and says that if I don't marry now, I will have to marry someone else, because he will have married someone else himself by that time. He has nothing to offer me, not even a home.

Don't you thing that if he really loved me he would wait until I am of age?

A READER

I think just exactly what your letter shows that you are thinking yourself — that this young man would be a very poor risk indeed as a husband, and that you would be a very sorry girl if you mortgaged your future happiness in any such precarious fashion as to marry him.

Even if both you and this boy were older, I would feel that your chances for happiness were very slim. There is something wrong when a boy only 19 years old has a divorce behind him. And when you add to that the fact that he not only "has nothing to offer you," but is urging you to marry against your parents' wishes, he certainly is not a type of man for any girl to put much confidence in.

I strongly advise you to have nothing more to do with him, and would feel that the sooner he goes away and marries that mythical "someone else," the better it will be for you.

War Widow and Her Wedding Ring

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My problem is one which probably confronts many young war widows of today.

Should I continue to wear a wedding band, and if so, how long?

T. S.

Whether or no—or how long—widow continues to wear her wedding ring is entirely up to her own feelings and wishes.

Some widows like to wear their rings until they become seriously interested in another man and look forward to a second marriage. Others, if they never marry again, like to wear the memento of their love all their lives.

And still others prefer to put their rings away, after a year or so, on the theory that an opportunity for a second marriage is more likely to present itself if they do not appear to be already tied up. They feel that when a man sees a wedding ring on the hand of a woman he meets for the first time, he naturally takes it for granted that she has a husband in the offing, and so, no matter how much he may feel attracted to her, he is unlikely to try to follow up the meeting. Whereas, if he sees no ring, he assumes that she is a free agent. Then, if the two become really interested in each other, the fact of the woman's earlier marriage comes out naturally and takes its proper place as past history.

So you can feel free to do as you please in the matter of wearing your ring.

Administration Paying Heavy Price

The President, in his pointed and repetitious denunciation of the Taft amendment to the conference bill for extending OPA, sought to make an understandable political issue out of a complex economic problem. When used with restraint this may be sound practice, since it tends to simplify a highly technical and statistical problem and reduce it to terms of personalities. In the present case, however, it contributes little or nothing to an understanding of the issue which is not, as the President would have the country believe, essentially a struggle between price control on the one hand and profiteering on the other.

The Taft amendment starts with the assumption, that OPA regulations were, in many cases, retarding, discouraging or diverting production. There is considerable, if not conclusive, documentation for this belief in the testimony before both House and Senate committees, much of which the OPA never attempted to deny. Recognizing these facts, Senator Taft attempted to write a new formula to guide the OPA in setting ceiling prices. Essentially it sought to compel the OPA to recognize, in computing a producers's ceiling price, recent upward revisions in wage rates. It did not attempt to assure every producer a profit on every product. It did attempt to set as a standard of profit margin the same margin which prevailed in the first half of October, 1941.

At this point, of course, the argument becomes almost impossible to follow or judge. Perhaps, as the OPA contends, the amendment is inflationary and too complex to enforce. On the other hand it did have the merit of seeking to free production from the binding, and in many cases uneconomic effects of firm ceilings imposed upon rising costs. That this end is worth accomplishing as a step in the direction of a free market can hardly be questioned. That the OPA or the administration is interested in moving in this direction is doubtful. Certanly neither has shown any interest in suggesting an alternative to the regulations which provoked congress to action. Instead, in holding out for all or nothing, they have got nothing. It is a heavy price to pay for attempting to mix politics with economics.

Sergeants Escape Being Toned Down

Among the recommendations of the Doolittle "gripe" board to make the Army a happier, more heavenly way of life, nothing was said at all about loud-mouthed sergeants, even though these purveyors of harsh discipline have sent many a lesser soldier back to his barracks muttering something about "no justice." The sergeant, no doubt, will have to stay, but roughly five million GI's would likely vote to have him toned down a bit.

The case for the modulated sergeants has some strong arguments. A brief item in the papers the other day told the story of a hapless 15-year-old boy at Camp Atterbury, Ind., who, on tiring of endless KP duty, called his mother and asked her please to get him out of there, which she did. It then was revealed that the under-age lad had gone to the induction center in Cleveland, O., simply to see a friend off. But when the sergeant yelled "fall in," the boy apparently perceived that here was a man in no mood to hear funny stories about just being "here to see off a friend," and so he fell in, as ordered.

Then there is the reporter who was responsible for news from a recruiting center. Dropping into the center one day he found a group of recruits about to leave. The sergeant shouted for all to line up and when the reporter tried to explain that he was a reporter and still a free agent, the sergeant began lecturing him on the value of starting out in service on the right foot.

When the reporter protested, the sergeant protested louder that he, the reporter, of course—was causing entirely too much trouble. Things went on like that until finally the sergeant saw the light and the reporter's employers were saved the loss of a valued staff member.

Yes, there is strong and irrefutable evidence for muffled sergeants, applicable, of course, up to that point when a PFC or corporal is made one himself. Then, brother, look out!

Reuther says it's terrible that prices should go up along with wages, but doesn't reveal what he's going to do about it.

Italy's President And Nation's Future

In electing Enrico de Nicola provisional president of Italy, the constituent assembly at Rome obviously agreed on a compromise candidate. The new chief of state is a noted lawyer who was content to resist fascism passively and has made no positive contribution to the rebuilding of the nation since Mussolini's downfall.

Signor de Nicola was president of the Chamber of Deputies at the time of Mussolini's march on Rome and remained in office for some time after Mussolini took over. He refused to run for reelection in 1924 and when he was elected against his wish he declined to serve. Later he rejected an appointment as senator. But despite these gestures it could fairly be charged against him that he failed to raise his voice strongly enough against the regime.

That accusation applies to most Italian leaders who were prominent when the dictator came to power. As for Signor de Nicola's inactivity since [illegible] days.

a liability when factions had to be brought together to choose a provisional president. The records of such men as Orlando and Count Sforza presented an effective bar to their chances.

It is too early to say that Italy is tending toward the kind of republic in which the president will be more a figurehead than anything else. Considerations that argued strongly for the election of Signor de Nicola as provisional president may not carry equal weight when the constituent assembly takes up the task of framing a constitution. But for the present a man untrained by fascism who has not been mixed up in factional strife will meet Italy's need.

The young republic will need all the steadiness it can muster in its early years. The costly mistakes of the previous century, when the pride of a newly united nation led to ambitious efforts in the premature role of a great power, can not be repeated in this century. Thoughtful Italians never cared very deeply for the elaborate aims of Mussolini. To them the first and proper concern of government was in the development of schools, in the elimination of corruption from administration and in establishing a sound economic life. Their successors today can see even more clearly that the real greatness of Italy lies in the prosperity of her people and in the genius of the Italian for making an art of living in his own homeland.

As the country emerges from a war in which it was an enemy, an ally and a major battlefield, its great task is that of internal reconstruction. If the new republic adheres to that line Rome will once again be strong on her seven hills.

U. S. Youth Faces A Responsibility

"The youth of the United States must perpetuate the blessings of civil and religious liberty, if these blessings are to be enjoyed by their successors. On them the responsibility must rest of perpetuating or losing the blessings which have cost the toil, treasure and the blood of our fathers. From this responsibility they can not be exempt. Happy will it be for them, if they study the duties which devolve upon them, and become qualified to sustain the character of good citizens and true patriots.

"To the multiplied dangers that have arisen or which may arise, affecting the permanency of our institutions, no descendant of the Pilgrims can safely and innocently shut his eyes. Let the elements of evil and the elements of safety be duly appreciated, and then may we hope to escape the consequences of one and secure the advantages of the other

"May it be remembered by every youth of our country, that no permanent good can be preserved without effort, and in order that efforts should be properly directed, there must be a knowledge of the end to be accomplished, and of the means for its attainment."

This excellent advice was not written yesterday, last week, a year or two years ago. It is taken from a "School History of the United States," published in 1839. More than a century later, let these words of wisdom be heeded, so that the United States of America may indeed be "a name and a praise in the whole earth."

Vacation Brings Change, If Not Rest

A vacation is a wonderful thing. It is a wonderful thing to look forward to. Contemplated in advance, the adventures in small pleasures one can conjure up to be packed into two full weeks are almost limitless.

A vacation is also a wonderful thing to look back upon. To be thankful for the pleasant things that did happen and the unpleasant ones that might have happened, but didn't.

And besides being a wonderful thing to look forward to and to look back upon, the vacation itself is fun. Of course, few persons get as much rest as is customary when they're not on vacation. The car almost always gives trouble, even if it has always run perfectly before. The children are almost always seized with some sickness that occupies at least two or three nights. Usually at least one of them manages to get dog-bitten.

Then there are the sunburn, the incredible language spoken in other sections of this fair land, and the high and mighty hotel clerks to be contended with—all of which the vacationer must take in stride.

But despite any criticism of the vacation as an institution, it can be highly recommended. If it's not a rest, at least it's a change of activity, and that is something good for the human animal.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Sen. Barkley Got Burned By Erie Metals Too; Democrats Unite To Block Hurley's Senate Ambitions; Senators Laugh At Tydings' Embarrassment.

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, July 9—"I ought to be kicked in the pants," is the way hard-working, dignified Senator Barkley of Kentucky describes his part in the famous Erie Basin metals war profiteering case.

Most of Barkley's colleagues didn't know that in addition to Congressman May of Kentucky, who is in the war profiteering case up to his neck, the senior Senator from Kentucky also was accidentally involved.

Barkley's son was hired by the Erie company. And what the Senator may not know is that the husband of one of his secrtaries, Charles Chance, was a constant hanger-on around the Erie offices in Washington.

Barkley explains that when his son got out of the Army, he received various business offers, one of them a tempting salary from the Elgin Watch Case Company. When the boy asked the Senator's advice, Barkley advised him to take the job with the best salary, which was Elgin, a part of the Erie Basin munitions empire.

The word Elkin was what threw me off," Barkley explained to Senate colleagues. "I thought it was the Elgin Watch Company. I had no idea it was the Erie Basin company."

Charlie Chance, husband of one of Barkley's secretaries, was a frequent caller at the Erie Basin offices in Washington. He made constant suggestions about where the company could get priorities and materials. Whether he was paid is not known.

Note—When the Erie company first came up for investigation by the Mead Committee, Barkley tried to sidetrack the probe. His efforts were not as persistent as those of Representative May, however.

The backstage battle over OPA was not finally settled until mild-mannered Democratic Senator Abe Murdock of Utah had engaged in a word-slinging contest with GOP Senator Bob Taft of Ohio, leader of the anti-price control bloc. Finally, Chairman Alben Barkley called both to order.

All during the day-long meeting, Taft had been butting in on the testimony of OPA Administrator Paul Porter, acting like a prosecuting attorney. The Ohio Senator, who happens to be one of the biggest real estate owners in Cincinnati, refused to let Porter complete answers to committee questions.

Finally Murdock blew up.

"Mr. Chairman," he said to Barkley, "I'm going to ask you to insist on some order in this proceeding. Mr. Porter cannot answer questions if the Senator from Ohio continues these tactics. This has been going on all day and I'm getting tired of it."

Murdock added something that gave the impression Taft was trying to filibuster the meeting.

"I resent your implications," shot back Taft angrily. "I have every right to ask questions here."

"I'm not trying to take away your right," snapped the Utahan, "but with all due respect to the Senator, he should not be allowed to monopolize the discussion. Other people here also have a right to express themselves and the witness should be allowed to reply without these constant interruptions."

Barkley broke up the spat, announcing he would thereafter insist on "strict order." This took the wind out of Taft's sails, and he subsided.

Inside fact is that OPA Boss Porter was not at all keen about Barkley's compromise amendment to the guaranteed profits proposal for manufacturers, even though Taft described it as "Paul Porter's bill." Taft had held out for manufacturer price ceilings based on profits during October 1-15, 1941, plus average cost increase since. Barkley's amendment, as approved by the committee, changed the base period to the 1940 calendar year, when the average profit level was considerably less than in the two-week period in 1941.

"I can administer the act with this provision in it," said Porter. "But if you want to know my frank opinion, I'd rather it was left out."

When Gov. Jack Dempsey of New Mexico called on the President last week, Truman took occasion to put him on the spot in a friendly way about whether he would support GOP Pat Hurley, ex-Secretary of War, for the Senate.

Dempsey, a Democrat, came near defeating Democratic Senator Dennis Chavez in the primaries, and it is generally conceded that if Dempsey should back Republican Hurley, the latter could win. So Truman tactfully inquired:

"How do things look in New Mexico, Jack?"

"What do you think?" asked the former Brooklyn subway conductor, half belligerently.

The President replied that he had heard rumors Dempsey might throw his weight to the Republicans.

"The answer is," replied Governor, "Chavez is going to be elected. I'm a Democrat first, last and always."

Senator George of Georgia, Senator Barkley of Kentucky, and friends were chuckling over the embarrassment of their colleague, of Maryland, the other day.

"I never knew any man to make so many mistakes," remarked George, referring to the way Tydings had backed the wrong candidates in nearby Maryland. "It just goes to show what you get when you desert a colleague and try to take over control of a state."

George and Tydings once were sympathetic to each other when Roosevelt invaded their states in the "purge." In that campaign, Tydings had the vigorous support of his Senate colleague, George Radcliffe. Despite the fact that Radcliffe and Roosevelt had been life-long friends and banking partners, Radcliffe, [illegible] campaign manager and helped materially to re-elect him.

When Radcliffe came up in the recent Maryland Primaries, however, Tydings deserted him and took a lofty neutral position. Not lifting a hand for his old campaign manager, Tydings concentrated on trying to nominate his hand-picked candidate as governor, thus win over the Democratic machine. The man he picked, however, had offended patriotic Marylanders by driving a state-owned Cadillac all the way to Georgia during the war when other people saved their gasoline. He lost.

Instead, Maryland nominated one of the livest, most forceful young Democrats in the state, Preston Lane, a strong Roosevelt man. Lane's term as governor will expire just as Tydings comes up for re-election. So instead of eliminating future competition against him, the Senator from Maryland has increased it.

That's why Barkley, George et al were laughing at their colleague's discomfort.

Sam Slick

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

About thirty-five miles from where I now sit, at my island Nova Scotia retreat, is the old home at Windsor, of Judge Thomas Haliburton, born there in 1796. He was a successful lawyer who liked to write as a diversion. In 1835 he sent to a Halifax paper some articles about a shrewd Yankee character, whom he called "Sam Slick". Later these articles were published in a volume called "The Clock-Maker, or the Sayings and Doings of Sam Slick."

These talks, or articles, stirred up an immediate interest and the book became famous, as well as its author, and many other books by him followed, both in Canada and England. This Sam Slick character was supposed to have been born in Connecticut—the state in which Jonathan Trumbull was governor—the original "Brother Jonathan."

Sam Slick sold clocks and was supposed to have met on the road a "squire" who traveled with him for some distance, who found great entertainment in the quaint talk of the salesman. So accurate was the talk of this Yankee that readers began to estimate every Yankee as a Sam Slick, or his counterpart. Sam's "down-east talk and shrewd Americanisms" became famous talk for years. Indeed his books were as popular in the United States as in Canada and abroad.

The origin of the national figure "Uncle Sam" is not definitely known, but many attribute to Judge Haliburton its source. His character was described as "a tall, thin man with hollow cheeks and bright, twinkling black eyes." He wore striped trousers, and a high hat was perched upon his head. These books by Haliburton are as interesting today as more than a century ago. Many look upon the judge as the first American humorist.

I have visited this old home of the author of "Sam Slick" many times. The first time it was run as a delightful eating place, but the government of Nova Scotia has since converted it into a most interesting museum, in honor of one of its outstanding authors and publicemen. Windsor is a beautiful, quaint little city, with many historic landmarks within its radius, and it is here that you may view the highest rise and fall of the tide in all the world, occasioned by the backing up of the waters from the Bay of Fundy.

A few miles beyond Windsor, is the famous Evangeline land, where you enter the lovely valley that leads to Yarmouth and look upon one of the greatest apple orchards in the world.

WHO KILLED COCK ROBIN?

Truman's Tactics Boost Taft's Bid For Nomination For President

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Senator Taft of Ohio may have cherished presidential ambitions heretofore but he received an unexpected boost in the recent message of President Truman vetoing OPA.

Until then Mr. Taft had been considered only in an incidental way; but, thanks to the message of Mr. Truman, the Ohio senator was advertised over the nationwide radio and the press as the man who tried to get rid of black markets and the price controls which encourage black markets and retarded production.

Mr. Taft becomes a probability for the Republican nomination because his party is so convinced that it can win with a conservative in 1948 it is ready to consider anyone who can appear before the people as a champion of their rights.

OPA-Less People Get Lesson

Thus, despite the propaganda fostered by labor union strategists and stimulated by governmental agencies, the people now know that they can get more and better meat without the OPA than with it. The expected sky-rocketing of prices has not materialized. The figures now are down to about what they were before the OPA expired. And it is the knowledge that they can go high enough at any time now to put black markets out of business that keeps a steady flow of cattle to markets, thus providing the nation with more meat than it has seen in a long, long time.

Mr. Taft, as a Republican presidential nominee, will not be satisfactory to the so-called "liberals" of either party. But "liberalism" is rapidly getting to be known as a synonism for reaction and for continued government meddling as well as special privilege.

The "liberalism" of the Democratic Party, however, nowadays resembles the special privilege trend of the Republican era of high protectionism, when the party in power played ball with the contributors of campaign contributions and local machines in exchange for favors granted through the tariff laws.

Fears Special Privilege Lobby

Today the CIO-PAC has replaced the high protectionist lobbies for special privilege. Today a Democratic president vetoes a Case bill and a price control bill because he is afraid of the special privilege lobby which blandly promises support at the polls or threatens to withdraw it if he doesn't do its bidding.

Fearful of antagonizing the labor union politicians, Mr. Truman no longer mentions wage control nor does his record show that he made any attempt to retain wage stabilization even though he insists on price fixing.

Naturally the Republican and Democratic conservatives are fighting the reactionary policies of the Truman administration and insisting that prices be freed from restrictions.

The southern conservatives are fighting alongside Republican conservatives because the CIO-PAC and other so-called "liberal" groups are seeking special privileges for their own followers at the expense of the people as a whole.

Situation Made To Order For GOP

The situation is made to order for the nomination and election of a Republican conservative. Senator Taft, Senator Vandenberg, former Goveror Bricker of Ohio respectively may represent different brands of conservatism; but, as matters looks today, the Republican convention of 1948 need not be too particular, for if the Truman economic depression materializes by 1948—as seems likely unless the administration alters its policy of encouraging wage inflation and irresponsibility in the use of labor power—it will not matter much who the Republicans nominate. The election campaign will be merely a ratifying process and the Republican nomination will be equivalent to election.

There's only one way for the Democrats to avoid defeat and that is to pick out someone else, who can promise a better record than has been made by the Truman administration.

Congress Guards Against Federal Ownerships

By MARK SULLIVAN

In the debate over extending the Office of Price Administration, one theme is common. It appears again and again in the statements of congressmen watchful about the nature of the extension. It is a concern lest OPA become permanent, a fixed mechanism controlling not merely prices but those broader aspects of industry which prices involve.

Congressmen have felt that this tendency was inherent in the nature of OPA. Some of them had expressed apprehension lest such a tendency be tolerated, or at least might not be vigorously resisted. The attitude of congressmen feeling this way is not one of wishing to terminate OPA at once. It is an attitude of being on guard—of extending OPA for some time as a convenience or a necessity, but extending it in such a way that its activities would narrow, not broaden, and would come to an end sometime.

Guard Against Federal Control

Watchfulness of which this is an example has been a definite trait of this Congress. It is directed against proposals which are or may grow into government operation of business. It is directed also against a control of industry so minute and repressive that under it privately owned industry could not function, and a condition would arise which would give color and justification to the idea that industry be carried on by government.

Before the House last week was a routine appropriation bill, providing funds for several government agencies during the coming fiscal year, including the Tennessee Valley Authority. The bill was in an advanced stage. It had passed the House and Senate, and the two versions of it were about to go to a conference committee of the two branches. Normally this would be done perfunctorily, as a routine matter.

Against Building Federal Plant

Representative Rich of Pennsylvania observed that the bill provided three million dollars—a small amount relative to the whole appropriation — for building a plant near Mobile, Alabama, for manufacturing fertilizer, to be operated by a government agency, the Tennessee Valley Authority. Representative Rich said:

"If we build a fertilizer plant down there we might just as well build a furniture plant for the federal government, we might just as well build a clothing plant, we might as well say we are going to become socialistic in this country. This is the way to do it. Of course, the government is in lots of business but there is no reason why we should go any farther. Stop it. Stop it now."

Mr. Rich moved that the Representatives of the House in the approaching House-Senate conference committee be instructed not to agree to the appropriation for the fertilizer plant. His motion was adopted, there will be no government fertilizer plant.

Congressman Rich saw and those who voted with him saw, and congressmen who had been similarly vigilant in other matters saw, what is not realized by many. To many, an appropriation of a small amount of money for a government fertilizer plant seems a trivial thing. But Congressman Rich saw the principle that is involved. He saw also the process by which a small government plant becomes a large government plant, and would ultimately extinguish the manufacture of fertilizer by privately owned plants; by which a short step of government into industry becomes presently a long step, and by which a first step leads to a second step, and the second to a third.

In England the principle of nationalizing industry was adopted deliberately and at one step. It was put before the people in an election, as a program of the Labor Party. The people voted the Labor Party into power and private industry is being taken over. In the United States the number of persons wanting nationalization of industry is infinitesimally small. Neither of the two great parties wants it—the only parties avowing it are the Socialists and Communists.

Private Ownership Easily Destroyed

But private ownership can be destroyed without conscious intention to destroy it. Congress feels this danger exists, and is on guard against it. One way to save private ownership is to affirm and live up to a fundamental principle, that government never enter into industry in competition with its citizens. There is nothing that government can do in industry that industry itself cannot do.

During the war, government had needs of a kind which industry does not normally supply. But government, by cooperation with industry, got from industry the supplies it needed. It got them with a speed and abundance which made the United States incomparably the most effective producer of war materials in the world. By the end of the war we were turning out more materials than all our allies combined or of the enemy countries combined.

This took place before the eyes of the present generation of Americans. They did it. It is difficult to imagine they will ever knowingly sanction abandonment of the system by which it was accomplished.

"IT SAYS HERE" By Bob Hope

Somewhere between Norfolk and Richmond. I've gotten used to covering ground the past few years. But this airborne vaudeville unit of ours is traveling so fast that last week we passed Superman three times. I love traveling by plane . . . my laundry dries quicker . . . but it does have its disadvantages. As we left Pittsburgh this morning, three critics rented an interceptor to shoot us down. And we don't always have time to stop and get out. We just land and do a show on the wing. For the first time we ran into a little weather trouble in Norfolk. We started our show outside at Foreman Field, the Norfolk Division of William and Mary College Football Stadium, and right in the middle of my first lull rain started to pour down. Being from California, I naturally ignored it and pretended it was applause. But then I noticed the audience, including Admiral Forrestal and Governor Tuck of Virginia, running out faster than usual, holding chairs over their heads. So after a lot of confusion we managed to get the show moved into a nearby gymnasium and eventually finished it with the entire audience standing up. Right now we're on our way to Richmond to do our eight-thirty performance. While I'm writing this I have Jack Pepper looking out the window for a small town with a runway. If he spots one, we may stop and do a supper show. Although some of the cast have been complaining about doing supper shows. They think we should go into a restaurant and pay for our meals like every one else.

Administration Paying Heavy Price

The President, in his pointed and repetitious denunciation of the Taft amendment to the conference bill for extending OPA, sought to make an understandable political issue out of a complex economic problem. When used with restraint this may be sound practice, since it tends to simplify a highly technical and statistical problem and reduce it to terms of personalities. In the present case, however, it contributes little or nothing to an understanding of the issue which is not, as the President would have the country believe, essentially a struggle between price control on the one hand and profiteering on the other.

The Taft amendment starts with the assumption, that OPA regulations were, in many cases, retarding, discouraging or diverting production. There is considerable, if not conclusive, documentation for this belief in the testimony before both House and Senate committees, much of which the OPA never attempted to deny. Recognizing these facts, Senator Taft attempted to write a new formula to guide the OPA in setting ceiling prices. Essentially it sought to compel the OPA to recognize, in computing a producer's ceiling price, recent upward revisions in wage rates. It did not attempt to assure every producer a profit on every product. It did attempt to set as a standard of profit margin the same margin which prevailed in the first half of October, 1941.

At this point, of course, the argument becomes almost impossible to follow or judge. Perhaps, as the OPA contends, the amendment is inflationary and too complex to enforce. On the other hand it did have the merit of seeking to free production from the binding and in many cases uneconomic effects of firm ceilings imposed upon rising costs. That this end is worth accomplishing as a step in the direction of a free market can hardly be questioned. That the OPA or the administration is interested in moving in this direction is doubtful. Certainly neither has shown any interest in suggesting an alternative to the regulations which provoked congress to action. Instead, in holding out for all or nothing, they have got nothing. It is a heavy price to pay for attempting to mix politics with economics.

Sergeants Escape Being Toned Down

Among the recommendations of the Doolittle "gripe" board to make the Army a happier, more heavenly way of life, nothing was said at all about loud-mouthed sergeants, even though these purveyors of harsh discipline have sent many a lesser soldier back to his barracks muttering something about "no justice." The sergeant, no doubt, will have to stay, but roughly five million GI's would likely vote to have him toned down a bit.

The case for the modulated sergeants has some strong arguments. A brief item in the papers the other day told the story of a hapless 15-year-old boy at Camp Atterbury, Ind., who, on tiring of endless KP duty, called his mother and asked her please to get him out of there, which she did. It then was revealed that the under-age lad had gone to the induction center in Cleveland, O., simply to see a friend off. But when the sergeant yelled "fall in," the boy apparently perceived that here was a man in no mood to hear funny stories about just being "here to see off a friend," and so he fell in, as ordered.

Then there is the reporter who was responsible for news from a recruiting center. Dropping into the center one day he found a group of recruits about to leave. The sergeant shouted for all to line up and when the reporter tried to explain that he was a reporter and still a free agent, the sergeant began lecturing him on the value of starting out in service on the right foot.

When the reporter protested, the sergeant protested louder that he, the reporter, of course—was causing entirely too much trouble. Things went on like that until finally the sergeant saw the light and the reporter's employers were saved the loss of a valued staff member.

Yes, there is strong and irrefutable evidence for muffled sergeants, applicable, of course, up to that point when a PFC or corporal is made one himself. Then, brother, look out!

Reuther says it's terrible that prices should go up along with wages, but doesn't reveal what he's going to do about it.

Italy's President And Nation's Future

In electing Enrico de Nicola provisional president of Italy, the constituent assembly at Rome obviously agreed on a compromise candidate. The new chief of state is a noted lawyer who was content to resist fascism passively and has made no positive contribution to the rebuilding of the nation since Mussolini's downfall.

Signor de Nicola was president of the Chamber of Deputies at the time of Mussolini's march on Rome and remained in office for some time after Mussolini took over. He refused to run for reelection in 1924 and when he was elected against his wish he declined to serve. Later he rejected an appointment as senator. But despite these gestures it could fairly be charged against him that he failed to raise his voice strongly enough against the regime.

That accusation applies to most Italian leaders who were prominent when the dictator came to power. As for Signor de Nicola's inactivity since [illegible]

a liability when factions had to be brought together to choose a provisional president. The records of such men as Orlando and Count Sforza presented an effective bar to their chances.

It is too early to say that Italy is tending toward the kind of republic in which the president will be more a figurehead than anything else. Considerations that argued strongly for the election of Signor de Nicola as provisional president may not carry equal weight when the constituent assembly takes up the task of framing a constitution. But for the present a man untrained by fascism who has not been mixed up in factional strife will meet Italy's need.

The young republic will need all the steadiness it can muster in its early years. The costly mistakes of the previous century, when the pride of a newly united nation led to ambitious efforts in the premature role of a great power, can not be repeated in this century. Thoughtful Italians never cared very deeply for the elaborate aims of Mussolini. To them the first and proper concern of government was in the development of schools, in the elimination of corruption from administration and in establishing a sound economic life. Their successors today can see even more clearly that the real greatness of Italy lies in the prosperity of her people and in the genius of the Italian for making an art of living in his own homeland.

As the country emerges from a war in which it was an enemy, an ally and a major battlefield, its great task is that of internal reconstruction. If the new republic adheres to that line Rome will once again be strong on her seven hills.

U. S. Youth Faces A Responsibility

"The youth of the United States must perpetuate the blessings of civil and religious liberty, if these blessings are to be enjoyed by their successors. On them the responsibility must rest of perpetuating or losing the blessings which have cost the toil, treasure and the blood of our fathers. From this responsibility they can not be exempt. Happy will it be for them, if they study the duties which devolve upon them, and become qualified to sustain the character of good citizens and true patriots.

"To the multiplied dangers that have arisen or which may arise, affecting the permanency of our institutions, no descendant of the Pilgrims can safely and innocently shut his eyes. Let the elements of evil and the elements of safety be duly appreciated, and then may we hope to escape the consequences of one and secure the advantages of the other

"May it be remembered by every youth of our country, that no permanent good can be preserved without effort, and in order that efforts should be properly directed, there must be a knowledge of the end to be accomplished, and of the means for its attainment."

This excellent advice was not written yesterday, last week, a year or two years ago. It is taken from a "School History of the United States," published in 1839. More than a century later, let these words of wisdom be heeded, so that the United States of America may indeed be "a name and a praise in the whole earth."

Vacation Brings Change, If Not Rest

A vacation is a wonderful thing. It is a wonderful thing to look forward to. Contemplated in advance, the adventures in small pleasures one can conjure up to be packed into two full weeks are almost limitless.

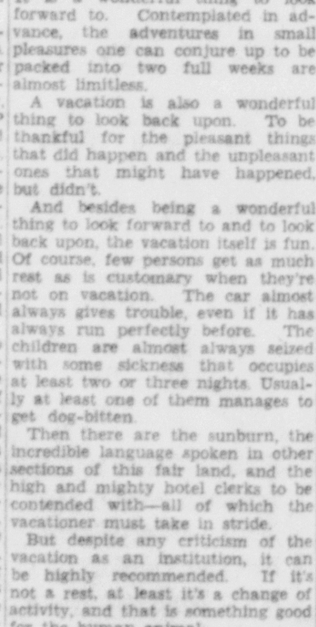

A vacation is also a wonderful thing to look back upon. To be thankful for the pleasant things that did happen and the unpleasant ones that might have happened, but didn't.

And besides being a wonderful thing to look forward to and to look back upon, the vacation itself is fun. Of course, few persons get as much rest as is customary when they're not on vacation. The car almost always gives trouble, even if it has always run perfectly before. The children are almost always seized with some sickness that occupies at least two or three nights. Usually at least one of them manages to get dog-bitten.

Then there are the sunburn, the incredible language spoken in other sections of this fair land, and the high and mighty hotel clerks to be contended with—all of which the vacationer must take in stride.

But despite any criticism of the vacation as an institution, it can be highly recommended. If it's not a rest, at least it's a change of activity, and that is something good for the human animal.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Sen. Barkley Got Burned By Erie Metals Too; Democrats Unite To Block Hurley's Senate Ambitions; Senators Laugh At Tydings' Embarrassment.

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, July 9—"I ought to be kicked in the pants," is the way hard-working, dignified Senator Barkley of Kentucky describes his part in the famous Erie Basin metals war profiteering case.

Most of Barkley's colleagues didn't know that in addition to Congressman May of Kentucky, who is in the war profiteering case up to his neck, the senior Senator from Kentucky also was accidentally involved.

Barkley's son was hired by the Erie company. And what the Senator may not know is that the husband of one of his secrtaries, Charles Chance, was a constant hanger-on around the Erie offices in Washington.

Barkley explains that when his son got out of the Army, he received various business offers, one of them a tempting salary from the Elgin Watch Case Company. The backstage battle over OPA was not finally settled until mild-mannered Democratic Senator Abe Murdock of Utah had engaged in a word-slinging contest with GOP Senator Bob Taft of Ohio, leader of the anti-price control bloc. Finally, Chairman Alben Barkley called both to order.

All during the day-long meeting, Taft had been butting in on the testimony of OPA Administrator Paul Porter, acting like a prosecuting attorney. The Ohio Senator, who happens to be one of the biggest real estate owners in Cincinnati, refused to let Porter complete answers to committee questions.

Finally Murdock blew up.

"Mr. Chairman," he said to Barkley, "I'm going to ask you to insist on some order in this proceeding. Mr. Porter cannot answer questions if the Senator from Ohio continues these tactics. This has been going on all day and I'm getting tired of it."

Murdock added something that gave the impression Taft was trying to filibuster the meeting.

"I resent your implications," shot back Taft angrily. "I have every right to ask questions here."

"I'm not trying to take away your right," snapped the Utahan, "but with all due respect to the Senator, he should not be allowed to monopolize the discussion. Other people here also have a right to express themselves and the witness should be allowed to reply without these constant interruptions."

Barkley broke up the spat, announcing he would thereafter insist on "strict order." This took the wind out of Taft's sails, and he subsided.

Inside fact is that OPA Boss Porter was not at all keen about Barkley's compromise amendment to the guaranteed profits proposal for manufacturers, even though Taft described it as "Paul Porter's bill." Taft had held out for manufacturer price ceilings based on profits during October 1-15, 1941, plus average cost increase since. Barkley's amendment, as approved by the committee, changed the base period to the 1940 calendar year, when the average profit level was considerably less than in the two-week period in 1941.

"I can administer the act with this provision in it," said Porter. "But if you want to know my frank opinion, I'd rather it was left out."

When Gov. Jack Dempsey of New Mexico called on the President last week, Truman took occasion to put him on the spot in a friendly way about whether he would support GOP Pat Hurley, ex-Secretary of War, for the Senate.

Dempsey, a Democrat, came near defeating Democratic Senator Dennis Chavez in the primaries, and it is generally conceded that if Dempsey should back Republican Hurley, the latter could win. So Truman tactfully inquired:

"How do things look in New Mexico, Jack?"

"What do you think?" asked the former Brooklyn subway conductor, half belligerently.

The President replied that he had heard rumors Dempsey might throw his weight to the Republicans.

"The answer is," replied Governor, "Chavez is going to be elected. I'm a Democrat first, last and always."

Senator George of Georgia, Senator Barkley of Kentucky, and friends were chuckling over the embarrassment of their colleague, of Maryland, the other day.

"I never knew any man to make so many mistakes," remarked George, referring to the way Tydings had backed the wrong candidates in nearby Maryland. "It just goes to show what you get when you desert a colleague and try to take over control of a state."

George and Tydings once were sympathetic to each other when Roosevelt invaded their states in the "purge." In that campaign, Tydings had the vigorous support of his Senate colleague, George Radcliffe. Despite the fact that Radcliffe and Roosevelt had been life-long friends and banking partners, Radcliffe, [illegible] campaign manager and helped materially to re-elect him.

When Radcliffe came up in the recent Maryland Primaries, however, Tydings deserted him and took a lofty neutral position. Not lifting a hand for his old campaign manager, Tydings concentrated on trying to nominate his hand-picked candidate as governor, thus win over the Democratic machine. The man he picked, however, had offended patriotic Marylanders by driving a state-owned Cadillac all the way to Georgia during the war when other people saved their gasoline. He lost.

Instead, Maryland nominated one of the livest, most forceful young Democrats in the state, Preston Lane, a strong Roosevelt man. Lane's term as governor will expire just as Tydings comes up for re-election So instead of eliminating future competition against him, the Senator from Maryland has increased it.

That's why Barkley, George et al were laughing at their colleague's discomfort.

Sam Slick

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

About thirty-five miles from where I now sit, at my island Nova Scotia retreat, is the old home at Windsor, of Judge Thomas Haliburton, born there in 1796. He was a successful lawyer who liked to write as a diversion. In 1835 he sent to a Halifax paper some articles about a shrewd Yankee character, whom he called "Sam Slick". Later these articles were published in a volume called "The Clock-Maker, or the Sayings and Doings of Sam Slick."

These talks, or articles, stirred up an immediate interest and the book became famous, as well as its author, and many other books by him followed, both in Canada and England. This Sam Slick character was supposed to have been born in Connecticut—the state in which Jonathan Trumbull was governor—the original "Brother Jonathan."

Sam Slick sold clocks and was supposed to have met on the road a "squire" who traveled with him for some distance, who found great entertainment in the quaint talk of the salesman. So accurate was the talk of this Yankee that readers began to estimate every Yankee as a Sam Slick, or his counterpart. Sam's "down-east talk and shrewd Americanisms" became famous talk for years. Indeed his books were as popular in the United States as in Canada and abroad.

The origin of the national figure "Uncle Sam" is not definitely known, but many attribute to Judge Haliburton its source. His character was described as "a tall, thin man with hollow cheeks and bright, twinkling black eyes." He wore striped trousers, and a high hat was perched upon his head. These books by Haliburton are as interesting today as more than a century ago. Many look upon the judge as the first American humorist.

I have visited this old home of the author of "Sam Slick" many times. The first time it was run as a delightful eating place, but the government of Nova Scotia has since converted it into a most interesting museum, in honor of one of its outstanding authors and publicemen. Windsor is a beautiful, quaint little city, with many historic landmarks within its radius, and it is here that you may view the highest rise and fall of the tide in all the world, occasioned by the backing up of the waters from the Bay of Fundy.

A few miles beyond Windsor, is the famous Evangeline land, where you enter the lovely valley that leads to Yarmouth and look upon one of the greatest apple orchards in the world.

(Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Hiders")

WHO KILLED COCK ROBIN?

Truman's Tactics Boost Taft's Bid For Nomination For President

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Senator Taft of Ohio may have cherished presidential ambitions heretofore but he received an unexpected boost in the recent message of President Truman vetoing OPA.

Until then Mr. Taft had been considered only in an incidental way; but, thanks to the message of Mr. Truman, the Ohio senator was advertised over the nationwide radio and the press as the man who tried to get rid of black markets and the price controls which encourage black markets and retarded production.

Mr. Taft becomes a probability for the Republican nomination because his party is so convinced that it can win with a conservative in 1948 it is ready to consider anyone who can appear before the people as a champion of their rights.

OPA-Less People Get Lesson

Thus, despite the propaganda fostered by labor union strategists and stimulated by governmental agencies, the people now know that they can get more and better meat without the OPA than with it. The expected sky-rocketing of prices has not materialized. The figures now are down to about what they were before the OPA expired. And it is the knowledge that they can go high enough at any time now to put black markets out of business that keeps a steady flow of cattle to markets, thus providing the nation with more meat than it has seen in a long, long time.

Mr. Taft, as a Republican presidential nominee, will not be satisfactory to the so-called "liberals" of either party. But "liberalism" is rapidly getting to be known as a synonism for reaction and for continued government meddling as well as special privilege.

The "liberalism" of the Democratic Party, however, nowadays resembles the special privilege trend of the Republican era of high protectionism, when the party in power played ball with the contributors of campaign contributions and local machines in exchange for favors granted through the tariff laws.

Fears Special Privilege Lobby

Today the CIO-PAC has replaced the high protectionist lobbies for special privilege. Today a Democratic president vetoes a Case bill and a price control bill because he is afraid of the special privilege lobby which blandly promises support at the polls or threatens to withdraw it if he doesn't do its bidding.

Fearful of antagonizing the labor union politicians, Mr. Truman no longer mentions wage control nor does his record show that he made any attempt to retain wage stabilization even though he insists on price fixing.

Naturally the Republican and Democratic conservatives are fighting the reactionary policies of the Truman administration and insisting that prices be freed from restrictions.

The southern conservatives are fighting alongside Republican conservatives because the CIO-PAC and other so-called "liberal" groups are seeking special privileges for their own followers at the expense of the people as a whole.

Situation Made To Order For GOP

The situation is made to order for the nomination and election of a Republican conservative. Senator Taft, Senator Vandenberg, former Goveror Bricker of Ohio respectively may represent different brands of conservatism; but, as matters looks today, the Republican convention of 1948 need not be too particular, for if the Truman economic depression materializes by 1948—as seems likely unless the administration alters its policy of encouraging wage inflation and irresponsibility in the use of labor power—it will not matter much who the Republicans nominate. The election campaign will be merely a ratifying process and the Republican nomination will be equivalent to election.

There's only one way for the Democrats to avoid defeat and that is to pick out someone else, who can promise a better record than has been made by the Truman administration.

Congress Guards Against Federal Ownerships

By MARK SULLIVAN

In the debate over extending the Office of Price Administration, one theme is common. It appears again and again in the statements of congressmen watchful about the nature of the extension. It is a concern lest OPA become permanent, a fixed mechanism controlling not merely prices but those broader aspects of industry which prices involve.

Congressmen have felt that this tendency was inherent in the nature of OPA. Some of them had expressed apprehension lest such a tendency be tolerated, or at least might not be vigorously resisted. The attitude of congressmen feeling this way is not one of wishing to terminate OPA at once. It is an attitude of being on guard—of extending OPA for some time as a convenience or a necessity, but extending it in such a way that its activities would narrow, not broaden, and would come to an end sometime.

Guard Against Federal Control

Watchfulness of which this is an example has been a definite trait of this Congress. It is directed against proposals which are or may grow into government operation of business. It is directed also against a control of industry so minute and repressive that under it privately owned industry could not function, and a condition would arise which would give color and justification to the idea that industry be carried on by government.

Before the House last week was a routine appropriation bill, providing funds for several government agencies during the coming fiscal year, including the Tennessee Valley Authority. The bill was in an advanced stage. It had passed the House and Senate, and the two versions of it were about to go to a conference committee of the two branches. Normally this would be done perfunctorily, as a routine matter.

Against Building Federal Plant

Representative Rich of Pennsylvania observed that the bill provided three million dollars—a small amount relative to the whole appropriation — for building a plant near Mobile, Alabama, for manufacturing fertilizer, to be operated by a government agency, the Tennessee Valley Authority. Representative Rich said:

"If we build a fertilizer plant down there we might just as well build a furniture plant for the federal government, we might just as well build a clothing plant, we might as well say we are going to become socialistic in this country. This is the way to do it. Of course, the government is in lots of business but there is no reason why we should go any farther. Stop it. Stop it now."

Mr. Rich moved that the Representatives of the House in the approaching House-Senate conference committee be instructed not to agree to the appropriation for the fertilizer plant. His motion was adopted, there will be no government fertilizer plant.

Congressman Rich saw and those who voted with him saw, and congressmen who had been similarly vigilant in other matters saw, what is not realized by many. To many, an appropriation of a small amount of money for a government fertilizer plant seems a trivial thing. But Congressman Rich saw the principle that is involved. He saw also the process by which a small government plant becomes a large government plant, and would ultimately extinguish the manufacture of fertilizer by privately owned plants; by which a short step of government into industry becomes presently a long step, and by which a first step leads to a second step, and the second to a third.

In England the principle of nationalizing industry was adopted deliberately and at one step. It was put before the people in an election, as a program of the Labor Party. The people voted the Labor Party into power and private industry is being taken over. In the United States the number of persons wanting nationalization of industry is infinitesimally small. Neither of the two great parties wants it—the only parties avowing it are the Socialists and Communists.

Private Ownership Easily Destroyed

But private ownership can be destroyed without conscious intention to destroy it. Congress feels this danger exists, and is on guard against it. One way to save private ownership is to affirm and live up to a fundamental principle, that government never enter into industry in competition with its citizens. There is nothing that government can do in industry that industry itself cannot do.

During the war, government had needs of a kind which industry does not normally supply. But government, by cooperation with industry, got from industry the supplies it needed. It got them with a speed and abundance which made the United States incomparably the most effective producer of war materials in the world. By the end of the war we were turning out more materials than all our allies combined or of the enemy countries combined.

This took place before the eyes of the present generation of Americans. They did it. It is difficult to imagine they will ever knowingly sanction abandonment of the system by which it was accomplished.

"IT SAYS HERE" By Bob Hope

Somewhere between Norfolk and Richmond. I've gotten used to covering ground the past few years. But this airborne vaudeville unit of ours is traveling so fast that last week we passed Superman three times. I love traveling by plane . . . my laundry dries quicker . . . but it does have its disadvantages. As we left Pittsburgh this morning, three critics rented an interceptor to shoot us down. And we don't always have time to stop and get out. We just land and do a show on the wing. For the first time we ran into a little weather trouble in Norfolk. We started our show outside at Foreman Field, the Norfolk Division of William and Mary College Football Stadium, and right in the middle of my first lull rain started to pour down. Being from California, I naturally ignored it and pretended it was applause. But then I noticed the audience, including Admiral Forrestal and Governor Tuck of Virginia, running out faster than usual, holding chairs over their heads. So after a lot of confusion we managed to get the show moved into a nearby gymnasium and eventually finished it with the entire audience standing up. Right now we're on our way to Richmond to do our eight-thirty performance. While I'm writing this I have Jack Pepper looking out the window for a small town with a runway. If he spots one, we may stop and do a supper show. Although some of the cast have been complaining about doing supper shows. They think we should go into a restaurant and pay for our meals like every one else.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

By DOROTHY MANNERS

HOLLYWOOD, July 8—Hal Wallis won't take time to give his blonde statuesque new star, Kristine Miller, a build up. She'll be launched as a star in her first picture, "The Beggars Are Coming to Town"—and there's quite a story behind Miss Miller. She was born in Buenos Aires but returned to her parent's native land, Denmark, when she was just six years old. Just before the Nazis took over her country, she was chosen the typical Viking girl by the Royal Society of Illustrators of Denmark.

Wallis spotted her recently in one of Ibsen's plays in San Francisco and signed her to a contract. Kristine speaks English, Spanish and Danish fluently and has a working knowledge of Portuguese and German. An odd twist on this is that Hal, some years back, got wind of a Scandanavian charmer named Ingrid Bergman, was out to sign her—but David Selznick beat him to it by one week.

Eddie Sutherland has been working days directing the modern version of "Abie's Irish Rose" as a movie and working nights on the new, pepped up stage version with author Anne Nichols. "Abie" has been brought completely up to date for both presentations and Eddie returns with Miss Nichols to start the show rolling again on Broadway in October. The movie won't be released until a month later. For awhile they were toying with the idea of the screen cast playing the Broadway show—but it isn't practical. For one thing, Joanne Dru, the femme lead, doesn't want to leave home and husband, Dick Haymes, for that long.

When Joan Edwards, singing star of "The Hit Parade", comes to Hollywood July 18 to star in Republic's "Hit Parade of 1947" she's bringing along her child, a nurse, a secretary, a maid, her mother and her publicity man. I hope she has a place to park them because the housing here is getting worse—not better. Joan's deal with Republic is for this one picture but with options for others. I hear the studio plans to groom her as a singer-comedienne, possibly to replace Judy Canova.

Had a chatty little session with Clifton Webb in which he practically outlined the next year of his life—and he has it planned right down to the day. The witty Mr. Webb left last weekend for Arrowhead Springs for three weeks study on "Present Laughter", the Noel Coward play he does on Broadway this fall after a brief vacation. His contract for the show runs for eight months and he isn't worrying about a New York apartment because Grace Moore very kindly let him borrow hers for that time. When Clifton closes the play, he goes with Grace and her husband to their villa in the south of France for another rest. He wound up "The Razor's Edge" a pretty sick man, you know, and from here on in he's allowing time for complete rests and longer vacations.

Van Johnson has good cause to believe that he's operating in a lucky cycle. Just by a sudden change of mind, he missed being in an automobile accident similar to the one that nearly cost him his life a few years ago. Returning from a Coronado beach location for "High Barbaree" Van was scheduled to make the trip with Director John Waters in a studio car. At the last minute he decided to ride with Cameron Mitchell, another actor in the picture. The car in which Van was supposed to have made the trip cracked up in a serious collision on highway 101 and Waters was badly hurt.

Hollywood in shorts: Natalie Shafer dining with her ex, Louis Calhern, at the Players, starting reconciliation rumors—particularly now that his romance with Dorothy Gish is cold. But the lady says, "Not a chance. Just good friends"; George Marshall tossing a dinner party at Lucy's tomorrow night for the top mystery story writers in town. The 'who-dun-its" originators will then proceed to the Paramount studio for a look at "The Blue Dahlia"; Joe E. Brown brought down the California Country Club the other night with his private version of a jitterbug—and can he "jitt"?; Barbara Britton's husband, Dr. Eugene Czukor is at the Wiltshire hospital following an emergency appendectomy; talk is that the writing costs on "Lucky Baldwin" are up around $700,000 without a star set or a camera crank turned; Tyrone Power flies to Burlingame in his own plane to attend the wedding of Anne Baxter and John Hodiak; Eddie Cantor's long postponed picture at RKO with Joan Davis gets going very soon. It's "Rich Man, Poor Man" with Jack Gross executive producer and Eddie, himself, producing; Lou Costello is the next to contribute his services to a short on juvenile delinquency, the same as Frankie Sinatra did for "The House I Live In" —and Lou is angling for his good friend, Leo McCarey to direct it; Charlie Foy's new Supper Club in the Valley brought out Alice Faye and Phil Harris, Jane Wyman and Ronald Reagan, Fibber McGee and Molly, Eddie Albert and the Arthur Treachers. But it was Blanche Ring who brought down the house when she left her party to sing her old hit, "Rings On Your Fingers and Bells On Your Toes"; David Niven, making one of his rare appearances at the Beverly Hills Club in a quiet party with the Rex Harrisons and the Garson Kanins. That's all today, see you tomorrow.

Mrs. Layman Marks 92nd Birthday With Sisters

Recalls Old Stage Coaches, Has Lived Through Three Wars

Mrs. Annie L. Layman, who now resides with her daughter, Mrs. Fuller Davis, Frostburg, observed her 92nd birthday Sunday, visiting two of her sisters. Rather than have the usual party Mrs. Layman went to Grahamtown to see her sister, Mrs. Arella DeVore, 76, who has been seriously ill since last spring, and now is slightly improved. Another sister, Mrs. Mollie Hawkins, 78, Akron, O., also came to Grahamtown where a chicken dinner was served members of the family.

Born near Grantsville, July 8, 1854, Mrs. Layman spent most of her life in Allegany county, principally on farms near Midland and Carlos. In her youth she attended the Blucker school, near Grantsville. As a young woman she was employed at Layman's Inn, where she recalls the early stage coaches made daily stops.

The former Miss Annie Louise Crowe, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Crowe, Mrs. Layman and three sisters, including Mrs. Nan Weimer, 80, Oklahoma, are the last of a family of eight or nine. Mrs. Layman is in rather good health, but except for activities about the house, does not get around much.

She is the mother of 16 children, 11 of whom are still living. They are Ernest and George, Shaft; Robert, Detroit, Mich.; Benjamin, Syracuse, N. Y.; Lawrence, Alexandria, Va.; Mrs. Nellie Burns, Mrs. Samuel Neat, Mrs. Ada Koekler, city; Mrs. Russell Diehl, Mrs. Davis, Frostburg; and Mrs. Charles J. Wolfe, Hagerstown. Her eight grandsons and five great grandsons have all received their honorable discharges from military service.

Although Mrs. Layman has lived through three wars, she has never had a son in the service, due to the age limits at those periods.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

By DOROTHY MANNERS

HOLLYWOOD, July 8—Hal Wallis won't take time to give his blonde statuesque new star, Kristine Miller, a build up. She'll be launched as a star in her first picture, "The Beggars Are Coming to Town"—and there's quite a story behind Miss Miller. She was born in Buenos Aires but returned to her parent's native land, Denmark, when she was just six years old. Just before the Nazis took over her country, she was chosen the typical Viking girl by the Royal Society of Illustrators of Denmark.

Wallis Spotted her recently in one of Ibsen's plays in San Francisco and signed her to a contract. Kristine speaks English, Spanish and Danish fluently and has a working knowledge of Portuguese and German. An odd twist on this is that Hal, some years back, got wind of a Scandanavian charmer named Ingrid Bergman, was out to sign her—but David Selznick beat him to it by one week.

Eddie Sutherland has been working days directing the modern version of "Abie's Irish Rose" as a movie and working nights on the new, pepped up stage version with author Anne Nichols. "Abie" has been brought completely up to date for both presentations and Eddie returns with Miss Nichols to start the show rolling again on Broadway in October. The movie won't be released until a month later. For awhile they were toying with the idea of the screen cast playing the Broadway show—but it isn't practical. For one thing, Joanne Dru, the femme lead, doesn't want to leave home and husband, Dick Haymes, for that long.

When Joan Edwards, singing star of "The Hit Parade", comes to Hollywood July 18 to star in Republic's "Hit Parade of 1947" she's bringing along her child, a nurse, a secretary, a maid, her mother and her publicity man. I hope she has a place to park them because the housing here is getting worse—not better. Joan's deal with Republic is for this one picture but with options for others. I hear the studio plans to groom her as a singer-comedienne, possibly to replace Judy Canova.

Had a chatty little session with Clifton Webb in which he practically outlined the next year of his life—and he has it planned right down to the day. The witty Mr. Webb left last weekend for Arrowhead Springs for three weeks study on "Present Laughter", the Noel Coward play he does on Broadway this fall after a brief vacation. His contract for the show runs for eight months and he isn't worrying about a New York apartment because Grace Moore very kindly let him borrow hers for that time. When Clifton closes the play, he goes with Grace and her husband to their villa in the south of France for another rest. He wound up "The Razor's Edge" a pretty sick man, you know, and from here on in he's allowing time for complete rests and longer vacations.

Van Johnson has good cause to believe that he's operating in a lucky cycle. Just by a sudden change of mind, he missed being in an automobile accident similar to the one that nearly cost him his life a few years ago. Returning from a Coronado beach location for "High Barbaree" Van was scheduled to make the trip with Director John Waters in a studio car. At the last minute he decided to ride with Cameron Mitchell, another actor in the picture. The car in which Van was supposed to have made the trip cracked up in a serious collision on highway 101 and Waters was badly hurt.

Hollywood in shorts: Natalie Shafer dining with her ex, Louis Calhern, at the Players, starting reconciliation rumors—particularly now that his romance with Dorothy Gish is cold. But the lady says, "Not a chance. Just good friends"; George Marshall tossing a dinner party at Lucy's tomorrow night for the top mystery story writers in town. The "who-dun-its" originators will then proceed to the Paramount studio for a look at "The Blue Dahlia"; Joe E. Brown brought down the California Country Club the other night with his private version of a jitterbug—and can he "jitt"?; Barbara Britton's husband, Dr. Eugene Czukor is at the Wiltshire hospital following an emergency appendectomy; talk is that the writing costs on "Lucky Baldwin" are up around $700,000 without a star set or a camera crank turned; Tyrone Power flies to Burlingame in his own plane to attend the wedding of Anne Baxter and John Hodiak; Eddie Cantor's long postponed picture at RKO with Joan Davis gets going very soon. It's "Rich Man, Poor Man" with Jack Gross executive producer and Eddie, himself, producing; Lou Costello is the next to contribute his services to a short on juvenile delinquency, the same as Frankie Sinatra did for "The House I Live In"—and Lou is angling for his good friend, Leo McCarey to direct it; Charlie Foy's new Supper Club in the Valley brought out Alice Faye and Phil Harris, Jane Wyman and Ronald Reagan, Fibber McGee and Molly, Eddie Albert and the Arthur Treachers. But it was Blanche Ring who brought down the house when she left her party to sing her old hit, "Rings On Your Fingers and Bells On Your Toes"; David Niven, making one of his rare appearances at the Beverly Hills Club in a quiet party with the Rex Harrisons and the Garson Kanins. That's all today, see you tomorrow.

Mrs. Layman Marks 92nd Birthday With Sisters

Recalls Old Stage Coaches, Has Lived Through Three Wars

Mrs. Annie L. Layman, who now resides with her daughter, Mrs. Fuller Davis, Frostburg, observed her 92nd birthday Sunday, visiting two of her sisters. Rather than have the usual party Mrs. Layman went to Grahamtown to see her sister, Mrs. Arella DeVore, 76, who has been seriously ill since last spring, and now is slightly improved. Another sister, Mrs. Mollie Hawkins, 78, Akron, O., also came to Grahamtown where a chicken dinner was served members of the family.

Born near Grantsville, July 8, 1854, Mrs. Layman spent most of her life in Allegany county, principally on farms near Midland and Carlos. In her youth she attended the Blucker school, near Grantsville. As a young woman she was employed at Layman's Inn, where she recalls the early stage coaches made daily stops.

The former Miss Annie Louise Crowe, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Crowe, Mrs. Layman and three sisters, including Mrs. Nan Weimer, 80, Oklahoma, are the last of a family of eight or nine. Mrs. Layman is in rather good health, but except for activities about the house, does not get around much.

She is the mother of 16 children, 11 of whom are still living. They are Ernest and George, Shaft; Robert, Detroit, Mich.; Benjamin, Syracuse, N. Y.; Lawrence, Alexandria, Va.; Mrs. Nellie Burns, Mrs. Samuel Neat, Mrs. Ada Koekler, city; Mrs. Russell Diehl, Mrs. Davis, Frostburg; and Mrs. Charles J. Wolfe, Hagerstown. Her eight grandsons and five great grandsons have all received their honorable discharges from military service.

Although Mrs. Layman has lived through three wars, she has never had a son in the service, due to the age limits at those periods.

WIFE PRESERVERS

Have you a pot of chives on your windowsill? Cut the green tops close to the ground. Freshly gathered chives have the best flavor, and are used to replace onions but are milder in flavor. They should be washed and finely chopped just before they are used.

Many Leaders Continue To Tumble As Scattered Stocks Recover

NEW YORK, July 8 (AP)—Scattered stocks shifted to recovery ground in today's market while many leaders continued to stumble.

Dealings dwindled appreciably after a fairly active opening and irregularity was the rule at the close. While there were a few exceptions, variations generally held to small fractions. Transfers of 680,000 shares compared with 490,000 Friday which was a low mark since last August.

New highs for 1946 were posted for Distillers Corp., up ⅝ at $25, and United States Lines, up ⅝ at $23.50. Revere Copper, starting on a 3,200-share block, added 2 points at $30. Hiram Walker preferred was up 1½ at $19.50. Canadian Pacific ⅛ at $19.50 and Douglas Aircraft 2 at $86.

Modest improvement was shown for Youngstown Sheet, Santa Fe, American Smelting, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, Boeing, American Can, Westinghouse, Union Carbide and Johns-Manville.

Losers included Allied Stores, off 2¼ at $49.50; Transamerica 1⅛ at $19.50, McIntyre Porcupine 1 at $58.50 and Dome Mines ⅝ at $23.75. On the downside were Republic Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, United States Rubber, Goodyear, Woolworth, Western Union "A", North American, Consolidated Edison, Kennecott, Anaconda, duPont, Eastman Kodak Philip Morris, New York Central Northern Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio and Chesapeake and Ohio.

In the Curb Aluminum of America advanced 2⅜ to $88.25 and Aluminum Ltd. 2½ at $198. Among casualties were Fansteel, Cities Service and Consolidated Gas of Baltimore. Turnover here was 330,000 shares versus 210,000 in the previous session.

The bond market moved back and forth uncertainly in quick response to light gusts of selling and buying.

A number of rail and foreign dollar obligations managed to close with small gains but too many losses appeared to indicate a definite trend.

United States governments in the over-the-counter market advanced again. The victory loan Dec. 2 ½s gained 1-32 at 104 6-32 bid. Sales of $3,280,000 compared with $2,410,000 Friday.

Many Leaders Continue To Tumble As Scattered Stocks Recover

NEW YORK, July 8 (AP)—Scattered stocks shifted to recovery ground in today's market while many leaders continued to stumble.

Dealings dwindled appreciably after a fairly active opening and irregularity was the rule at the close. While there were a few exceptions, variations generally held to small fractions. Transfers of 680,000 shares compared with 490,000 Friday which was a low mark since last August.

New highs for 1946 were posted for Distillers Corp., up ⅝ at $25, and United States Lines, up ⅝ at $23.50. Revere Copper, starting on a 3,200-share block, added 2 points at $30. Hiram Walker preferred was up 1½ at $19.50. Canadian Pacific ⅛ at $19.50 and Douglas Aircraft 2 at $86.

Modest improvement was shown for Youngstown Sheet, Santa Fe, American Smelting, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, Boeing, American Can, Westinghouse, Union Carbide and Johns-Manville.

Losers included Allied Stores, off 2¼ at $49.50; Transamerica 1⅛ at $19.50, McIntyre Porcupine 1 at $58.50 and Dome Mines ⅝ at $23.75. On the downside were Republic Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, United States Rubber, Goodyear, Woolworth, Western Union "A", North American, Consolidated Edison, Kennecott, Anaconda, duPont, Eastman Kodak Philip Morris, New York Central Northern Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio and Chesapeake and Ohio.

In the Curb Aluminum of America advanced 2¾ to $88.25 and Aluminum Ltd. 2½ at $198. Among casualties were Fansteel, Cities Service and Consolidated Gas of Baltimore. Turnover here was 330,000 shares versus 210,000 in the previous session.

The bond market moved back and forth uncertainly in quick response to light gusts of selling and buying.

A number of rail and foreign dollar obligations managed to close with small gains but too many losses appeared to indicate a definite trend.

United States governments in the over-the-counter market advanced again. The victory loan Dec. 2 ½s gained 1-32 at 104 6-32 bid. Sales of $3,280,000 compared with $2,410,000 Friday.

LISTEN WORLD

By ELSIE ROBINSON
(Registered U.S. Patent Office)

A NATION OF SNEAK THIEVES

I've been doing a peculiar thing. I've been listing the names of 19 women, all of whom are my friends, many of them known through their public careers. They are real women, kindly and generous wives and mothers. Many are ardent church members. Some occupy positions of great trust. Naturally they would be both shocked and furious if anyone said that they have no more morals than a cannibal and were, in fact, shameless thieves and traitors. Yet that is exactly what they are.

The first woman steals stockings. You know how it is with hosiery these days. Surely I'm not going to brand a lady "a thief" merely because she's lucky enough to have a friend who knows a woman whose husband takes a little trip to Mexico once a week. It isn't as if she really stole the stockings. She wouldn't dream of such a thing. Yet she is as deliberate a criminal as any "second story" prowler. And as actual a traitor to these United States as any spy now waiting his turn before the firing squad.

The second lady on my list has as vicious a record. She doesn't deliberately rob stores of their mink coats or pearl necklaces. She'd be outraged if you even hinted that she was a lawbreaker. But she laughs gaily if anyone asks how she managed to get those gorgeous fox furs past the Canadian inspectors without paying a cent—"not one single teeny weeny, penny, darling."

Perhaps you wouldn't call the third lady a thief either. That depends on your viewpoint. You can hardly call a woman a criminal simply because she tries to serve her family and make her dollars stretch. Or can you? Suppose in making this simple transaction she wrecks the legal and economic system which makes that family life possible? Suppose in gratifying her desires she cheapens and degrades all the agencies which were created to protect her?

That sounds more serious, doesn't it? Yet that is exactly what this "good" wife and mother did. Theoretically she only bought a chicken for Sunday dinner. But men have been shot for lesser crimes against the state. For she bought that chicken in the same place where our first lady found her nylons—in the black market.

She did not visit the farm where the chicken was raised nor does she know the farmer who raised it nor any one of the score of men through whose hands it passed. But she did know that she was dealing with the black market. That motive was sufficient for her and for every other woman on my list of 19.

They have all desired certain things which, because of the war, are extremely hard to get. They know why these things are hard to get. They know that thousands of brave lads gave their lives to preserve the way of life which made such luxuries possible in the past. They know that only by such tragic suffering and unlimited expense have we been able to save the greatest system of government ever devised. Yet in spite of this fearful knowledge—in spite of our present economic and industrial crisis, which is as great a peril as any actual war, they have deliberately and callously defied the law for their personal convenience.

Why is the black market? That is why. The black market was not created essentially by gangs of racketeers nor sponsored by veteran thieves. It flourishes because the great majority of us who call ourselves good citizens laugh at the law. Merely to serve a personal desire we make a monkey of Uncle Sam. We do not consider consequences—"we want what we want when we want it"—and we don't give a darn how we get it.

God save America!

And He'd better hurry.

Or He'll find a nation of sneak thieves who won't be worth the gas or rope it takes to kill them.

Local Man Is Rescued From Burning Car

W. C. Burrell, 78, 328 Fayette street, has returned to Cumberland following an accident near Morgantown, W. Va., Tuesday in which his car overturned and burned.

Trooper W. B. Snodgrass, of the West Virginia State Police, said Burrell lost control of his car near Dellslow where it collided with a panel truck owned by A. J. Phillips, Jr., Morgantown. With Burrell inside, his car plunged over an embankment and caught fire. The truck driver and two passersby rescued Burrell, the trooper added. Burrell was not seriously hurt but suffered many bruises.

Colorado Campus Is Doggone Doggy

BOULDER, Colo.—(AP)—Anyone putting up a "no dogs" sign on the University of Colorado campus probably would be bitten promptly—by students if not by dogs—because:

Hundreds of canines come to the campus daily and many attend classes, though most fall asleep.

One Scottie named Jeannie followed her mistress, the alumni office secretary, to work each day for years. When the mistress resigned, Jeannie continued to show up promptly at eight every day, knock off an hour for lunch and return to the office at one.

Penicillin Vapor Is Used To Treat Lung Disorders

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Somtimes, science gets a good idea and then has to wait a hundred years for it to pay off.

That's the way it has been in lung infections, with vapor. What could be more natural when disease exists in the organs of breathing than to think of curing it by having the patient breathe in a vapor containing some healing substance?

It's a splendid idea, this one of bringing a healer in such direct contact with diseased parts with so little trouble. It's a natural and medical men of more than a century ago thought it up.

Ever since, other medical men have been playing around with the same thought without getting much further forward.

Heavy Droplets

The droplets of medicine were so heavy that they fell almost at once on the lining membranes of structures in the upper part of the breathing apparatus, windpipe and voice-box.

Recently, however, methods have been found of giving a vapor so fine that it can reach the deepest portions of the lungs and so half of the problem was solved, but physicians still lacked a really powerful drug which could be used in this way.

Then along came penicillin and at long last the doctors had what looked like a winning combination. Preliminary reports indicate that it is going to prove as good in practice as it looked in theory.

According to Dr. Allan Hurst, Denver, there is still no definite agreement as to what the best dose of penicillin is for such treatment. In some instances as little as 1,000 units a day have been given with success while as much as 50,000 units every three or four hours has also been used with similarly good results.

Treating Lung Disorders

He tried out this method of treatment in a group of patients with a number of different lung disorders. The penicillin was administered by passing oxygen through a solution containing 50,000 units of penicillin in one cubic centimeter of salt solution.

Among the cases treated were patients with a disorder known as bronchiectasis. This is a condition in which the bronchi or small tubes in the lungs are enlarged or dilated. Such patients also have an excessive amount of sputum, cough a great deal and have some difficulty in breathing.

Patients treated with the penicillin in the form of a vapor, breathed directly into the lung were benefited to a great extent, in most instances. The amount of sputum was reduced, fever when present was overcome and coughing and tightness in the chest also were benefited.

Patients with asthma, a condition in which there are wheezing, tightness in the chest and coughing were also helped in many instances by this treatment. It was noted that in some instances some slight aggravation of the symptoms occurred when the treatment was first started but this cleared up quickly.

It would appear that this type of treatment is worth trying in many cases.

Quiz For Marylanders

THINGS YOU MAY NOT HAVE KNOWN TILL NOW

By QUENTIN HOWE

Answer to Question 1:

Believe it or not, in 1745 an advertisement appeared in the Maryland Gazette announcing that a wrestling match would be held between races for any citizens who wished to contest. The prize to the winner was a pair of "London Pumps"—shoes to you. Horse racing has been a Maryland tradition for over two hundred years and is today Maryland's most popular sport.

Answer to Question 2:

The money which makes Maryland racing possible is provided by two people—and two people only—the horseman who brings his horses to Maryland racing and the man or woman who goes to the track to see the racing. These two people—no one else—provide the money which makes Maryland racing possible. Without the support of the horseman and without the support of the public, there would be no horse racing in Maryland no matter what the State of Maryland, the State Racing Commission or the Racing Association wanted to do about it.

Answer to Question 3:

The State Treasurer at Annapolis makes the most money out of Pimlico. Out of every dollar that Pimlico takes in the government gets 34 cents. Next comes the horseman who has brought his horse to Pimlico to race and provide the spectacle which Marylanders want. Out of the 66 cents left the horseman takes 22 cents, leaving 44 cents. Next comes the cost of operating Pimlico, most of which is wages for employees. This takes 23 cents. After Federal taxes Pimlico has 2 cents left for dividends. This explains who makes the most money out of Pimlico. (13)

SPIRES OF THE SPIRIT

Whether it is a sick Eskimo child or food for Europe's starving people, Americans respond to the call for help. At such times sentiment means more than cost. We can be satisfied with nothing less than our best.

The same is true when there is need for funeral service. Then, too, the family wants the best. Mindful of this as well as the fact that many families have to economize, we offer all the advantages of our service to every patron regardless of the price of the funeral selected.

A NATION OF SNEAK THIEVES

I've been doing a peculiar thing. I've been listing the names of 19 women, all of whom are my friends, many of them known through their public careers. They are real women, kindly and generous wives and mothers. Many are ardent church members. Some occupy positions of great trust. Naturally they would be both shocked and furious if anyone said that they have no more morals than a cannibal and were, in fact, shameless thieves and traitors. Yet that is exactly what they are.

The first woman steals stockings. You know how it is with hosiery these days. Surely I'm not going to brand a lady "a thief" merely because she's lucky enough to have a friend who knows a woman whose husband takes a little trip to Mexico once a week. It isn't as if she really stole the stockings. She wouldn't dream of such a thing. Yet she is as deliberate a criminal as any "second story" prowler. And as actual a traitor to these United States as any spy now waiting his turn before the firing squad.

The second lady on my list has as vicious a record. She doesn't deliberately rob stores of their mink coats or pearl necklaces. She'd be outraged if you even hinted that she was a lawbreaker. But she laughs gaily if anyone asks how she managed to get those gorgeous fox furs past the Canadian inspectors without paying a cent —"not one single teeny weeny, penny, darling."

Perhaps you wouldn't call the third lady a thief either. That depends on your viewpoint. You can hardly call a woman a criminal simply because she tries to serve her family and make her dollars stretch. Or can you? Suppose in making this simple transaction she wrecks the legal and economic system which makes that family life possible? Suppose in gratifying her desires she cheapens and degrades all the agencies which were created to protect her?

That sounds more serious, doesn't it? Yet that is exactly what this "good" wife and mother did. Theoretically she only bought a chicken for Sunday dinner. But men have been shot for lesser crimes against the state. For she bought that chicken in the same place where our first lady found her nylons—in the black market.

She did not visit the farm where the chicken was raised nor does she know the farmer who raised it nor any one of the score of men through whose hands it passed. But she did know that she was dealing with the black market. That motive was sufficient for her and for every other woman on my list of 19.

They have all desired certain things which, because of the war, are extremely hard to get. They know why these things are hard to get. They know that thousands of brave lads gave their lives to preserve the way of life which made such luxuries possible in the past. They know that only by such tragic suffering and unlimited expense have we been able to save the greatest system of government ever devised. Yet in spite of this fearful knowledge—in spite of our present economic and industrial crisis, which is as great a peril as any actual war, they have deliberately and callously defied the law for their personal convenience.

Why is the black market? That is why. The black market was not created essentially by gangs of racketeers nor sponsored by veteran thieves. It flourishes because the great majority of us who call ourselves good citizens laugh at the law. Merely to serve a personal desire we make a monkey of Uncle Sam. We do not consider consequences—"we want what we want when we want it"—and we don't give a darn how we get it.

God save America!

And He'd better hurry.

Penicillin Vapor Is Used To Treat Lung Disorders

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Somtimes science gets a good idea and then has to wait a hundred years for it to pay off.

That's the way it has been in lung infections, with vapor. What could be more natural when disease exists in the organs of breathing than to think of curing it by having the patient breathe in a vapor containing some healing substance?

It's a splendid idea, this one of bringing a healer in such direct contact with diseased parts with so little trouble. It's a natural and medical men of more than a century ago thought it up.

Ever since, other medical men have been playing around with the same thought without getting much further forward.

Heavy Droplets

The droplets of medicine were so heavy that they fell almost at once on the lining membranes of structures in the upper part of the breathing apparatus, windpipe and voice-box.

Recently, however, methods have been found of giving a vapor so fine that it can reach the deepest portions of the lungs and so half of the problem was solved, but physicians still lacked a really powerful drug which could be used in this way.

Then along came penicillin and at long last the doctors had what looked like a winning combination. Preliminary reports indicate that it is going to prove as good in practice as it looked in theory.

According to Dr. Allan Hurst, Denver, there is still no definite agreement as to what the best dose of penicillin is for such treatment. In some instances as little as 1,000 units a day have been given with success while as much as 50,000 units every three or four hours has also been used with similarly good results.

Treating Lung Disorders

He tried out this method of treatment in a group of patients with a number of different lung disorders. The penicillin was administered by passing oxygen through a solution containing 50,000 units of penicillin in one cubic centimeter of salt solution.

Among the cases treated were patients with a disorder known as bronchiectasis. This is a condition in which the bronchi or small tubes in the lungs are enlarged or dilated. Such patients also have an excessive amount of sputum, cough a great deal and have some difficulty in breathing.

Patients treated with the penicillin in the form of a vapor, breathed directly into the lung were benefited to a great extent, in most instances. The amount of sputum was reduced, fever when present was overcome and coughing and tightness in the chest also were benefited.

Patients with asthma, a condition in which there are wheezing, tightness in the chest and coughing were also helped in many instances by this treatment. It was noted that in some instances some slight aggravation of the symptoms occurred when the treatment was first started but this cleared up quickly.

Colorado Campus Is Doggone Doggy

BOULDER, Colo.—(AP)—Anyone putting up a "no dogs" sign on the University of Colorado campus probably would be bitten promptly—by students if not by dogs—because:

Hundreds of canines come to the campus daily and many attend classes, though most fall asleep.

One Scottie named Jeannie followed her mistress, the alumni office secretary, to work each day for years. When the mistress resigned, Jeannie continued to show up promptly at eight every day, knock off an hour for lunch and return to the office at one.

Quiz For Marylanders

THINGS YOU MAY NOT HAVE KNOWN TILL NOW

By QUENTIN HOWE

Answer to Question 1:

Believe it or not, in 1745 an advertisement appeared in the Maryland Gazette announcing that a wrestling match would be held between races for any citizens who wished to contest. The prize to the winner was a pair of "London Pumps"—shoes to you. Horse racing has been a Maryland tradition for over two hundred years and is today Maryland's most popular sport.

Answer to Question 2:

The money which makes Maryland racing possible is provided by two people—and two people only—the horseman who brings his horses to Maryland racing and the man or woman who goes to the track to see the racing. These two people—no one else—provide the money which makes Maryland racing possible. Without the support of the horseman and without the support of the public, there would be no horse racing in Maryland no matter what the State of Maryland, the State Racing Commission or the Racing Association wanted to do about it.

Answer to Question 3:

The State Treasurer at Annapolis makes the most money out of Pimlico. Out of every dollar that Pimlico takes in the government gets 34 cents. Next comes the horseman who has brought his horse to Pimlico to race and provide the spectacle which Marylanders want. Out of the 66 cents left the horseman takes 22 cents, leaving 44 cents. Next comes the cost of operating Pimlico, most of which is wages for employees. This takes 23 cents. After Federal taxes Pimlico has 2 cents left for dividends. This explains who makes the most money out of Pimlico.

Heskett and City Engineer Ralph Rizer hesitated to give opinions pending a further investigation, it was assumed that the thoroughfare could be closed providing it does not show on any city plat or in any deeds as a public thoroughfare.

Rizer said in his opinion the thoroughfare is a private alley and therefore can be closed by the owner of the property in question, but Heskett said there are generally some unusual angles to such cases which have to be investigated beforecoming to any conclusions. However, Heskett said the matter could probably be taken care of through private litigation.

Commissioner Light proposed that papers be drawn looking to the possibility of closing one alley and opening up another adjacent to the Schmidt Baking Company property.

City Engineer Rizer originally turned down the request of the baking company to shut off the alley running off Pearre avenue. The company proposed the change as part of an expansion program. The company appealed to the Zoning Appeals Board and the board last week declined to hear the case. A city ordinance will be required to change the location of the present alley which is a public thoroughfare.

The council concurred with Mayor Post in reappointing Benjamin W. O'Rourke as a member of the city planning commission, representing city labor groups. The appointment is effective as of June 1 and is for five years.

The Mayor and Council approved a proposal to take a full page advertisement in the Department of Maryland Convention Program of the American Legion to be held in Cumberland, August 14-17.

Kilgore Asks Truman For More Food For West Virginia Miners

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP) — Senator Kilgore (D-W Va) said today President Truman had promised an investigation of the possibility of direct food allocations to coal mining areas.

Kilgore asked the president for help in correcting what the senator described as a "deplorable food situation in the coal fields of West Virginia."

After his White House conference, Kilgore told a reporter he informed the president that the "miners in West Virginia are not getting enough food, and the situation must be improved immediately."

The senator said Mr. Truman promised to ask Secretary of Agriculture Anderson to investigate the possibility of having food allocated directly to the mining areas.

Kilgore added that he showed the president "several letters from mine locals in West Virginia in which the spokesman said that the miners could not continue working in the pits unless they got more food." He said he had received scores of similar letters and that he knew from "first hand investigation that the situation has not been exaggerated."

Kilgore said he also discussed with the president the disposition of surplus property.

The president, he added, said he favored a suggestion by Kilgore to establish an office in West Virginia to handle applications from West Virginians. The president was quoted as saying he would discuss the matter with officials.

Kilgore said there "has been a lot of justifiable criticism about the manner the regional offices have been handling surplus property."

Joseph Hinebaugh Plans To Build Hotel In Oakland

Drainage Work Requested Prior To Beginning Of Construction

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND, July 8—Permission to build a produce house, a residence, and a request for some drainage work to make way for the erection of a hotel in Oakland, were considered by the mayor and city council when they met in regular session last week.

Joseph Hinebaugh appeared before the council in reference to some drainage necessary on his lot, corner of Crook and Third streets, upon which he plans to erect a modern hotel as soon as material becomes available. Some storm drains of the town now make it swampy during rainy weather, and Hinebaugh was assured that the matter would be looked after as soon as the state roads commission makes a decision as to the permanent location of Route 219 and grade levels are established.

Hinebaugh is planning to erect a four-story hotel of 50 or more bedrooms and baths. Architects are now completing the plans but no definite time has been set for the start of construction work.

The council also granted Emeric Dusic permission to erect a two-story produce house, 56 by 60 feet, of concrete block, with composition roof, at his property on High street extended. Permission was also granted to Leslie Baker to build a residence, 30 by 32 feet on his lot, corner of Seventh and Reese streets.

The clerk-collectors' report showed receipts for June to be $4,387.14, and monthly bills amounted to $2,852.45. The Sunday movie tax for June amounted to $118.30.

Heskett and City Engineer Ralph Rizer hesitated to give opinions pending a further investigation, it was assumed that the thoroughfare could be closed providing it does not show on any city plat or in any deeds as a public thoroughfare.

Rizer said in his opinion the thoroughfare is a private alley and therefore can be closed by the owner of the property in question, but Heskett said there are generally some unusual angles to such cases which have to be investigated beforecoming to any conclusions. However, Heskett said the matter could probably be taken care of through private litigation.

Commissioner Light proposed that papers be drawn looking to the possibility of closing one alley and opening up another adjacent to the Schmidt Baking Company property.

City Engineer Rizer originally turned down the request of the baking company to shut off the alley running off Pearre avenue. The company proposed the change as part of an expansion program. The company appealed to the Zoning Appeals Board and the board last week declined to hear the case. A city ordinance will be required to change the location of the present alley which is a public thoroughfare.

Kilgore Asks Truman For More Food For West Virginia Miners

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP) — Senator Kilgore (D-W Va) said today President Truman had promised an investigation of the possibility of direct food allocations to coal mining areas.

Kilgore asked the president for help in correcting what the senator described as a "deplorable food situation in the coal fields of West Virginia."

After his White House conference, Kilgore told a reporter he informed the president that the "miners in West Virginia are not getting enough food, and the situation must be improved immediately."

The senator said Mr. Truman promised to ask Secretary of Agriculture Anderson to investigate the possibility of having food allocated directly to the mining areas.

Kilgore added that he showed the president "several letters from mine locals in West Virginia in which the spokesman said that the miners could not continue working in the pits unless they got more food." He said he had received scores of similar letters and that he knew from "first hand investigation that the situation has not been exaggerated."

Kilgore said he also discussed with the president the disposition of surplus property.

The president, he added, said he favored a suggestion by Kilgore to establish an office in West Virginia to handle applications from West Virginians. The president was quoted as saying he would discuss the matter with officials.

Kilgore said there "has been a lot of justifiable criticism about the manner the regional offices have been handling surplus property."

Joseph Hinebaugh Plans To Build Hotel In Oakland

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND, July 8—Permission to build a produce house, a residence, and a request for some drainage work to make way for the erection of a hotel in Oakland, were considered by the mayor and city council when they met in regular session last week.

Joseph Hinebaugh appeared before the council in reference to some drainage necessary on his lot, corner of Crook and Third streets, upon which he plans to erect a modern hotel as soon as material becomes available. Some storm drains of the town now make it swampy during rainy weather, and Hinebaugh was assured that the matter would be looked after as soon as the state roads commission makes a decision as to the permanent location of Route 219 and grade levels are established.

Hinebaugh is planning to erect a four-story hotel of 50 or more bedrooms and baths. Architects are now completing the plans but no definite time has been set for the start of construction work.

The council also granted Emeric Dusic permission to erect a two-story produce house, 56 by 60 feet, of concrete block, with composition roof, at his property on High street extended. Permission was also granted to Leslie Baker to build a residence, 30 by 32 feet on his lot, corner of Seventh and Reese streets.

The clerk-collectors' report showed receipts for June to be $4,387.14, and monthly bills amounted to $2,852.45. The Sunday movie tax for June amounted to $118.30.

Construction Work Started On New Community Hospital At Meyersdale

By W. A. SHOEMAKER

MEYERSDALE, Pa., July 8 — Construction work has been started on the Meyersdale Community hospital, which was delayed more or less by the rainy weather. William G. Baltzer, of Shanksville, is the contractor in charge, of all phases pertaining to the erection of the building. He has a crew of skilled workmen to do the brick and tile work as soon as the concrete foundation has been completed.

Philip Reich, hospital engineer, is in charge of employment and of all materials. Several temporary buildings have been erected on the hospital site for the storage of tools and materials and for office purposes. A telephone will be installed as soon is possible. Reich is interested in hiring skilled and unskilled labor, and application should be made immediately at the office maintained on the hospital premises.

All excavations have been completed by the Salisbury Construction Company of Meyersdale. The brick and tile needed for the building were placed on order some time ago at the Otto Tile and Brick works, of Springs, and will be transported to the location in the near future. The board of directors of the hospital avoided the possible increase in price of steel and lumber by placing orders for these materials.

The funds have been contributed in large and small amounts by the people of Meyersdale, Salisbury, Garrett, Berlin, Grantsville and all surrounding and intervening territory.

Passeau To Oppose Feller In All-Star Game

Record Gate Is Established For 13th Contest In Boston

$105,000 Is Realized From Sale Of 34,000 Pasteboards

NEWHOUSER, CHANDLER WILL FOLLOW FELLER

Sewell And Pollet May Get Call; Americans Favored To Win

By GAYLE TALBOT

BOSTON, July 8 (AP)—Bob Feller, Cleveland's great star, and Claude Passeau, veteran Chicago Cubs' righthander who pitched a one-hitter against Detroit in the last world series, were nominated today to square off at the start of the 13th annual All-Star game between the American and National leagues tomorrow at Fenway park.

Baseball fans set a record in advance of the game, Earl Hilligan, publicity director of the American League, announced that $105,000 was realized from the sale of approximately 34,000 tickets, surpassing the previous gate record of $98,892 in the 1935 game at Cleveland.

Manager Steve O'Neill of the American leaguers announced that Feller, the game's leading strikeout artist, would be followed after three innings by Hal Newhouser of the Detroit Tigers, with Spud Chandler of the Yankees blazing them across in the last three frames—providing that everything goes according to schedule.

Sewell May Get Call

Charley Grimm, who will mastermind the underdog Nationals, apparently had not decided which members of his somewhat indistinguished staff would work the second and third three-inning stints, but most of the observers were delegating Rip Sewell of Pittsburgh and Howie Pollet of the St. Louis Cardinals to continue the heroic task of trying to keep the power-laden American League line-up quiescent.

Heroic appeared to be the word, for the starting line-up given out by O'Neill was one calculated to make any pitcher quail, although Joe DiMaggio and Hank Greenberg were missing. Joe renewed an old knee injury yesterday, while Hank, for some reason, was not chosen for the American League All-Star squad.

Boston Gets Four Places

Four members of the fabulous Red Sox, Boston's own pride and joy, were packed within the first five places in O'Neill's batting order. Dominick DiMaggio in centerfield will lead off, followed by Shortstop Johnny Pesky and Ted Williams, greatest of modern batters, in left field. Charley Keller, whose home-run bat has done much to keep the Yankees in sight of the Red Sox, was honored with the fourth, or clean-up spot, but another Sox star, Second Baseman Bobby Doerr, was assigned fifth place.

Three St. Louis Cardinals were tapped by Grimm for his starting lineup—Red Schoendienst at second, Whitey Kurowski at third and Marty Marion at short—while only one member of the league leading Brooklyn Dodgers, the phenomenal Dixie Walker, was chosen to open the game. Del Ennis, sensational young outfielder of the Philadelphia Nationals, was the only rookie picked to start on either side.

Ironically, the sixth place New York Giants gained two places in the National League line-up. Walker Cooper, the $175,000 number, was chosen to catch Passeau, and Johnny Mize, the league's leading homerun knocker, will start on first.

Americans Are Favored

While the National League club will be no slouch and potentially packs a good wallop at the plate, it simply does not stack up with the Americans on paper, either in pitching or batting, and there is no reason to doubt that the 3-to-1 odds being quoted against the senior circuit are just about right. As this will be a "home" game for the American League, the National will be first at bat.

Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler will meet with the rival managers and the umpires at 10 a. m. tomorrow to thresh out the rules and regulations for the big game. Following are the starting line-ups:

American League
D. DiMaggio (Boston)	CF
Pesky (Boston)	SS
Williams (Boston)	LF
Keller (New York)	RF
Doerr (Boston)	2B
Vernon (Washington)	1B

Vernon Increases Swat Mark To .364

Williams Yields Second Place To Teammate Dom DiMaggio

CHICAGO, July 8 (AP)—Pace-setter Mickey Vernon of the Washington Senators climbed six points to .364 in the American League batting race last week, increasing his margin to 15 points.

Ted Williams of Boston, collecting only seven hits in 26 trips, slumped eight points to .347 and yielded the runner-up spot to teammate Dom DiMaggio, who spurted 14 points to .349.

Williams, still the leader in runs with 82 and home runs with 23, moved into a tie with colleague Bobby Doerr in runs-batted-in with 72. Vernon replaced Doerr as the leader in hits with 96 and continued to set the pace in two-baggers with 27.

Charley Keller of New York moved up with Edwards in the three-bagger department with seven, while George Case of Cleveland kept in front as the No. 1 pilferer with 15 thefts.

Southpaw Hal Newhouser of Detroit celebrated his appearance as the Tigers' only All-Star representative by taking over the pitching lead with a 16-3 record. Blazin' Bob Feller of Cleveland whiffed 16 to raise his amazing strike-out total to 190.

East Side helped the Delicatets to gain a full game lead by turning back the Williams Street Merchants for the second time in as many days by the score of 6-4 at East Side field.

In other games played yesterday, the North End Social Club, behind the stellar pitching of Bob Stallings, trounced Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion, 10-0, at Community Park, while Keegan's Jupers were extended nine innings to eke out a 9-8 decision over Henry Hart Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars on the Rolling Mill diamond.

"Chuck" Aman was on the firing line for Skipper Goodrich's outfit and marked up his seventh win against four setbacks. Lamar "Moose" Minnick, who played first base and centerfield for East Side, handled eight chances without a slipup. Underdonk homered for Williams Street in the third frame.

Scoring two runs in the ninth inning after the opposition had taken a one-run lead in the upper half of the same frame, Keegan's Jupers edged V. F. W. Bill "Shad" Hunt with a double and single led the Jupers' 12 hit attack. Green, of VFW, belted a home run in the second inning.

Barons Get Hopper

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 8. (AP)—The Birmingham Barons today acquired Pitcher James Hopper on option from the Pittsburgh Pirates and obtained Catcher Herbert Crompton on similar terms from Toronto of the International League.

Hopper, a 15-game winner with Toronto in 1943, entered the armed forces at the end of that season and cannot be added to the Baron roster until National League clubs have had a chance to take him on waivers. He is 26 years old and a righthander.

THE BOBBY FELLERS ARRIVE

ALL SMILES and "rarin' to go" is Bobby Feller, pitching ace of the Cleveland Indians, who will open tomorrow's All-Star game on the mound for the American League at Fenway Park, Boston, after arrival yesterday with Mrs. Feller. Bobby will oppose Claude Passeau, of the Chicago Cubs, for at least the first three innings of the major league classic.

Beau Jack Stops Angott In Sixth At Washington

Sammy Fails To Answer Bell For 7th Round Due To Leg Cramp

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP)—Beau Jack, former Georgia bootblack, technically knocked out Sammy Angott, Washington, Pa., tonight in the sixth round of a rough and tumble bout at Griffith Stadium.

Angott did not answer the bell for the seventh round of the scheduled ten-round fight. His seconds said he suffered a leg cramp from kidney punches in the fifth and sixth rounds. Angott claimed the blows low, but the referee took no action.

The two former world lightweight champions, who boxed a draw in New York two years ago, fought tonight as if the world championship were at stake. Nothing appeared to be barred, as they wrestled, pushed, and slugged all round the ring and through the ropes half a dozen times.

Angott, 31 years old, spotted Jack six years and this difference began to tell in the fifth round after Angott had staged his best rally in the fourth by scoring two knockdowns of one and three counts respectively.

Jack, who floored Angott for a two-count in the second round, was a wildcat in the fifth and sixth. He had Angott badly beaten when Sammy decided not to continue.

The bout, highlighting Washington's outdoor season, attracted 10,353 spectators who paid a gross gate of $41,028. Jack weighed 142 and Angott 143.

Yarosz Whips Brown

CLEVELAND, July 8 (AP)—Tommy Yarosz of Monaca, Pa., put an end to the comeback victory string of 30-year-old Mose Brown of Pittsburgh tonight in Cleveland Stadium, out-pointing the veteran easily in a not-too-interesting bout which drew generous rounds of boos from the fans. Yarosz weighed 166, and Brown 172.

A crowd of 6,012 paid $17,116 to see the scrap, in which the heaviest action came in the second round when the gladiators bumped heads in mid-ring, dazing both. A bump the size of a pigeon egg raised on Brown's forehead immediately, and at the finish it was as big as an indoor baseball. Yarosz, brother of former Middleweight Champion Ted Yarosz showed only a slight red mark on his forehead.

Brown's purse was held up by the Cleveland Boxing Commission for what they termed an unsatisfactory performance and a hearing will be held tomorrow to determine whether Brown shall be paid.

DeMolay scored its fourth victory in its last six starts yesterday by cooling off a red hot Mapleside outfit by the score of 4-3 in a Midget Baseball League game at Stitcher field.

The win tied DeMolay with the losers for fourth place.

Charlie Hammaker's single scoring Harold Bishop and Gary Moler with the third and fourth runs in the initial frame was the deciding blow. Richards blanked DeMolay after the first inning and fanned seven.

Mapleside rallied for two runs in the seventh but the rally died with Whitacre on first as Martin and O'Toole fanned.

Ray Stevenson struck out eleven to chalk up his first league triumph. Box:

INJURIES KEEP REESE, REISER, DIMAGGIO, MILLER ON SIDELINES

Other All-Star Contest Nominees May Remain Idle Today

By JOE REICHLER

BOSTON, July 8 (AP) — The scratching of Harold "Pee Wee" Reese, brilliant shortstop of the Brooklyn Dodgers, from tomorrow's all-star game climaxed an unprecedented series of injuries today to all-star nominees of both the National and American leagues that has already caused four players to withdraw with several others contemplating asking to be excused from active participation.

PEE WEE REESE
Dodgers

Reese, an 11th hour withdrawal, who suffered a chipped vertebra in his neck in yesterday's game with the Boston Braves here, joins teammate Pete Reiser, Cincinnati's Eddie Miller and the New York Yankees' Joe DiMaggio in the list of players excused from this, the 13th all-star "dream game" between the elite of the two major leagues.

Reiser, one of the four Dodgers selected, begged out a week ago because of a torn muscle in his right shoulder and was replaced by First Baseman Frank McCormick of the Philadelphia Phillies. About the same time, Shortstop Eddie Miller of the Cincinnati Reds asked to be excused because of a previous injury to his right arm and his place was taken by Emil Verban of the Phillies.

Yesterday, Joe Di Maggio strained a cartilage in his left knee. It was announced that he would be unable to play, and because of the time element no replacement could be summoned at such short notice.

Other all-star nominees who may not see action due to previous injuries include Phil Cavarretta of the Chicago Cubs, who returned to action in a pinch hit role only last Saturday after missing a dozen games because of a leg injury; Bobby Doerr of the Boston Red Sox, out with a split right thumb; Bill Dickey, catcher-manager of the New York Yankees, sidelined by an injured foot, and McCormick, still bothered by a swollen right wrist he sprained three weeks ago.

NBA Prexy Calls For "New Deal" In Fight Game

Urges Removal Of Boxing From Cash Register Class

PATERSON, N. J., July 8 (AP)—The National Boxing Association announced its regular quarterly ratings today and President Abe J. Greene blamed the shortage of championship talent on promoters who pay too much attention to "high price tickets and record gates."

Bmy Conn

The NBA moaned that "boxing has less championship timber in most of its classes than in many years." As evidence, Greene pointed to the new listings which show no "logical contenders" for Joe Louis' heavyweight championship. Billy Conn was dropped to fourth place among the "honorable mentions" as a result of his eight-round knockout by Louis last month, while Tami Mauriello and Jersey Joe Walcott headed the parade back of the Brown Bomber under the heading of "outstanding boxers."

The veteran NBA head and newspaper editor called for "a new deal which will take boxing out of the cash register class and restore it to competitive sport."

"Most of the blame for this condition stems from New York," he went on, pointing to the recent Conn-Louis rhubarb as an example. "There is only one cure for this, and that is to forget concentration on high-priced tickets and record gates and pay more attention to giving the up-and-coming youngsters a chance."

With the recent settlement of the featherweight fuss, the ratings showed only one dual championship still on the lists—the lightweights, in which Ike Williams is the NBA boss and Bob Montgomery has the New York and Pennsylvania commission blessing. Greene urged Pennsylvania Commission Chairman Leon Rains to try to get the match for Philadelphia.

The ratings:

LIGHT-HEAVYWEIGHTS — Champion, Gus Lesnevich, Cliffside, N. J.; logical contenders, Ezzard Charles, Cincinnati; Billy Fox, Philadelphia; outstanding boxers, Billy Smith, Los Angeles; Archie Moore, St. Louis; Lloyd Marshall, Los Angeles.

Dixie Walker Hits Ball At .368 Clip

Johnny Hopp Is Second In National; Kush Heads Hurlers

NEW YORK, July 8 (AP) — The batting pace of Dixie Walker, the man who can do no wrong in Brooklyn, fell off four points during the week but his .368 average is good enough to lead the National League swatters, this time with a five point margin.

A week ago Walker was out in front with an 11 point bulge but the hit-blight that shrunk his average also struck Stan Musial of St. Louis with the result that the Card handyman yielded his runner-up honors to Johnny Hopp of the Boston Braves.

In other departments Musial continued to set the pace in runs scored with 57 and Walker retained the honors in runs batted in with 64.

The two are one-two in hits with Musial still out in front, 105 to 99 and share the leadership in triples with seven each. Musial, however, is the kingpin in the manufacturing of doubles, having slapped two-baggers 24 times.

Emil Kush of the Cubs and Kirby Higbe of the Dodgers, exchanged places in the pitching department.

Neither had been defeated a week ago but during the past seven days the Chicago hurler was knocked off once while Higbe was stopped twice. The former now has a 6-1 total with the Dodger ace right behind him with a 8-2 ranking.

Legion Noses Out WOW Tossers, 3-2

Hits By Kegg And Byer Win Game; Caseys Meet Elks Today

Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion, which has the habit of knocking off the leading contenders, added another victim to its growing list when it turned back the Woodmen of the World in a Rocking Chair Softball League game yesterday at Campobello by the score of 3-2.

The Legionnaires, who nosed out the Elks, 4-3, and the Outdoor Club, 3-2, in recent games, won yesterday's battle in the seventh and final inning when Suter Kegg, the Evening Times sports writer, banged out a two-bagger, and toddled home with the deciding marker on Stanton Byer's bingle down the third base line. The run broke a 2-2 deadlock and concluded a pitching duel in which Robert "Sparky" Chisholm and Aldridge engaged.

It was the sixth win against eight losses for the Legion and the fifth setback for the Woodmen against nine victories.

Misjudged fly balls accounted for both of the W.O.W. tallies.

Dellie Proudfoot featured by backing against the left field fence to spear Chisholm's drive that had an extra base label attached.

The Loyal Order of Moose won by forfeit from the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce when the former was unable to field a team. It was the third straight game forfeited by the Juniors.

Five games are scheduled for today in the league. The undefeated K. of C. will play the Elks at East Side, Outdoor Club faces WOW on the Rolling Mill diamond, Potomac Edison and Legion tangle at Campobello, Texcel opposes the Moose at Taylor field and the K. of P. meets the Jaycees at Fort Hill. Yesterday's score by innings.

Riggs, Budge, Perry And Bill Tilden Win In Pro Net Tourney

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., July 8. (AP)—Bobby Riggs, the top-seeded towhead from Los Angeles, began his quest for his first title since turning pro in 1942 with an effortless second-round victory over Roy Miller of New York, 6-2, 6-1, 6-1, in the National Professional Grass Court championships today at the West Side Tennis Club.

Don Budge, ranked second, the only player in history to win the American, British, French and Australian championships in one year—in 1938 as an amateur—moved into the second round when he thrashed Jim McDougal of New York, 6-1, 6-2, 6-0.

Fred Perry of Las Vegas, Nev., No. 4, was not extended in putting out George Lott of Sewickley, Pa., 6-2, 6-1, 6-2. Big Bill Tilden of Philadelphia, however, had to be at his best to get past Bob Murray of New York, 7-5, 6-2, 6-8, 6-4, to gain the third round.

Sayne Sabin of Reno, Nev., No. 6, and Frank Goeltz of Washington, D. C., also went into the third round.

Five Of Mauk's Boxers Land Bouts July 18; Team Gets Portage Matches Aug. 14

Vance Sinclair, lightweight ace of the Zan Athletic Club, Morgantown, W. Va., and Jimmie Catanese, local 132-pounder, will renew their ring feud on Thursday, July 18, when they clash in the top three-round bout of an amateur show to be presented under the auspices of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at the Grafton, W. Va., ball park.

Catanese will represent the South Cumberland Athletic Club, managed by Presley W. "Red" Mauk, who hopes to land matches for four other boys on the Grafton program, namely, Pat Murphy, 120; Marty Mull, 116; Bobby Goss, 104, and either Bobby Meyers or Jimmie Brown, 132-pounders.

Sinclair and Catanese put on a thrilling fight for the American Legion here several months ago and the fur is sure to fly when they swap punches in a return go.

Mauk also announced last night that his boxers will show their wares in an amateur show scheduled for August 14 at Portage, Pa. In the main event, set for five rounds, Jimmy Rizer, 142-pounder, of Wiley Ford, and formerly of the navy, will try conclusions with Terry Klemens.

Jimmie Brown, local colored lightweight, will face Ted Metger, of Johnstown, in a four-rounder and Jimmie Catanese will collide with Ray Withers in three heats. Mauk also hopes to get matches for Bill Frazee, local colored middleweight, and Pat Murphy.

Mauk's summer circuit tourists are in demand and "Red" found it necessary to turn down an invitation for his boys to fight in Johnstown, Pa., July 12. His team also has been invited to appear in an Ebensburg, Pa., show July 19, the day following its appearance in Grafton.

The South Enders have appeared in three out-of-town shows this season—two at Ebensburg and one at Windber.

Phils Cop Exhibition

VALLEY FORGE, Pa., July 8. (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies today won a 9-4 triumph over a Valley Forge General Hospital team made up largely of hospital patients and staff personnel.

Ben Chapman and Schoolboy Rowe, respectively manager and pitcher for the Phils, joined the hospital lineup for a while. Chapman, after playing second base for his own team for five innings, switched to the hospital mound. Rowe played left field for the Soldiers.

Webb Scores TKO

BROOKLYN, July 8 (AP)—Danny Webb, 128½, of Montreal, making his second appearance in the United States, won on a technical knockout at the end of the sixth round tonight in a scheduled 10-round bout with Lew Transparenti, 131, of Baltimore, at Coney Island Velodrome.

Webb had scored four knockdowns before the referee ruled that Transparenti, who had been cut badly over his right eye, could not come out for the seventh round.

Passeau To Oppose Feller In All-Star Game

By GAYLE TALBOT

BOSTON, July 8 (AP)—Bob Feller, Cleveland's great star, and Claude Passeau, veteran Chicago Cubs' righthander who pitched a one-hitter against Detroit in the last world series, were nominated today to square off at the start of the 13th annual All-Star game between the American and National leagues tomorrow at Fenway park.

Baseball fans set a record in advance of the game. Earl Hilligan, publicity director of the American League, announced that $105,000 was realized from the sale of approximately 34,000 tickets, surpassing the previous gate record of $98,892 in the 1935 game at Cleveland.

Manager Steve O'Neill of the American leaguers announced that Feller, the game's leading strikeout artist, would be followed after three innings by Hal Newhouser of the Detroit Tigers, with Spud Chandler of the Yankees blazing them across in the last three frames—providing that everything goes according to schedule.

Sewell May Get Call

Charley Grimm, who will mastermind the underdog Nationals, apparently had not decided which members of his somewhat indistinguished staff would work the second and third three-inning stints, but most of the observers were delegating Rip Sewell of Pittsburgh and Howie Pollet of the St. Louis Cardinals to continue the heroic task of trying to keep the power-laden American League line-up quiescent.

Heroic appeared to be the word, for the starting line-up given out by O'Neill was one calculated to make any pitcher quail, although Joe DiMaggio and Hank Greenberg were missing. Joe renewed an old knee injury yesterday, while Hank, for some reason, was not chosen for the American League All-Star squad.

Boston Gets Four Places

Four members of the fabulous Red Sox, Boston's own pride and joy, were packed within the first five places in O'Neill's batting order. Dominick DiMaggio in centerfield will lead off, followed by Shortstop Johnny Pesky and Ted Williams, greatest of modern batters, in left field. Charley Keller, whose home-run bat has done much to keep the Yankees in sight of the Red Sox, was honored with the fourth, or clean-up spot, but another Sox star, Second Baseman Bobby Doerr, was assigned fifth place.

Three St. Louis Cardinals were tapped by Grimm for his starting lineup—Red Schoendienst at second, Whitey Kurowski at third and Marty Marion at short—while only one member of the league leading Brooklyn Dodgers, the phenomenal Dixie Walker, was chosen to open the game. Del Ennis, sensational young outfielder of the Philadelphia Nationals, was the only rookie picked to start on either side.

Ironically, the sixth place New York Giants gained two places in the National League line-up. Walker Cooper, the $175,000 number, was chosen to catch Passeau, and Johnny Mize, the league's leading homerun knocker, will start on first.

Americans Are Favored

While the National League club will be no slouch and potentially packs a good wallop at the plate, it simply does not stack up with the Americans on paper, either in pitching or batting, and there is no reason to doubt that the 3-to-1 odds being quoted against the senior circuit are just about right. As this will be a "home" game for the American League, the National will be first at bat.

Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler will meet with the rival managers and the umpires at 10 a. m. tomorrow to thresh out the rules and regulations for the big game. Following are the starting line-ups:

American League
D. DiMaggio (Boston)	CF
Pesky (Boston)	SS
Williams (Boston)	LF
Keller (New York)	RF
Doerr (Boston)	2B
Vernon (Washington)	1B

Ossie Harris Scores Over Reuben Shank

PITTSBURGH, July 8 (AP)—Ossie (Bulldog) Harris, Pittsburgh, won a third and rubber bout over Cowboy Reuben Shank of Denver before 4,543 fans tonight in Zivic arena.

Harris started slowly, warmed up about the fifth round and went like a whirlwind the other five stanzas. Harris weighed 166½, Shank 167.

In other fights, Charley Eschman, 147, Cincinnati, won over Jackie Armitage, 148, New Kensington, Pa., (6); Eddie Hines, 118, Pittsburgh, decisioned Ozzie Peguese, 115, Youngstown, O., (6); and Henry Smith, 164, Charleroi, Pa., defeated Art Hardy, 159, Pittsburgh (6).

NAMED BY GRIMM

CLAUDE PASSEAU, ace righthander of the Chicago Cubs, who pitched a one-hitter against Detroit in 1945 world series, has been nominated by Manager Charley Grimm to start on the mound for the National League team in today's All-Star game with the American League at Fenway Park, Boston. The contest will get under way at 12:30 o'clock (EST).

McElwee Chosen Assistant Coach Of North Eleven

Romney Mentor Is Named As "Red" Brown's Aide For August Game

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 8 (AP)—The coaching staffs for the annual North-South scholastic football game at Laidley field August 16 were completed today with the selection of Richard (Dick) McElwee of Romney high school as an assistant northern mentor.

The Romney coach will be second assistant to Head Coach Robert N. (Red) Brown of the North. McElwee, a native of Marlinton, formerly played in the North-South game and formerly coached at Webster Springs high school.

Brown's other assistant is Tony Follo of Clarksburg's Washington Irving high. Head Coach Bill Weber of the South will be assisted by Roy Williams of East Bank and Stanley Huffman of Hinton.

The coaches and the 50 players will report for training at Fort Lee near Charleston on August 4.

McElwee, a former West Virginia university back, signed a contract with the Brooklyn Dodgers football team after leaving the Morgantown school but was forced to give up after a month due to a shoulder injury.

Vernon Increases Swat Mark To .364

Williams Yields Second Place To Teammate Dom DiMaggio

CHICAGO, July 8 (AP)—Pace-setter Mickey Vernon of the Washington Senators climbed six points to .364 in the American League batting race last week, increasing his margin to 15 points.

Ted Williams of Boston, collecting only seven hits in 26 trips, slumped eight points to .347 and yielded the runner-up spot to teammate Dom DiMaggio, who spurted 14 points to .349.

Williams, still the leader in runs with 82 and home runs with 23, moved into a tie with colleague Bobby Doerr in runs-batted-in with 72. Vernon replaced Doerr as the leader in hits with 96 and continued to set the pace in two-baggers with 27.

Charley Keller of New York moved up with Edwards in the three-bagger department with seven, while George Case of Cleveland kept in front as the No. 1 pilferer with 15 thefts.

Southpaw Hal Newhouser of Detroit celebrated his appearance as the Tigers' only All-Star representative by taking over the pitching lead with a 16-3 record. Blazin' Bob Feller of Cleveland whiffed 16 to raise his amazing strike-out total to 190.

Russ Crane Will Return As Richmond Mentor

RICHMOND, Va., July 8 (AP) — John Fenlon, director of Athletics at the University of Richmond announced today that Russ Crane, former All-America guard at Illinois and a University of Richmond line coach from 1935 to 1938, will return to the university this fall in the triple capacity of line coach, head track coach and member of the physical education department.

Crane, who has been at Ohio university, probably will assume his new duties when football practice begins the latter part of August.

O'Dell Stops McGraw

CHICAGO, July 8 (AP) — Buddy O'Dell, 158½, of Chicago, knocked out Otis McGraw, 154¼, of Detroit tonight in 2:25 of the eighth and final round before the season's record outdoor crowd of 3,246 at Marigold Gardens.

Jim Roby, the City Softball League's leading pitcher, bagged his thirteenth triumph of the season yesterday as Lacy's Delicatets registered their fourth straight win of the second half championship race over the Maccabees at Taylor field by the score of 8-5.

East Side helped the Delicatets to gain a full game lead by turning back the Williams Street Merchants for the second time in as many days by the score of 6-4 at East Side field.

In other games played yesterday, the North End Social Club, behind the stellar pitching of Bob Stallings, trounced Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion, 10-0, at Community Park, while Keegan's Jupers were extended nine innings to eke out a 9-8 decision over Henry Hart Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars on the Rolling Mill diamond.

Lacy's nicked the offerings of Cramblitt for nine safeties, including a homer by Lapp with Keller aboard and triples by Roby and "Snip" Hawse. Walter "Pooch" Orndorff and Lapp paced the attack with two hits each. Duncan and Breedlove shared four of the Vets' six blows.

East Side Wins in Third

A six-run explosion in the third inning, featured by Stottlemyer's triple with two on the paths, enabled East Side to humble Williams Street and snap the seven-game winning streak of Bill Underdonk, who was relieved by Decker in the fourth. "Chuck" Aman was on the firing line for Skipper Goodrich's outfit and marked up his seventh win against four setbacks. Lamar "Moose" Minnick, who played first base and centerfield for East Side, handled eight chances without a slipup. Underdonk homered for Williams Street in the third frame.

Scoring two runs in the ninth inning after the opposition had taken a one-run lead in the upper half of the same frame, Keegan's Jupers edged V. F. W. Bill "Shad" Hunt with a double and single led the Jupers' 12 hit attack. Green, of VFW, belted a home run in the second inning.

Parker Seeks Ninth Spring Lake Title

SPRING LAKE, N. J., July 8. (AP) —The Spring Lake invitation tournament will re-enter the national tennis picture tomorrow with Champion Frankie Parker seeking to pick up where he left off in the last tourney five years ago.

A hometown boy who always made good in the local competition, Parker has won the Spring Lake championship eight times, although he had to come from behind to catch Wayne Sabin in five sets in the 1941 final.

Now a Los Angeles resident, Parker comes here fresh from annexation of his fourth National Clay Courts crown taken yesterday at River Forest, Ill. He is topseeded.

Zale To Begin Training For Bout With Graziano

NEW YORK, July 8 (AP)—Middleweight Champion Tony Zale came in from Gary, Ind., today and after a brief stop to chat with sportswriters and Promoter Mike Jacobs, left for Pompton Lakes, N. J., to begin training for his title bout with Rocky Graziano at Yankee Stadium, July 25.

Zale said that he never had seen Graziano fight but he was not disturbed by talk of Rocky's punching power because he had won the N.B.A. middleweight title from Al Hostak, who was a faster, straighter puncher.

Barons Get Hopper

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 8. (AP) —The Birmingham Barons today acquired Pitcher James Hopper on option from the Pittsburgh Pirates and obtained Catcher Herbert Crompton on similar terms from Toronto of the International League.

Hopper, a 15-game winner with Toronto in 1943, entered the armed forces at the end of that season and cannot be added to the Baron roster until National League clubs have had a chance to take him on waivers. He is 26 years old and a righthander.

THE BOBBY FELLERS ARRIVE

ALL SMILES and "rarin' to go" is Bobby Feller, pitching ace of the Cleveland Indians, who will open tomorrow's All-Star game on the mound for the American League at Fenway Park, Boston, after arrival yesterday with Mrs. Feller. Bobby will oppose Claude Passeau, of the Chicago Cubs, for at least the first three innings of the major league classic.

Beau Jack Stops Angott In Sixth At Washington

Sammy Fails To Answer Bell For 7th Round Due To Leg Cramp

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP)—Beau Jack, former Georgia bootblack, technically knocked out Sammy Angott, Washington, Pa., tonight in the sixth round of a rough and tumble bout at Griffith Stadium.

Angott did not answer the bell for the seventh round of the scheduled ten-round fight. His seconds said he suffered a leg cramp from kidney punches in the fifth and sixth rounds. Angott claimed the blows low, but the referee took no action.

The two former world lightweight champions, who boxed a draw in New York two years ago, fought tonight as if the world championship were at stake. Nothing appeared to be barred, as they wrestled, pushed, and slugged all round the ring and through the ropes half a dozen times.

Angott, 31 years old, spotted Jack six years and this difference began to tell in the fifth round after Angott had staged his best rally in the fourth by scoring two knockdowns of one and three counts respectively.

Jack, who floored Angott for a two-count in the second round, was a wildcat in the fifth and sixth He had Angott badly beaten when Sammy decided not to continue.

The bout, highlighting Washington's outdoor season, attracted 10,353 spectators who paid a gross gate of $41,028. Jack weighed 142 and Angott 143.

Yarosz Whips Brown

CLEVELAND, July 8 (AP)—Tommy Yarosz of Monaca, Pa., put an end to the comeback victory string of 30-year-old Mose Brown of Pittsburgh tonight in Cleveland Stadium, out-pointing the veteran easily in a not-too-interesting bout which drew generous rounds of boos from the fans. Yarosz weighed 166, and Brown 172.

A crowd of 6,012 paid $17,116 to see the scrap, in which the heaviest action came in the second round when the gladiators bumped heads in mid-ring, dazing both. A bump the size of a pigeon egg raised on Brown's forehead immediately, and at the finish it was as big as an indoor baseball. Yarosz, brother of former Middleweight Champion Ted Yarosz showed only a slight red mark on his forehead.

Brown's purse was held up by the Cleveland Boxing Commission for what they termed an unsatisfactory performance and a hearing will be held tomorrow to determine whether Brown shall be paid.

DeMolay scored its fourth victory in its last six starts yesterday by cooling off a red hot Mapleside outfit by the score of 4-3 in a Midget Baseball League game at Stitcher field.

The win tied DeMolay with the losers for fourth place.

Charlie Hammaker's single scoring Harold Bishop and Gary Moler with the third and fourth runs in the initial frame was the deciding blow. Richards blanked DeMolay after the first inning and fanned seven.

Mapleside rallied for two runs in the seventh but the rally died with Whitacre on first as Martin and O'Toole fanned.

Ray Stevenson struck out eleven to chalk up his first league triumph. Box:

INJURIES KEEP REESE, REISER, DIMAGGIO, MILLER ON SIDELINES

By JOE REICHLER

BOSTON, July 8 (AP) — The scratching of Harold "Pee Wee" Reese, brilliant shortstop of the Brooklyn Dodgers, from tomorrow's all-star game climaxed an unprecedented series of injuries today to all-star nominees of both the National and American leagues that has already caused four players to withdraw with several others contemplating asking to be excused from active participation.

PEE WEE REESE
Dodgers

Reese, an 11th hour withdrawal, who suffered a chipped vertebra in his neck in yesterday's game with the Boston Braves here, joins teammate Pete Reiser, Cincinnati's Eddie Miller and the New York Yankees' Joe DiMaggio in the list of players excused from this, the 13th all-star "dream game" between the elite of the two major leagues.

Reiser, one of the four Dodgers selected, begged out a week ago because of a torn muscle in his right shoulder and was replaced by First Baseman Frank McCormick of the Philadelphia Phillies. About the same time, Shortstop Eddie Miller of the Cincinnati Reds asked to be excused because of a previous injury to his right arm and his place was taken by Emil Verban of the Phillies.

Yesterday, Joe Di Maggio strained a cartilage in his left knee. It was announced that he would be unable to play, and because of the time element no replacement could be summoned at such short notice.

Other all-star nominees who may not see action due to previous injuries include Phil Cavarretta of the Chicago Cubs, who returned to action in a pinch hit role only last Saturday after missing a dozen games because of a leg injury; Bobby Doerr of the Boston Red Sox, out with a split right thumb; Bill Dickey, catcher-manager of the New York Yankees, sidelined by an injured foot, and McCormick, still bothered by a swollen right wrist he sprained three weeks ago.

NBA Prexy Calls For "New Deal" In Fight Game

Urges Removal Of Boxing From Cash Register Class

PATERSON, N. J., July 8 (AP)—The National Boxing Association announced its regular quarterly ratings today and President Abe J. Greene blamed the shortage of championship talent on promoters who pay too much attention to "high price tickets and record gates."

Billy Conn

The NBA moaned that "boxing has less championship timber in most of its classes than in many years." As evidence, Greene pointed to the new listings which show no "logical contenders" for Joe Louis' heavyweight championship. Billy Conn was dropped to fourth place among the "honorable mentions" as a result of his eight-round knockout by Louis last month, while Tami Mauriello and Jersey Joe Walcott headed the parade back of the Brown Bomber under the heading of "outstanding boxers."

The veteran NBA head and newspaper editor called for "a new deal which will take boxing out of the cash register class and restore it to competitive sport."

"Most of the blame for this condition stems from New York," he went on, pointing to the recent Conn-Louis rhubarb as an example. "There is only one cure for this, and that is to forget concentration on high-priced tickets and record gates and pay more attention to giving the up-and-coming youngsters a chance."

With the recent settlement of the featherweight fuss, the ratings showed only one dual championship still on the lists—the lightweights, in which Ike Williams is the NBA boss and Bob Montgomery has the New York and Pennsylvania commission blessing. Greene urged Pennsylvania Commission Chairman Leon Rains to try to get the match for Philadelphia.

The ratings:

Babe Zaharias Ties Polly Riley in Golf Tourney at Denver

DENVER, July 8 (AP)—Babe Didrickson Zaharias of Denver, the favorite, and Polly Riley of Fort Worth, Tex., set the early pace in the qualifying round of the women's Trans-Mississippi tournament today with scores of 73, four under women's par for the Denver Country Club course.

Mrs. Zaharias played with WAC Capt. Pat Grant of Cushing, Okla., who carded an even par 77 for the third best score of the morning play. Miss Betty Haemerle, St. Louis city champion, went around with Miss Riley in 80 strokes.

The 250 women from 27 states were shooting for 32 places in 18-hole championship match play starting tomorrow. The 36-hole championship will be played Saturday.

Dixie Walker Hits Ball At .368 Clip

Johnny Hopp Is Second In National; Kush Heads Hurlers

NEW YORK, July 8 (AP) — The batting pace of Dixie Walker, the man who can do no wrong in Brooklyn, fell off four points during the week but his .368 average is good enough to lead the National League swatters, this time with a five point margin.

A week ago Walker was out in front with an 11 point bulge but the hit-blight that shrunk his average also struck Stan Musial of St. Louis with the result that the Card handyman yielded his runner-up honors to Johnny Hopp of the Boston Braves.

The two are one-two in hits with Musial still out in front, 105 to 99 and share the leadership in triples with seven each. Musial, however, is the kingpin in the manufacturing of doubles, having slapped two-baggers 24 times.

Neither had been defeated a week ago but during the past seven days the Chicago hurler was knocked off once while Higbe was stopped twice. The former now has a 6-1 total with the Dodger ace right behind him with a 8-2 ranking.

Legion Noses Out WOW Tossers, 3-2

Hits By Kegg And Byer Win Game; Caseys Meet Elks Today

Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion, which has the habit of knocking off the leading contenders, added another victim to its growing list when it turned back the Woodmen of the World in a Rocking Chair Softball League game yesterday at Campobello by the score of 3-2.

The Legionnaires, who nosed out the Elks, 4-3, and the Outdoor Club, 3-2, in recent games, won yesterday's battle in the seventh and final inning when Suter Kegg, the Evening Times sports writer, banged out a two-bagger, and toddled home with the deciding marker on Stanton Byer's bingle down the third base line. The run broke a 2-2 deadlock and concluded a pitching duel in which Robert "Sparky" Chisholm and Aldridge engaged.

The Loyal Order of Moose won by forfeit from the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce when the former was unable to field a team. It was the third straight game forfeited by the Juniors.

Five games are scheduled for today in the league. The undefeated K. of C. will play the Elks at East Side, Outdoor Club faces WOW on the Rolling Mill diamond, Potomac Edison and Legion tangle at Campobello, Texcel opposes the Moose at Taylor field and the K. of P. meets the Jaycees at Fort Hill. Yesterday's score by innings.

Riggs, Budge, Perry And Bill Tilden Win In Pro Net Tourney

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., July 8. (AP) —Bobby Riggs, the top-seeded towhead from Los Angeles, began his quest for his first title since turning pro in 1942 with an effortless second-round victory over Roy Miller of New York, 6-2, 6-1, 6-1, in the National Professional Grass Court championships today at the West Side Tennis Club.

Don Budge, ranked second, the only player in history to win the American, British, French and Australian championships in one year—in 1938 as an amateur—moved into the second round when he thrashed Jim McDougal of New York, 6-1, 6-2, 6-0.

Fred Perry of Las Vegas, Nev., No. 4, was not extended in putting out George Lott of Sewickley, Pa., 6-2, 6-1, 6-2. Big Bill Tilden of Philadelphia, however, had to be at his best to get past Bob Murray of New York, 7-5, 6-2, 6-8, 6-4, to gain the third round.

Sayne Sabin of Reno, Nev., No. 6, and Frank Goeltz of Washington, D. C., also went into the third round.

Five Of Mauk's Boxers Land Bouts July 18; Team Gets Portage Matches Aug. 14

Vance Sinclair, lightweight ace of the Zan Athletic Club, Morgantown, W. Va., and Jimmie Catanese, local 132-pounder, will renew their ring feud on Thursday, July 18, when they clash in the top three-round bout of an amateur show to be presented under the auspices of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at the Grafton, W. Va., ball park.

Catanese will represent the South Cumberland Athletic Club, managed by Presley W. "Red" Mauk, who hopes to land matches for four other boys on the Grafton program, namely, Pat Murphy, 120; Marty Mull, 116; Bobby Goss, 104, and either Bobby Meyers or Jimmie Brown, 132-pounders.

Sinclair and Catanese put on a thrilling fight for the American Legion here several months ago and the fur is sure to fly when they swap punches in a return go.

Mauk also announced last night that his boxers will show their wares in an amateur show scheduled for August 14 at Portage, Pa. In the main event, set for five rounds, Jimmy Rizer, 142-pounder, of Wiley Ford, and formerly of the navy, will try conclusions with Terry Klemens.

Jimmie Brown, local colored lightweight, will face Ted Metger, of Johnstown, in a four-rounder and Jimmie Catanese will collide with Ray Withers in three heats. Mauk also hopes to get matches for Bill Frazee, local colored middleweight, and Pat Murphy.

Mauk's summer circuit tourists are in demand and "Red" found it necessary to turn down an invitation for his boys to fight in Johnstown, Pa., July 12. His team also has been invited to appear in an Ebensburg, Pa., show July 19, the day following its appearance in Grafton.

The South Enders have appeared in three out-of-town shows this season—two at Ebensburg and one at Windber.

Majors Plan Winter Meeting on Coast

BOSTON, July 8. (AP)—The two major leagues meeting here today accepted an invitation from President Clarence Rowland of the Pacific Coast League to hold their mid-winter meeting in Los Angeles, concurrent with the minor league meeting to be held there Dec. 4-6. The last time the majors met on the west coast was in 1926, at Catalina Island.

Phils Cop Exhibition

VALLEY FORGE, Pa., July 8. (AP) —The Philadelphia Phillies today won a 9-4 triumph over a Valley Forge General Hospital team made up largely of hospital patients and staff personnel.

Ben Chapman and Schoolboy Rowe, respectively manager and pitcher for the Phils, joined the hospital lineup for a while, Chapman, after playing second base for his own team for five innings, switched to the hospital mound. Rowe played left field for the Soldiers.

Webb Scores TKO

BROOKLYN, July 8 (AP)—Danny Webb, 128½, of Montreal, making his second appearance in the United States, won on a technical knockout at the end of the sixth round tonight in a scheduled 10-round bout with Lew Transparenti, 131, of Baltimore, at Coney Island Velodrome.

Webb had scored four knockdowns before the referee ruled that Transparenti, who had been cut badly over his right eye, could not come out for the seventh round.

American forum of MBS at 8:30 has put this question up to its panel of guests, "Do we still need wartime government controls in our economy?"

Agreement Reached

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP) — House and Senate conferees agreed today on a billion dollar rivers and harbors bill.

They approved changes made by the Senate after the measure had passed the House. Approval on the floor by the two divisions will send the legislation to the White House.

Rep. Dondero (R-Mich) was voted down on his proposal to cut an authorization for the Ankansas river valley from $150,000,000 to $55,000,000. The estimated total cost of the Ankansas program is $435,000,000.

Agreement Reached

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP) — House and Senate conferees agreed today on a billion dollar rivers and harbors bill.

They approved changes made by the Senate after the measure had passed the House. Approval on the floor by the two divisions will send the legislation to the White House.

Rep. Dondero (R-Mich) was voted down on his proposal to cut an authorization for the Ankansas river valley from $150,000,000 to $55,000,000. The estimated total cost of the Ankansas program is $435,000,000.

SALESMAN

One of the oldest and largest national organizations is opening a division in Cumberland, and has opening for three topnotch men. Good character, intelligence, the energy and ambition to be successful are the requisites. We train you thoroughly, supply definite leads and give every needed cooperation. We want men who are looking for a successful lifetime position in a dignified and most worthy field. If you have real executive ability you can find your level with us. We have your opportunity. During 1945 a former N. C. County Superintendent of Schools earned over $6,500 in N. C. This was his first year with us. A former $35-per-week shoe clerk earned over $10,000 in N. C. A former school teacher earned $248 with us last week, which was his fourth week with us. Two recently discharged servicemen are earning an average of $140 per week in their initial training period with us. These records are open to anyone. We have numerous similar cases in various states. Our clientele is the finest. We require good representatives. I will be in Cumberland within two weeks to interview applicants. If you are appointed, I will personally demonstrate before you how simple it is to earn upwards from $150 per week with us. Please write, giving qualifications, address and telephone to:

B. & O. Employes Will Have Chance For Chest X-Rays

State Board Of Health Will Begin Program About July 15

By JOHN P. MOODY

Every employe of the Cumberland division of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad will be given an opportunity to have his chest X-rayed by a new portable machine operated by the Maryland Public Board of Health, Dr. William B. Baker, company medical examiner said yesterday.

The program, operated on a voluntary basis, is expected to begin in the local shops about July 15, and will be continued until every employe in the division, who desires, has had an X-ray made.

Dr. Baker said the mobile unit is expected to arrive here Thursday and state health department technicians will set the machines up in the shops, where employes will be given sufficient time off from work to have the X-rays made.

The program will be presented to employes this week following the final meeting between health officials and Roy W. Eves, superintendent of the bolt and forge shop, this morning at 10 o'clock. Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, county health officer, outlined the program yesterday to A. H. Bennett, superintendent of the back shops, and W. H. Longwell, master mechanic of the round house.

Requires Half Minute

Dr. Baker said actual work will require about a half a minute of each employes' time, since the machine will take an average of 75 pictures an hour.

Following this morning's meeting literature will be distributed in the three shops and employes will be presented with cards on which they will sign their names and social security numbers. These cards will be given the technicians when the picture is taken.

The mass chest X-ray examinations are being conducted by the Maryland Public Board of Health in an effort to combat tuberculosis, Dr. Baker said. He explained that many persons have the disease and do not know it until it is too late to be treated successfully.

When the X-rays of the B. and O. employes are made they will be read by public health technicians and if any irregularities show up the employe will be notified and the case turned over to a private physician for treatment.

Start In Shops

Dr. Baker said last night that the project has been approved by Charles W. VanHorne, vice president of the Baltimore section.

The examinations will be conducted in the three shops—bolt and forge, roundhouse, and backshops—first because it is more convenient to work with the large numbers, but the examination will be given to every staff member who desires it, Dr. Baker said.

The state technicians will be assisted in the work by county, and company medical assistants, Dr. Baker said.

Heads of the various departments of the local division said last night that the program had not been presented to employes, pending completion of the program, and they would not venture to say how many would take advantage of the X-ray examination. But one superintendent said such things are often objected to by the employes since they think it is a company set-up trying to determine the health of employes and fear furlough or discharge if they fail to pass the physical.

This examination, however, he explained, is not a company project. It is being conducted by the state health board in a fight against insipient tuberculosis, and the company is only making an effort to help by permitting the examinations to be made on company time and in the plants.

Expected In Other Industries

County health authorities yesterday indicated that the mass X-ray project would be attempted in other local industries as well. Edward R. Allan, personal director at the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America, said last night that the company will encourage its employes to take advantage of the free examination, but he doubted if any arrangements such as those being made at the B. and O. would be tried.

Dr. Baker described the X-ray machine as a small compact unit that can be moved about easily and set up almost any place that electrical connections can be made. He said the picture is very small, but permits a comprehensive study of the lungs. If any thing seems wrong, he said, a second picture will be made and the employe will be notified of his condition.

Man Who Hit Magistrate Appeals His Sentence

Bernard Kenny, Jr., Westernport, who was sentenced in trial magistrates' court here Friday, to serve six months in the Maryland House of Correction, on an assault charge, yesterday furnished bond of $500 and took an appeal.

Kenny was charged with striking and kicking Magistrate A. W. Determan, last week, in an alley off Main street, Westernport. Magistrate Determan had imposed a fine upon Kenny a few days earlier, it is claimed, and Kenny called him into the alley to discuss the case. The assault followed.

Joseph M. Fradiska Is Patient At Vets Hospital, Perry Point

Joseph M. Fradiska, 416 Cumberland street, well known local veteran of World War I, and Legionnaire, is a patient at the Veterans' hospital at Perry Point, and is reported "getting along fine."

He was admitted to Allegany hospital here Thursday but was moved to Perry Point Saturday.

Fradiska has been active in civic, political and veterans affairs in Cumberland and vicinity for the last 20 years or more and is well known locally.

17,692 Voters Cast Ballots in Primary Election June 24

A total of 17,692 ballots, less than 40 per cent of the 46,022 persons on the registration books, voted in the primary election on June 24, Patrick F. King, clerk to the board of election supervisors, reported yesterday.

Republicans cast 10,861 votes, or about 40 per cent of the 25,361 party members on the registration books. Democrats cast 6,831 votes, or about 30 per cent of the 20,361 party members registered.

It was estimated that the election costs would be about $12,000 and that the cost per vote would be slightly under $1. The county commissioners appropriated $30,000 for election expenses this year, but the general election in November will cost more than $15,000 since there are two registration days in October. There was only one registration day prior to the primary.

Vets May Get Higher Rated Celanese Jobs

Can Qualify For Better Ratings Which Opened In Absence

Veterans returning to jobs with the Celanese Corporation of America are entitled to promotions to higher-rated jobs which opened during their absence regardless of seniority, Arbitrator Robert E. Sher, of the United States Labor department ruled yesterday.

In making the ruling, the first of its kind in the United States, the arbitrator found for Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, which contended veterans were entitled to such promotions.

The veteran is entitled to the higher-rated job provided any such veteran has the qualifications for the higher-rated job after he is given a fair and equal opportunity to qualify, Sher said.

The seniority on the higher-rated job should be retroactive to the date when such a job originally opened. Any employe who is replaced by a veteran should be given credit with the time spent on the higher-rated job toward his seniority on the lower-rated job from which he came or to which he returns, Sher ordered.

The contention of the company that the question raised by the union concerning the right of men returning from the armed forces to obtain promotions by crossing seniority lines is not arbitrable under the collective bargaining agreements of September 30, 1945, was disallowed by Sher.

Quotes Agreement

Contract provisions between Local 1874 and the Celanese were quoted at length by Sher to support his finding on this point.

Sher also quoted the decision in the Fishgoid-Sullivan Drydock and Repair Corporation case in the U.S. Supreme Court at length. Fishgold sought a ruling for super-seniority but the high court disallowed his contention stating that all servicemen stepped back on the seniority "escalator" at the same point they left it when they entered service.

Was Usual Practice

The crossing of seniority lines prior to the war was admitted by one Celanese company official, according to Sher's written decision, and was the usual practice established by the company before the inclusion of the war clause.

"Even if the contract were interpreted as contended by the company, it is difficult to see whereby the company would benefit as the veteran would be entitled to the same rights under the Selective Service Act provisions on seniority," Sher stated in his findings.

The findings of the arbitrator were that there are 10,000 employes at the local plant with 27 divisions or departments which in turn have 220 sub-divisions. About 3,500 war veterans are now employed at the plant after serving in the armed forces.

Hearings in the arbitration were conducted here in April at the Court House with the findings to be final and binding on both parties, according to William Boyd Coleman, union president. I. Duke Avnet, Baltimore, was counsel for the union.

South End Boys' Club Plans Big Show And Parade

Plans are being formulated by the South End Boys' Club, sponsored by the South End Republican Club, Inc., for a street parade in South Cumberland and a stage show at the New theater, Virginia avenue for benefit of the Boys' club.

According to J. Millard Hughes, chairman of the sponsoring committee, a meeting of the Boys' club will be held Friday at 6:30 p. m. at Salvation Army Outpost gymnasium, at which time plans for the parade and show will be outlined.

There are 167 boys now registered as active members of the club and interest is growing, Hughes explained. The sponsors have a problem of keeping the boys interested and busy and are constantly planning new events and activities.

The street parade, tentatively scheduled for July 26, is to be a bicycle, pet and miniature float affair, with prizes to the winners in various divisions. Boys will be asked to enter decorated bicycles, floats built on their toy or miniature express wagons, scooters, etc., and to bring their pets.

On July 31, a public stage show is planned featuring a performance by O. D. Parrish, well known local magician, followed by a full length motion picture. Funds realized from the show will be used to help finance further activities for the boys, Hughes stated.

Hughes announced last night that it is now planned to hold a regular meeting of the club each Friday evening at the Outpost, to announce Saturday events and make plans for the following week.

Wife Says Mate Ignores Court's Alimony Order

James Griffith Is Directed To Answer Contempt Charge Saturday

Charging that her husband had failed to comply with a court order directing him to pay her alimony of $75 a month during divorce litigation, Mrs. Marguerite L. Griffith has filed a petition in circuit court asking that James W. Griffith be ordered to appear and show cause why he should not be adjudged in contempt.

An order signed by Chief Judge William A. Huster directs Griffith to appear at 10 a. m. Saturday.

Mrs. Griffith, who said she has received no money from her husband since the alimony order was passed May 22, declared that her husband's failure to pay is a "wilful attempt" to avoid payment. Estel C. Kelley is her attorney; Harold E. Naughton is counsel for Griffith.

In an answer to a bill of complaint for divorce filed by his wife, Ruth C. Shipe, by her father and next friend, Elmer E. Lewis, Robert Lee Shipe states that he is unable to comply with a court order to pay her counsel fee and temporary alimony of $20 a month.

Shipe, a World War II veteran, said his wife is able to support herself and pay her counsel fee, and that he is unemployed, is in ill health and is arranging to enter an army hospital. The answer points out that he was wounded while serving with the armed forces in Germany.

Mrs. Shipe, in her bill of complaint filed June 25, declared that she and her husband were married November 9, 1945, but that he deserted her April 25 this year. She said her husband obtained no divorce but that under the name of Lonnie Schipe he married another woman. Julius E. Schindler represents Shipe; Morgan C. Harris is attorney for Mrs. Shipe.

Patrick H. Griffin, Westernport, in an answer to the divorce action filed by his wife, Mrs. Bertha A. Griffin, has agreed to pay her $50 every two weeks, pending a decision in the case. She is represented by Edward J. Ryan.

Frank L. Williams, 887 Patterson avenue, was described as being in "good condition" last night by attaches at Memorial hospital. Williams was admitted to the hospital Sunday with a head injury. He reportedly was hit with a baseball while playing first base for the Fort Cumberland American Legion ball team Sunday in Mt. Savage.

City Building Permits Hit Highest Daily Mark In Last 23 Years

Eight Applicants Contemplate Construction Work Estimated At $8,930

The city engineer's office yesterday issued eight building permits, the most applications the office has handled in one day since May 14, 1923, Miss Inez Shoemaker, secretary, said.

Yesterday's permits represent a total of $8,930 worth of construction for new homes and improvements of present residences. The 1923 high day indicated that $10,360 would be paid for home erection and improvement.

Not even during an intervening building spree, caused by several building company projects did the total reach eight, but seven permits were issued on numerous occasions. The last time seven permits were issued was July 16, 1941.

Miss Shoemaker, who has been employed in the city engineer's office since 1932, was at a loss yesterday to explain the sudden surge in building. "Certainly it couldn't be the recent abandonment of OPA," she asked questioningly.

Comparison Cited

The record check also brought a comparison of recent months, when the average runs five or six a day, to the number of applications during the depression years of 1932 and '33. Most of those months showed totals of three or four permits being issued and a goodly number were blank.

Richard L. Linthicum, member of the local fire department, who resides at 300 Pulaski street, permit to enlarge the front porch 6 by 21 feet, work to be done by the owner at a cost of $200.

George Sykes, 805 Maryland avenue, permit to build a garage under his home at a cost of $350. Work is to be done by J. J. Grabenstein. It will require the erection of a concrete wall and closing in the sides with brick.

L. E. Meister, 919 Harding avenue, permit to close in first story rear porch and half of second story porch at a cost of $250. Work will be done by F. Jones and Son. The walls will be constructed of lumber and covered with imitation brick.

General Outdoors Advertising Company, permit to erect a bill board at 168 Wineow street. Certificates of approval by nearby residences were included with the application. The work will be done by the company at a cost of $50.

Will Build Home

John E. Werner, 128-129 Forster avenue, permit to build a one and one-half story five-room home. The first story will be of brick and the rest will be frame. The building will be erected on a 50 by 140 foot lot. Work will be done by A. L. Will at a cost of $6,000.

Harold G. Bolinger, 517 Maryland avenue, permit to build a two-car garage with a three-room apartment on the second floor. The building will be erected in the rear of his home and will cost $1,200. It will be built of concrete blocks with the second story frame. The roof will be covered with asphalt. W. A. McKenny and the owner will do the work.

W. O. King, 1011 Glennwood street, permit to build an additional room on the second floor of his home to be used as a bed room. The floor space will be 6 by 16 feet and the walls will be frame covered by imitation brick. Cost will be $80.

Lester B. Smith, 110 Mallin street, Mapleside, permit to build a three-room frame home on lot No. 347, Mapleside addition. The home is expected to cost $800. Work will be done by the owner. The lot has a 50 foot front with one side measuring 155 feet and the other 145 feet.

Avirett Avenue Woman Receives Divorce Decree

An absolute divorce has been granted to Mrs. Mary W. Lacy, 206 Avirett avenue, who declared that her husband, Robert J. Lacy, Harrison street, failed to make arrangements for her and their children when he was transferred here in his job from Winchester, Va., in 1944.

In the decree, signed in circuit court by Chief Judge William A. Huster, Mrs. Lacy received the custody of their two sons and Lacy was ordered to pay her $15 weekly for their support. He also was ordered to pay the costs of the proceedings.

Mrs. Lacy said they were married December 11, 1933, and lived in Cumberland for 10 years and Winchester one year. When her husband was transferred to Cumberland he made no arrangements for her or the children and said he did not intend to, Mrs. Lacy stated. Gorman E. Getty was her attorney and Harold E. Naughton represented Lacy.

Veteran Gets Divorce

Charging that his wife ran away with another man, Leonard Sirbaugh, 21, 440 North Centre street, a veteran of World War II, has been granted a divorce from Mrs. Velma Sirbaugh in a decree signed by Judge Huster. The wife was allowed to resume her maiden name, Velma Geatz. Edward J. Ryan was counsel for Sirbaugh.

Mrs. Zella Wilson has filed suit for an absolute divorce from Roy Wilson. She said they were married November 3, 1923, in Kitzmiller and lived together until January 6, this year. William L. Wilson, Jr., is her attorney.

Mrs. Edith B. Slaven Everhart, this city, has filed suit for a divorce from Reese A. Everhart, said to be a member of the armed forces. The wife, represented by Edwin M. Horchler, asks for the custody of their minor son. The couple were married December 18, 1944.

Asking a partial divorce, Mrs. Frances Ernestine Brown has filed suit against Charles Henry Brown, 166 North Mechanic street. Judge Huster ordered Brown to pay his wife $8 weekly alimony pending a decision in the case.

Wants Maiden Name

Mrs. Zelma Burkett, Cumberland, filed suit for an absolute divorce from George Burkett, and asks the right to resume use of her maiden name, Zelma Beverlin. Her attorney, Ryan, said they were married August 11, 1934, and lived together until July 1, this year.

Jarold C. Rice, this city, has filed suit for an absolute divorce from Mrs. Georgia H. Smith Rice, and also asks for the custody of a daughter, aged 10, and a son, 3. Her attorney, Ryan, said they were married in August, 1935, and lived together until May 6, this year.

Dora C. Ravenscroft has filed suit for divorce from Walter Ravenscroft. Grounds were not disclosed. Earl E. Manges is her attorney.

Requests Traffic Light

A blinker light in the vicinity of the YMCA to relieve traffic problems in the area was suggested by William Keegan, police commissioner, at the Monday council meeting.

Keegan, said he realizes that such equipment is hard to get at this time, but he asked that the light be installed as soon as possible.

Six Cumberland Men Suggested For Rent Board

Mayor Submits Names To O'Conor; Playground Work Is Requested

The names of six Cumberland representatives eligible for appointment to the fair rent committee were forwarded to Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor yesterday morning for his approval following the weekly meeting of the mayor and city council.

O'Conor wired Mayor Post Saturday asking for the names of eligible men to serve on the committee. The governor indicated that he will appoint a number of such committees in an attempt to maintain a reasonable rent level throughout the state.

H. W. Smith, secretary of the chamber of commerce, conferred with Post before the names were submitted.

Playground Aid Sought

Mrs. Paul G. Stakem, of 611 Sedgwick street, appeared before the Mayor and City Council today to inquire into the possibility of utilizing the 100 by 220 foot lot on the site of the Old Rustic Inn at the corner of Tilghman and School streets as a playground for young children.

Mrs. Stakem, who said over 250 West Side families in the neighborhood are interested in the project, said Allegany High's field has been taken over by the larger boys and that the smaller children have no place to play. Stating that money would be provided if the city could do the work, she proposed that a small swimming pool be built on the property and that other recreational equipment be installed.

Commissioner Myers G. Light said he regretted that his staff already is overloaded with work and will be unable to complete some of the playground projects already proposed for this year. However, Commissioner William Keegan told Mrs. Stakem he would inquire into the possibility of having the work done privately.

The proposed playground property is owned by the Board of Education and Mrs. Stakem said interested parents have received the board's permission to use the lot for the purpose proposed.

Wants Thoroughfare Closed

John M. Mattingly, 526 Lowell avenue, presented an interesting problem to the mayor and council in reporting that for some 20 years pedestrians and drivers have been using his property as a public thoroughfare. He inquired if he could close the thoroughfare so used.

While City Attorney Charles Z.

Rain Brings Brief Respite From Heat

A down-pour of rain, that started at 10 o'clock last night and continued for about a half-hour, brought some relief to Cumberlanders suffering from the heat.

Yesterday's high temperature reading atop city hall showed 95 degrees and at 4:30 o'clock the mercury had dropped only to 92.

Both Virginia avenue and West Side subways were flooded by the heavy half-hour rain last night, police reported, adding that the street department placed red lanterns at both entrances to the West Side subway, but shortly after the rain slowed to a steady fall the lanterns were removed.

Keegan Says Some Nice Things About Cumberland Streets

Police Commissioner William Keegan, turned things around yesterday when he had a few things to say about the narrow streets in Cumberland.

At least, the city isn't likely to attract holdup men like those who robbed the Century Athletic Club in Baltimore, Keegan said, because our streets are too narrow for them to make a quick getaway.

Any undue speed on local streets attracts immediate attention, Keegan pointed out, and most criminals try to avoid the Queen City. Keegan thinks it is for that reason.

But after he was through praising the man-made criminal block he asked for an additional $25,000 to increase the police force personnel and add two new cruiser cars.

A crime wave followed the last war, Keegan said, and it would be well to prepare for such things now. The Baltimore holdup is an example of what can happen, he pointed out.

Gas Company Workers Ratify Contract Offer

Garage Employes Will Form Union Group Here Next Tuesday

Workers of the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company here agreed last evening to a company proposal on a new contract for the 25 employes represented by Local 453, Teamsters and Chauffeurs Union, C. E. Stutzman, business agent, reported.

The new contract, to be effective until June 1, 1946, will be signed today, Stutzman said.

The union official said a wage increase offered by the company in connection with the renewal of the agreement and a wage boost granted in January will amount to approximately 18½ cents an hour increase for the workers.

One additional holiday and an additional week's vacation for workers with more than 20 years seniority will also be incorporated in the contract, Stutzman said.

The company proposal was submitted at a conference with company officials yesterday afternoon and ratified by members of the union yesterday at 8 p. m.

Stutzman said he knew of only one or two firms here which grant the additional week's vacation for veteran workers. The former contract called for a week's vacation after one year's service and two weeks after three years.

Garage employes of the Cumberland area will meet Tuesday, July 16, at 8 p. m. in Allegany Trades Council hall to set up a definite organization, C. E. Stutzman, business agent of Local 453, Teamsters and Chauffeurs Union, announced last evening.

The group, to become a unit of the Teamsters local here, will be composed of mechanics, grease and gasoline men, washers and all other garage employes, the union official said.

28 Boys Begin 3-Weeks Outing At Kiwanis Camp

Kiwanis members took 28 boys to Sunshine camp yesterday morning at 9 o'clock where they will spend three weeks living the outdoor life under the direction of B. F. Sherwood, camp director.

The boys were selected through co-operation of the Associated Charities and given physical examinations Friday by Dr. Winter R. Frantz, assistant county and city health officer and Dr. C. L. Owens, both members of the Kiwanis club.

Sherwood, who is beginning his second year as director of the camp, located on MacDonald terrace, said emphasis will be placed on handicrafts instead of athletic projects.

The boys were furnished camp equipment by the local Kiwanis club and will be cared for at the expense of the club during their three-weeks stay. Following the assignment of bunks yesterday morning the camp program got under way, for the three-weeks outing. Councilors for the camp are Calvin Mahaney and Jack Pierce.

Boys attending the camp are Carl Bible, Ronald Blake, James Bone, Paul Bowman, Norman Cage, Franklyn Crowe, Van Everett Crowe, Michael Evick, Roy Milton Cross, Henry Harbaugh, James Holle, George Holle, John Kylus.

David Hanekamp, Robert Hanekamp, Joseph McIntosh, Elbert Leatherman, Billy McCarthy, Paul Moore, Richard Moore, Kenneth Sisk, Gilbert Sisk, John Stewart, Robert Robertson, Jerry Robertson, James R. Twigg, Eugene Frantz and Melvin Knapp.

Following the three-week outing for the boys the Kiwanis club will sponsor a similar outing for 30 local girls. They will leave for camp July 29 and will also spend three weeks.

Reid Is Released On $10,000 Bond

Frank Sam Reid, 25, 300 block Greene street, charged with raping a local laundry office worker near Hagerstown two weeks ago, was released from the Washington county jail yesterday on bond of $10,000 for action of the November grand jury.

A deputy at the sheriff's office reported that Mr. and Mrs. John Tipton, Cumberland, uncle and aunt of Reid, appeared to furnish his bond. Reid, an ex-army lieutenant, saw action in the Pacific.

Little Interest Shown In Annual Legion Election

Less Than 17 Percent Of Membership Cast Their Ballots

Little interest was evidenced in the annual election of officers for Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, yesterday, according to Russell C. Paupe, post adjutant.

Polls were open from 1 p. m. until 9 p. m. and when polls closed only 306 of the 1,785 members had cast ballots.

A tabulation of votes was begun as soon as the polls closed, but no results on the election will be available until the meeting tonight at 8 o'clock. Paupe said last evening that according to the constitution and by-laws, no report on the election can be released until the first regular meeting of the organization following the election, and he refused to divulge any statement for publication.

Legionnaires who went to vote were handed two ballots. One, a white ballot, contained the names of candidates for various post offices. The other, a yellow form, contained 76 names of candidates for delegates to the Department convention. Of this number the voter was instructed to vote for 38.

A number of veterans of World War I, including a couple of candidates for office, expressed surprise at the lack of interest in the election, and said that a very small percentage of World War II men were voting.

The contest for post commander was between a veteran of each of the two World Wars. Phil Fleming represented World War II and Thomas R. Farrell, World War I.

The post of first vice-commander was sought by three candidates, John R. Kelly, Jr., Arthur Flurshutz and Ralph Wilkinson.

The offices of second vice commander, adjutant and financial officer were not contested, with John R. Sloan, Russell C. Paupe, and Leo C. Reichert, unopposed in that order.

William H. Treiber was also unopposed for historian.

John R. Neff and Stanton Byer were opponents for sergeant - at-arms, while Paul W. Weisenmiller, Joseph L. Wolf and Claude L. Deal sought the office of chaplain.

The only other contest was between Robert O. Bowers, Oscar Shober and William Miller for two seats on the executive committee.

Harry B. Simpson Is Named To Head LaVale Directors

Harry B. Simpson, local insurance man and realtor, was elected the first president of LaVale Civic Improvement Association last night, as 15 newly chosen directors met at LaVale Volunteer Firemen's hall to organize.

Fred Hawkins was elected vice-president and James Judy was chosen secretary-treasurer.

The directors discussed several problems of immediate interest of the organization and a number of committees are to be appointed within the next 10 days. The board will meet regularly every two months, and special meetings will be called at the discretion of the president. The annual meeting of members will be held the first Monday in April each year. Simpson indicated last night the next meeting of the board will be early in August.

Among problems and projects discussed last night were the shortage of water in LaVale; the problem of sanitation; and the proposed new bus terminal in the old Footer building here.

It was indicated that many of the residents of LaVale and most of the directors present last night, do not favor the idea of establishing a union bus terminal south of Baltimore street. Many LaVale people use the bus service, and there is general objection in that area, to having the bus station removed from the center of the city.

Members of the board said last night the matter will be investigated further and a committee named to study the problem. The committee may be instructed to call upon city officials of Cumberland to voice their protest.

Bottle Hurler Fined $25 By Magistrate

Tec. Sgt. Dudley Anderson, 26, Connelisville, Pa., charged with assault after he allegedly threw a whisky bottle from a third floor window of the Windsor hotel last Friday, was arraigned in trial magistrates' court and fined $25 and costs.

Anderson, a marine corps sergeant is stationed at Camp Lejeune, N. C., and was accused of hurling the bottle out the window on the night of his wedding. The bottle broke a window of a Shriver avenue bus and Miss Madeline Stallings, a passenger, was injured with flying glass.

Disposition of the case was delayed pending the seriousness of the young woman's injury. Anderson entered a plea of guilty.

Pool Staff Increased

The Constitution park pool staff was agumented by two additional employes yesterday when an extra clerk and life guard were hired, the mayor and city council revealed at the weekly meeting.

The clerk is Ruth L. Richards who was hired as an extra checker at a salary of $19.50 per week, and Andrew M. Lewis, Jr., will serve as the additional life guard at $23.50 per week.

Both appointments were requested by Commissioner Myers G. Light.

B. & O. Employes Will Have Chance For Chest X-Rays

State Board Of Health Will Begin Program About July 15

By JOHN P. MOODY

Every employe of the Cumberland division of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad will be given an opportunity to have his chest X-rayed by a new portable machine operated by the Maryland Public Board of Health, Dr. William B. Baker, company medical examiner said yesterday.

The program, operated on a voluntary basis, is expected to begin in the local shops about July 15, and will be continued until every employe in the division, who desires, has had an X-ray made.

Dr. Baker said the mobile unit is expected to arrive here Thursday and state health department technicians will set the machines up in the shops, where employes will be given sufficient time off from work to have the X-rays made.

The program will be presented to employes this week following the final meeting between health officials and Roy W. Eves, superintendent of the bolt and forge shop, this morning at 10 o'clock. Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, county health officer, outlined the program yesterday to A. H. Bennett, superintendent of the back shops, and W. H. Longwell, master mechanic of the round house.

Requires Half Minute

Dr. Baker said actual work will require about a half a minute of each employes' time, since the machine will take an average of 75 pictures an hour.

Following this morning's meeting literature will be distributed in the three shops and employes will be presented with cards on which they will sign their names and social security numbers. These cards will be given the technicians when the picture is taken.

The mass chest X-ray examinations are being conducted by the Maryland Public Board of Health in an effort to combat tuberculosis, Dr. Baker said. He explained that many persons have the disease and do not know it until it is too late to be treated successfully.

When the X-rays of the B. and O. employes are made they will be read by public health technicians and if any irregularities show up the employe will be notified and the case turned over to a private physician for treatment.

Start In Shops

Dr. Baker said last night that the project has been approved by Charles W. VanHorne, vice president of the Baltimore section.

The examinations will be conducted in the three shops—bolt and forge, roundhouse, and backshops—first because it is more convenient to work with the large numbers, but the examination will be given to every staff member who desires it, Dr. Baker said.

The state technicians will be assisted in the work by county, and company medical assistants, Dr. Baker said.

Heads of the various departments of the local division said last night that the program had not been presented to employes, pending completion of the program, and they would not venture to say how many would take advantage of the X-ray examination. But one superintendent said such things are often objected to by the employes since they think it is a company set-up trying to determine the health of employes and fear furlough or discharge if they fail to pass the physical.

This examination, however, he explained, is not a company project. It is being conducted by the state health board in a fight against insipient tuberculosis, and the company is only making an effort to help by permitting the examinations to be made on company time and in the plants.

Expected In Other Industries

County health authorities yesterday indicated that the mass X-ray project would be attempted in other local industries as well. Edward R. Allan, personal director at the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America, said last night that the company will encourage its employes to take advantage of the free examination, but he doubted if any arrangements such as those being made at the B. and O. would be tried.

Dr. Baker described the X-ray machine as a small compact unit that can be moved about easily and set up almost any place that electrical connections can be made. He said the picture is very small, but permits a comprehensive study of the lungs. If any thing seems wrong, he said, a second picture will be made and the employe will be notified of his condition.

Man Who Hit Magistrate Appeals His Sentence

Bernard Kenny, Jr., Westernport, who was sentenced in trial magistrates' court here Friday, to serve six months in the Maryland House of Correction, on an assault charge, yesterday furnished bond of $500 and took an appeal.

Kenny was charged with striking and kicking Magistrate A. W. Determan last week, in an alley off Main street, Westernport. Magistrate Determan had imposed a fine upon Kenny a few days earlier, it is claimed, and Kenny called him into the alley to discuss the case. The assault followed.

Joseph M. Fradiska Is Patient At Vets Hospital, Perry Point

Joseph M. Fradiska, 416 Cumberland street, well known local veteran of World War I, and Legionnaire, is a patient at the Veterans' hospital at Perry Point, and is reported "getting along fine."

He was admitted to Allegany hospital here Thursday but was moved to Perry Point Saturday.

Fradiska has been active in civic, political and veterans affairs in Cumberland and vicinity for the past 20 years or more and is well known locally.

17,692 Voters Cast Ballots in Primary Election June 24

A total of 17,892 ballots, less than 40 per cent of the 46,032 persons on the registration books, voted in the primary election on June 24, Patrick F. King, clerk to the board of election supervisors, reported yesterday.

Republicans cast 10,861 votes, or about 40 per cent of the 25,361 party members on the registration books. Democrats cast 6,831 votes, or about 30 per cent of the 20,361 party members registered.

It was estimated that the election costs would be about $12,000 and that the cost per vote would be slightly under $1. The county commissioners appropriated $30,000 for election expenses this year, but the general election in November will cost more than $15,000 since there are two registration days in October. There was only one registration day prior to the primary.

Vets May Get Higher Rated Celanese Jobs

Can Qualify For Better Ratings Which Opened In Absence

Veterans returning to jobs with the Celanese Corporation of America are entitled to promotions to higher-rated jobs which opened during their absence regardless of seniority, Arbitrator Robert E. Sher, of the United States Labor department ruled yesterday.

In making the ruling, the first of its kind in the United States, the arbitrator found for Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, which contended veterans were entitled to such promotions.

The veteran is entitled to the higher-rated job provided any such veteran has the qualifications for the higher-rated job after he is given a fair and equal opportunity to qualify, Sher said.

The seniority on the higher-rated job should be retroactive to the date when such a job originally opened. Any employe who is replaced by a veteran should be given credit with the time spent on the higher-rated job toward his seniority on the lower-rated job from which he came or to which he returns, Sher ordered.

The contention of the company that the question raised by the union concerning the right of men returning from the armed forces to obtain promotions by crossing seniority lines is not arbitrable under the collective bargaining agreements of September 30, 1945, was disallowed by Sher.

Quotes Agreement

Contract provisions between Local 1874 and the Celanese were quoted at length by Sher to support his finding on this point.

Sher also quoted the decision in the Fishgold-Sullivan Drydock and Repair Corporation case in the U.S. Supreme Court at length. Fishgold sought a ruling for super-seniority but the high court disallowed his contention stating that all servicemen stepped back on the seniority "escalator" at the same point they left it when they entered service.

Was Usual Practice

The crossing of seniority lines prior to the war was admitted by one Celanese company official, according to Sher's written decision, and was the usual practice established by the company before the inclusion of the war clause.

"Even if the contract were interpreted as contended by the company, it is difficult to see whereby the company would benefit as the veteran would be entitled to the same rights under the Selective Service Act provisions on seniority," Sher stated in his findings.

The findings of the arbitrator were that there are 10,000 employes at the local plant with 27 divisions or departments which in turn have 220 sub-divisions. About 3,500 war veterans are now employed at the plant after serving in the armed forces.

Hearings in the arbitration were conducted here in April at the Court House with the findings to be final and binding on both parties, according to William Boyd Coleman, union president. I. Duke Avnet, Baltimore, was counsel for the union.

South End Boys' Club Plans Big Show And Parade

Plans are being formulated by the South End Boys' Club, sponsored by the South End Republican Club, Inc., for a street parade in South Cumberland and a stage show at the New theater, Virginia avenue for benefit of the Boys' club.

According to J. Millard Hughes, chairman of the sponsoring committee, a meeting of the Boys' club will be held Friday at 6:30 p. m. at Salvation Army Outpost gymnasium, at which time plans for the parade and show will be outlined.

There are 167 boys now registered as active members of the club and interest is growing, Hughes explained. The sponsors have a problem of keeping the boys interested and busy and are constantly planning new events and activities.

The street parade, tentatively scheduled for July 26, is to be a bicycle, pet and miniature float affair, with prizes to the winners in various divisions. Boys will be asked to enter decorated bicycles, floats built on their toy or miniature express wagons, scooters, etc., and to bring their pets.

On July 31, a public stage show is planned featuring a performance by O. D. Parrish, well known local magician, followed by a full length motion picture. Funds realized from the show will be used to help finance further activities for the boys, Hughes stated.

Hughes announced last night that it is now planned to hold a regular meeting of the club each Friday evening at the Outpost, to announce Saturday events and make plans for the following week.

Wife Says Mate Ignores Court's Alimony Order

James Griffith Is Directed To Answer Contempt Charge Saturday

Charging that her husband had failed to comply with a court order directing him to pay her alimony of $75 a month during divorce litigation, Mrs. Marguerite L. Griffith has filed a petition in circuit court asking that James W. Griffith be ordered to appear and show cause why he should not be adjudged in contempt.

An order signed by Chief Judge William A. Huster directs Griffith to appear at 10 a. m. Saturday.

Mrs. Griffith, who said she has received no money from her husband since the alimony order was passed May 22, declared that her husband's failure to pay is a "wilful attempt" to avoid payment. Estel C. Kelley is her attorney; Harold E. Naughton is counsel for Griffith.

In an answer to a bill of complaint for divorce filed by his wife, Ruth C. Shipe, by her father and next friend, Elmer E. Lewis, Robert Lee Shipe states that he is unable to comply with a court order to pay her counsel fee and temporary alimony of $20 a month.

Shipe, a World War II veteran, said his wife is able to support herself and pay her counsel fee, and that he is unemployed, is in ill health and is arranging to enter an army hospital. The answer points out that he was wounded while serving with the armed forces in Germany.

Mrs. Shipe, in her bill of complaint filed June 25, declared that she and her husband were married November 9, 1945, but that he deserted her April 25 this year. She said her husband obtained no divorce but that under the name of Lonnie Schipe he married another woman. Julius E. Schindler represents Shipe; Morgan C. Harris is attorney for Mrs. Shipe.

Patrick H. Griffin, Westernport, in an answer to the divorce action filed by his wife, Mrs. Bertha A. Griffin, has agreed to pay her $50 every two weeks, pending a decision in the case. She is represented by Edward J. Ryan.

City Building Permits Hit Highest Daily Mark In Last 23 Years

Eight Applicants Contemplate Construction Work Estimated At $8,930

The city engineer's office yesterday issued eight building permits, the most applications the office has handled in one day since May 14, 1923, Miss Inez Shoemaker, secretary, said.

Yesterday's permits represent a total of $8,930 worth of construction for new homes and improvements of present residences. The 1923 high day indicated that $10,360 would be paid for home erection and improvement.

Not even during an intervening building spree, caused by several building company projects did the total reach eight, but seven permits were issued on numerous occasions. The last time seven permits were issued was July 16, 1941.

Miss Shoemaker, who has been employed in the city engineer's office since 1932, was at a loss yesterday to explain the sudden surge in building. "Certainly it couldn't be the recent abandonment of OPA," she asked questioningly.

Comparison Cited

The record check also brought a comparison of recent months, when the average runs five or six a day, to the number of applications during the depression years of 1932 and '33. Most of those months showed totals of three or four permits being issued and a goodly number were blank.

Yesterday's applicants included:

Richard L. Linthicum, member of the local fire department, who resides at 300 Pulaski street, permit to enlarge the front porch 6 by 21 feet, work to be done by the owner at a cost of $200.

George Sykes, 805 Maryland avenue, permit to build a garage under his home at a cost of $350. Work is to be done by J. J. Grabenstein. It will require the erection of a concrete wall and closing in the sides with brick.

L. E. Meister, 919 Harding avenue, permit to close in first story rear porch and half of second story porch at a cost of $250. Work will be done by F. Jones and Son. The walls will be constructed of lumber and covered with imitation brick.

General Outdoors Advertising Company, permit to erect a bill board at 168 Wineow street. Certificates of approval by nearby residences were included with the application. The work will be done by the company at a cost of $50.

Will Build Home

John E. Werner, 128-129 Forster avenue, permit to build a one and one-half story five-room home. The first story will be of brick and the rest will be frame. The building will be erected on a 50 by 140 foot lot. Work will be done by A. L. Will at a cost of $6,000.

Harold G. Bolinger, 517 Maryland avenue, permit to build a two-car garage with a three-room apartment on the second floor. The building will be erected in the rear of his home and will cost $1,200. It will be built of concrete blocks with the second story frame. The roof will be covered with asphalt. W. A. McKenny and the owner will do the work.

W. O. King, 1011 Glennwood street, permit to build an additional room on the second floor of his home to be used as a bed room. The floor space will be 6 by 16 feet and the walls will be frame covered by imitation brick. Cost will be $80.

Lester B. Smith, 110 Mallin street, Mapleside, permit to build a three-room frame home on lot No. 347, Mapleside addition. The home is expected to cost $800. Work will be done by the owner. The lot has a 50 foot front with one side measuring 155 feet and the other 145 feet.

Avirett Avenue Woman Receives Divorce Decree

An absolute divorce has been granted to Mrs. Mary W. Lacy, 206 Avirett avenue, who declared that her husband, Robert J. Lacy, Harrison street, failed to make arrangements for her and their children when he was transferred here in his job from Winchester, Va., in 1944.

In the decree, signed in circuit court by Chief Judge William A. Huster, Mrs. Lacy received the custody of their two sons and Lacy was ordered to pay her $15 weekly for their support. He also was ordered to pay the costs of the proceedings.

Mrs. Lacy said they were married December 11, 1933, and lived in Cumberland for 10 years and Winchester one year. When her husband was transferred to Cumberland he made no arrangements for her or the children and said he did not intend to, Mrs. Lacy stated. Gorman E. Getty was her attorney and Harold E. Naughton represented Lacy.

Veteran Gets Divorce

Charging that his wife ran away with another man, Leonard Sirbaugh, 21, 440 North Centre street, a veteran of World War II, has been granted a divorce from Mrs. Velma Sirbaugh in a decree signed by Judge Huster. Requests Traffic Light

Six Cumberland Men Suggested For Rent Board

Mayor Submits Names To O'Conor; Playground Work Is Requested

The names of six Cumberland representatives eligible for appointment to the fair rent committee were forwarded to Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor yesterday morning for his approval following the weekly meeting of the mayor and city council.

O'Conor wired Mayor Post Saturday asking for the names of eligible men to serve on the committee. The governor indicated that he will appoint a number of such committees in an attempt to maintain a reasonable rent level throughout the state.

H. W. Smith, secretary of the chamber of commerce, conferred with Post before the names were submitted.

Playground Aid Sought

Mrs. Paul G. Stakem, of 611 Sedgwick street, appeared before the Mayor and City Council today to inquire into the possibility of utilizing the 100 by 220 foot lot on the site of the Old Rustic Inn at the corner of Tilhman and School streets as a playground for young children.

Mrs. Stakem, who said over 250 West Side families in the neighborhood are interested in the project, said Allegany High's field has been taken over by the larger boys and that the smaller children have no place to play. Stating that money would be provided if the city could do the work, she proposed that a small swimming pool be built on the property and that other recreational equipment be installed.

Commissioner Myers G. Light said he regretted that his staff already is overloaded with work and will be unable to complete some of the playground projects already proposed for this year. However, Commissioner William Keegan told Mrs. Stakem he would inquire into the possibility of having the work done privately.

The proposed playground property is owned by the Board of Education and Mrs. Stakem said interested parents have received the board's permission to use the lot for the purpose proposed.

Rain Brings Brief Respite From Heat

A down-pour of rain, that started at 10 o'clock last night and continued for about a half-hour, brought some relief to Cumberlanders suffering from the heat.

Yesterday's high temperature reading atop city hall showed 95 degrees and at 4:30 o'clock the mercury had dropped only to 92.

Both Virginia avenue and West Side subways were flooded by the heavy half-hour rain last night, police reported, adding that the street department placed red lanterns at both entrances to the West Side subway, but shortly after the rain slowed to a steady fall the lanterns were removed.

Keegan Says Some Nice Things About Cumberland Streets

Police Commissioner William Keegan, turned things around yesterday when he had a few things to say about the narrow streets in Cumberland.

At least, the city isn't likely to attract holdup men like those who robbed the Century Athletic Club in Baltimore, Keegan said, because our streets are too narrow for them to make a quick getaway.

Any undue speed on local streets attracts immediate attention, Keegan pointed out, and most criminals try to avoid the Queen City. Keegan thinks it is for that reason.

But after he was through praising the man-made criminal block he asked for an additional $25,000 to increase the police force personnel and add two new cruiser cars.

A crime wave followed the last war, Keegan said, and it would be well to prepare for such things now. The Baltimore holdup is an example of what can happen, he pointed out.

Gas Company Workers Ratify Contract Offer

Garage Employes Will Form Union Group Here Next Tuesday

Workers of the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company here agreed last evening to a company proposal on a new contract for the 25 employes represented by Local 453, Teamsters and Chauffeurs Union, C. E. Stutzman, business agent, reported.

The new contract, to be effective until June 1, 1946, will be signed today, Stutzman said.

The union official said a wage increase offered by the company in connection with the renewal of the agreement and a wage boost granted in January will amount to approximately 18½ cents an hour increase for the workers.

One additional holiday and an additional week's vacation for workers with more than 20 years seniority will also be incorporated in the contract, Stutzman said.

The company proposal was submitted at a conference with company officials yesterday afternoon and ratified by members of the union yesterday at 8 p. m.

Stutzman said he knew of only one or two firms here which grant the additional week's vacation for veteran workers. The former contract called for a week's vacation after one year's service and two weeks after three years.

All workers exclusive of office and supervisory employes are members of the unit of Local 453, Stutzman said.

Garage employes of the Cumberland area will meet Tuesday, July 16, at 8 p. m. in Allegany Trades Council hall to set up a definite organization, C. E. Stutzman, business agent of Local 453, Teamsters and Chauffeurs Union, announced last evening.

The group, to become a unit of the Teamsters local here, will be composed of mechanics, grease and gasoline men, washers and all other garage employes, the union official said.

Over 100 workers attended an organization meeting for the group last evening at 8 o'clock in Teamsters hall.

Little Interest Shown In Annual Legion Election

Less Than 17 Percent Of Membership Cast Their Ballots

Little interest was evidenced in the annual election of officers for Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, yesterday, according to Russell C. Paupe, post adjutant.

Polls were open from 1 p. m. until 9 p. m. and when polls closed only 306 of the 1,785 members had cast ballots.

A tabulation of votes was begun as soon as the polls closed, but no results on the election will be available until the meeting tonight at 8 o'clock. Paupe said last evening that according to the constitution and by-laws, no report on the election can be released until the first regular meeting of the organization following the election, and he refused to divulge any statement for publication.

Legionnaires who went to vote were handed two ballots. One, a white ballot, contained the names of candidates for various post offices. The other, a yellow form, contained 76 names of candidates for delegates to the Department convention. Of this number the voter was instructed to vote for 38.

A number of veterans of World War 1, including a couple of candidates for office, expressed surprise at the lack of interest in the election, and said that a very small percentage of World War II men were voting.

The contest for post commander was between a veteran of each of the two World Wars. Phil Fleming represented World War II and Thomas R. Farrell, World War I.

The offices of second vice commander, adjutant and financial officer were not contested, with John R. Sloan, Russell C. Paupe, and Leo C. Reichert, unopposed in that order.

William H. Treiber was also unopposed for historian.

John R. Neff and Stanton Byer were opponents for sergeant - at-arms, while Paul W. Weisenmiller, Joseph L. Wolf and Claude L. Deal sought the office of chaplain.

The only other contest was between Robert O. Bowers, Oscar Shober and William Miller for two seats on the executive committee.

Harry B. Simpson Is Named To Head LaVale Directors

Harry B. Simpson, local insurance man and realtor, was elected the first president of LaVale Civic Improvement Association last night, as 15 newly chosen directors met at LaVale Volunteer Firemen's hall to organize.

Fred Hawkins was elected vice-president and James Judy was chosen secretary-treasurer.

The directors discussed several problems of immediate interest of the organization and a number of committees are to be appointed within the next 10 days. The board will meet regularly every two months, and special meetings will be called at the discretion of the president. The annual meeting of members will be held the first Monday in April each year. Simpson indicated last night the next meeting of the board will be early in August.

Among problems and projects discussed last night were the shortage of water in LaVale; the problem of sanitation; and the proposed new bus terminal in the old Footer building here.

It was indicated that many of the residents of LaVale and most of the directors present last night, do not favor the idea of establishing a union bus terminal south of Baltimore street. Many LaVale people use the bus service, and there is general objection in that area, to having the bus station removed from the center of the city.

Members of the board said last night the matter will be investigated further and a committee named to study the problem. The committee may be instructed to call upon city officials of Cumberland to voice their protest.

Bottle Hurler Fined $25 By Magistrate

Tec. Sgt. Dudley Anderson, 26, Connellsville, Pa., charged with assault after he allegedly threw a whisky bottle from a third floor window of the Windsor hotel last Friday, was arraigned in trial magistrates' court and fined $25 and costs.

Anderson, a marine corps sergeant is stationed at Camp Lejeune, N. C., and was accused of hurling the bottle out the window on the night of his wedding. The bottle broke a window of a Shriver avenue bus and Miss Madeline Stallings, a passenger, was injured with flying glass.

Disposition of the case was delayed pending the seriousness of the young woman's injury. Anderson entered a plea of guilty.

Pool Staff Increased

The Constitution park pool staff was agumented by two additional employes yesterday when an extra clerk and life guard were hired, the mayor and city council revealed at the weekly meeting.

The clerk is Ruth L. Richards who was hired as an extra checker at a salary of $19.50 per week, and Andrew M. Lewis, Jr., will serve as the additional life guard at $23.50 per week.

Both appointments were requested by Commissioner Myers G. Light.
